MAINE ELECTION RESULT DISMAYS G. O. P. AND DRYS

Democrats, Repeal Forces Jubilant.

Among primary results yesterday in various states was the victory of Congressman John Overton, backed by Huey P. Long, over Senator Broussard in Louisiana. Senator George H. Moses (Rep.) was renominated in New Hampshire. Gov. W. M. Brucker won renomination in Michigan. Senator E. D. Smith won a renomination in South Carolina against Cole Blease.

BY ARTHUR SEARS HENNING.

JAMES A. FARLEY.

For the first time in a presidential election year since 1880, Maine went Democratic in its September election and went predominantly wet for the first time since it became the pioneer prohibition—and bootlegger—state.

The Democratic candidate for governor, Mayor Louis J. Brann of Lewiston, was elected by a plurality of 1,337 on the face of nearly complete returns. In addition the Democrats elected two of the state's three congressman. It was the first time in 18 years that Maine has chosen a Democratic governor or a Democratic representative in congress.

Based on National Issues.

National issues overshadowed local matters in these elections. The Democrats emphasized prohibition particularly, taking their stand squarely on the national Democratic platform plank for unqualified repeal of the eighteenth amendment. The Republican candidates endeavored to reconcile the national Republican platform plank for modification and the state Republican declaration for retention of the eighteenth amendment.

As the extent of the political overturn in rock ribbed Republican Maine became apparent yesterday the whole country resounded with the echoes of the traditional axiom: "As Maine goes, so goes the Union." Led by Democratic National Chairman James A. Farley the Democratic leaders chorused that the September voting in Maine presages a Roosevelt landslide in the presidential election next November.

Republicans Hard Hit.

The Republicans were hard hit by the unexpected severity of their reverses. After a conference with his principal political advisers, Postmaster General Walter F. Brown and Secretary of the Treasury Ogden L. Mills, President Hoover late in the day made public a telegram he had dispatched to Republican National Chairman Everett Sanders urging redoubled efforts on the part of the Republican managers.

"We are greatly disappointed," he said. "But it will only make us work the harder and we will carry Maine in November."

Anti-Prohibitionists Exultant.

Anti-prohibition leaders were as exultant as the Roosevelt managers. They proclaimed the outcome in Maine a sure-fire indication of the election of a congress in November overwhelmingly in favor of unqualified repeal of the eighteenth amendment. Democratic anti-prohibitionists pronounced the election of repealists to two of the three Maine congress seats a striking demonstration of the failure of the Republican straddle strategy in the very house of the reputed friends of prohibition. Dry leaders for the most part maintained silence on the upset.

Senator George H. Moses (Rep., N. H.), like the Vice President, did not attempt to blink the significance of the event.

"No thoughtful Republican," he said, "can overlook the implications of the election in Maine, nor can they be explained away by the customary

BY TOM PETTEY.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Sept. 13.—[Special.]—Mayor Anton J. Cermak returned tonight from a six weeks' vacation in Europe ruddy with the health he had gone in quest of and firm in the conviction that Chicago was a much maligned city abroad.

"I went over there for a vacation," said the Chicago executive, "but when I found out the terrible reputation of my city in Europe I started to fight for its good name and addressed meetings in every town I visited."

Given Rousing Reception.

The Chicago leader's return to these shores was effected in holiday spirits with a score of loyal townsmen sailing down the bay to quarantine in the flag decked welcoming yacht Macom to greet their executive.

The exchange from yacht deck to the maw of the liner was accomplished without mishap, but with much perilous crawling over rails. County Treasurer Joseph B. McDonough, a full sized Chicagoan, narrowly escaped tumbling into the deep as he hefted himself across the space between the little ship and the big ship.

James A. Farley, Democratic national chairman, was there to greet Mr. Cermak, and Mayor Frank Hague of Jersey City waited for him at the hotel.

Will See Gotham Bankers.

According to Patrick A. Nash, Cook county Democratic chairman, the Cermak welcome is not costing Chicago anything, every member of the party paying his own expenses—and right smart expenses, too, their hotel being that kind of hostelry.

Once aboard the welcoming lugger, Mayor Cermak granted an interview in which he revealed that he and Controller M. S. Szymczak will be guests at a luncheon tomorrow in the private dining room of the Chase National bank. Ten New York bankers will be present at a shirt sleeve conference concerning, among other things, the sale of tax anticipation warrants.

From other sources it was learned that a change in eastern fiscal agents may result, the Guaranty Trust now holding that account. It was said that the conference will attempt only to outline the Chicago financial needs and that nothing definite will be decided until a later meeting here.

Full of Praise for Chicago.

"I still believe Chicago is the most wonderful city in the world," said the mayor, "and I believe it more than ever now.

"There's not a thing wrong with me," he added, "and I hear everything has been going well since I went away. I must say that I couldn't find any of the poverty and hard times I had heard about in Europe. I don't know how it was a few years ago, but they are better off now than we have been for the last two years. Every one was well dressed, well fed, and enjoying life in every country I visited.

"One thing I didn't like over there was the bad reputation that Chicago has. New York has it, too—the names of the two cities are coupled and the people abroad think they are the two wickedest cities in the world."

The mayor said he was going to "get busy and see that Chicago envoys placed the facts before Europeans," at the same time suggesting that New York ought to "send somebody over there to defend its reputation."

Finds Europe Temperate.

Drinking conditions in Europe "amazed" the Chicago mayor—not the drinking but the lack of drinking.

"In restaurants and places where liquor is sold," said Mr. Cermak, "it is astonishing how few people are drinking. Two out of every three of these drinkers, however, were Americans. When, and if, congress modifies the Volstead law and the American public spends as little as the Europeans do, then we will not gather in the millions of dollars expected. It proves that when a thing is legalized it is not so attractive."

Mayor Cermak was proud of his sea legs, boasting that he was not sick a moment despite the biggest storm the Bremen had ever encountered.

Returning with the mayor were Dr. and Mrs. Frank Jirka, his son-in-law and daughter, his granddaughter, Miss Vivian Graham, and Police Captain Philip Peradi.

YANKEE DISARM DELEGATES MOVE TO CHEAP FLAT

GENEVA, Sept. 13.—The American disarmament delegation moved today from the Hotel Bergues, one of the main centers of international life in Geneva, to a flat just under the attic at 33 Quai Woodrow Wilson, which will be its future office. It has been taken as part of a desperate effort to stretch $30,000, which is reported to be all that is left of a $350,000 appropriation, not merely until congress meets, but until the conference ends. It seems that the state department doubts it can get any more money.

Apparently because of uncertainty over how long the rent can be paid the office is being rented by the month. Cheap furniture also is being rented on the same terms. A visitor today found Mrs. Nathan Medofsky, wife of the chief clerk, trying to arrange a worn, faded rug so it would look at its best.

The office is reached by an elevator capable of carrying three thin men. It has eight rooms. Mr. and Mrs. Medfsky will live in two of them.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

THE HAGUE, Sept. 13.—The Rembrandt portrait of Marten Looten, friend of the Dutch master, which was sold some years ago by the Looten family for $15 in the belief that it was merely a copy, has been discovered by Dr. Kat, an art expert at Amsterdam, to be an original and is valued at $200,000. Dr. Kat says he has deciphered an inscription on the painting, written by Rembrandt himself, expressing appreciation of Looten's friendship.

A Spider Spins 23 Day Drama in St. Charles

BY KATHLEEN M'LAUGHLIN.

For twenty-three days now St. Charles, Ill., has been on the verge of the jitters over the struggles of a snake, caught fast in a spider's web. The snake wriggles—and remains a prisoner. The town is split into factions, pro-spider and pro-snake.

Meanwhile an edict from the mayor's office keeps the community from interference. It is only a matter of time, undoubtedly, until denunciations will be thundered from the pulpits, editorials will point out the morals involved, and the S. P. C. A. will go into action. Thereafter the news reel men will descend upon St. Charles and burlesque press agents may flourish contracts under the nose of the spider, if he still is master of the situation, or the snake, if he's still around.

Spiders Trap Intruder.

This drama of nature was discovered Aug. 22, when Ernest Davis, foreman of the city water department, unlocked the door of the brick shack that houses an automatic pump at the base of the lofty main standpipe on North 4th avenue. The shack is small and damp and extensively cobwebbed by its colony of common black spiders.

One of these had spun a web about sixteen inches across, its lower edge some five or six inches above the floor. Entangled in this web for some inches of his entire ten was a small garden snake, whose tail spanked the floor vigorously as he struggled to get free. Sitting cockily near the top of the web was the crafty spider, his agitated legs giving Davis the unmistakable impression that he was stamping his feet with delight at what a fellow he had turned out to be, and anticipating the dinner of his life.

Waits 23 Days for Dinner.

He has already waited twenty-three days and although numerous visits have been paid to the pumphouse, the snake shows no signs of weakening. His gyrations have torn and twisted the original web so that the snake now hangs suspended from a sort of rope of the spider's weaving.

Every once in a while, when it seems the reptile's efforts might be successful, Old Man Spider makes a hurried jaunt down the rope and spins more and more web around the head of his captive. Some ill-advised members of the spider family, it appeared, tried to horn in on the catch and take a bite out of the lower portion of the snake. Their lifeless forms repose on the floor nearby, mute evidence to the fact that if the snake can't bite 'em he can still mow 'em down with his flailing, tiny tail.

Only Davis and J. R. Arteberry, superintendent of public works of St. Charles, have keys to the shack. Dr. I. G. Langum, mayor, has issued instructions to them not to permit any one to interrupt the battle. He takes the stand that the snake, apparently having crawled into the shack through some drain pipe, perceived the spider in his web, decided he would dine on him, and crawled far enough into the web to be enmeshed. He got himself into it, argues Dr. Langum. If he gets himself out, well and good. If not, the spider is entitled to him.

But today is the twenty-fourth day, and the snake wriggles energetically.

INSULL'S DIZZY DROP FROM $100,000,000 TO 'EXILE' AND PENSION

ALTOGETHER Samual Insull and family invested $12,812,047 in the Insull Utility Investments, Inc., according to the auditor's report. At one time the common stock hit a high of $149 a share.

At this peak the holdings of the Insulls represented a total of $138,524,000, counting in the preferred stock at par. That was a dizzy height from which Samuel Insull fell to a present pension of $18,000 a year and voluntary exile to Paris.

At the peak the Insull family had a paper profit of $125,711,953 on the $12,812,047 investment in this particular company. No information is available as yet on the family investment in Corporation Securities.

To be sure the Insulls could not have sold out these securities at the top price, but the published estimates of $80,000,000 to $100,000,000 as Samuel Insull's worth do not appear to be exaggerated.

Many among the more than 51,000 investors in the Insull Utility Investments lost everything they had.

LONDON, Sept. 14 [Wednesday].—(AP)—The steamship Winnebago reported by wireless early today that at 10:50 p. m. Greenwich mean time [5:50 p. m. Chicago daylight saving time] it had sighted an airplane flying fast at latitude 42.54 north and longitude 52.54 west. This position is about 1,000 miles almost due east of Boston on the southern steamship lane to Europe.

It was believed the plane was the American Nurse, which took off from New York at 6:15 a. m. yesterday on a projected nonstop flight to Rome. Aboard the plane were William Ulbricht, pilot; Miss Edna Newcomer, co-pilot, and Dr. Leon M. Pisculli, New York physician.

One-Third of Way Across.

If this plane was the American Nurse it had covered approximately one-third of the distance between New York and Brest, France, as the spot is about 1,200 miles on an airline from New York. This would mean that the plane had traveled almost 100 miles an hour since its takeoff.

The American Nurse was sighted once before during the day by the master of the S. S. Dartford. He reported that he had sighted the plane at 6:05 p. m. Greenwich mean time [1:05 p. m. Chicago time]. His position at that time was 42.10 north latitude and 62.31 west longitude, or 400 miles east of Boston, also on the southern steamship lane.

The S. S. Dartford's master said the plane was flying low and traveling northeastward. He said the weather was "light northerly breeze and clear."

Woman Plans Parachute Jump.

New York, Sept. 13.—[Special.]—The airplane American Nurse, which took off from here this morning en route to Rome, was favored by the best weather in weeks.

Miss Edna Newcomer, 28 year old co-pilot and nurse, plans to make a descent by parachute over Florence if the flight is successful.

The big Bellanca, the same plane in which Clyde Pangborn and Hugh Herndon Jr. made their flight around the world, carried 850 gallons of gasoline when Ulbrich lifted it into the air after a run of more than a mile, and headed into the morning sun.

Ulbrich planned to fly up the coast as far as Cape Cod and then head over the ocean. The plane was sighted over the tip of Cape Cod at 10:10 a. m. He expected to fly 1,000

INVESTMENT CO. AND INVESTORS ARE WIPED OUT

Audit Report Filed in Federal Court.

BY OSCAR HEWITT.

The Insull Utility Investments, Inc., is hopelessly insolvent. It owes approximately nine times as much as it owns. It has $27,473,364 of assets to pay $253,284,341 of liabilities.

This investment company of Samuel Insull has a loss of $226,510,976. Forgetting completely the 143 million which 51,678 persons invested in the stock of the corporation and lost, there still remains a deficit of $73,474,402.

That apparently wipes out the purchasers of $58,645,028 of debenture bonds in the company, with still a deficit of nearly 20 million dollars. That is nearly half of what the bankers loaned the corporation.

Audit Occupies Five Months.

This was the situation as of last April 16 when Federal Judge Walter C. Lindley appointed George A. Cooke and Calvin Fentress receivers for the corporation. They were instructed by the court to have a complete audit made of the company and Arthur Andersen & Co. were appointed. They took nearly five months to unravel the involved ramifications of the investment concern.

Judge Lindley ordered their report filed for record in the Federal District court yesterday, and it is from that audit that the status of the company is disclosed as of April 16.

In the meantime the securities of the company, pledged for bank loans, have increased in value, so that the loss of the banks is not so much as the audit indicates. If the securities continue to rise in value the banks may retrieve all they have loaned and possibly a little may be left over for the owners of the debentures.

While Insull Utility Investments, Inc., had a board of directors, an executive committee and a finance committee, Andersen & Co. give the impression that the corporation was completely dominated by Samuel Insull. The auditors have examined the corporation from its inception on Jan. 1, 1929, to last April 16.

Slumps Over 200 Millions.

The balance sheet turned out by the auditors shows that the investment concern owned securities with a book value of $237,892,050, which probably represents the cost. But the auditors assert that these securities have decreased $207,489,783 in value so that they were really worth only $30,402,267 on April 16. Moreover some of these securities have been loaned to other Insull organizations and the loss of them is reckoned by the auditors at $4,875,000.

Therefore, the portfolio, costing 237 million dollars, is reckoned by the auditors to be worth only $25,545,236, including $17,969 of interest and dividends accrued.

Out of the 237 million dollars of securities owned there remains in the hands of the receivers only $1,646,580 worth of securities—market of April 16—which are unpledged. The status of the portfolio is summarized in the balance sheet as follows:

Securities owned.	Book value.	Market value.
Pledged to secure bank loans	$153,690,078	$32,162,747
Pledged for other loans	8,670,117	224,072
Pledged for borrowed securities	9,864,451	832,451
Pledged with Inter-Co. syndicate	7,359,369	638,024
Loaned to Insull, Son & Co.	22,046,100	2,137,761
Loaned to Public Service Trust	1,298,070	144,731
Loaned to Corporation Securities	10,539,024	2,490,440
Loaned to Utility Securities Co.	803,340	104,009
Loaned to Skokie Valley Realty association	32,137
Unpledged	24,584,209	1,646,580
Totals	$237,892,050	$30,402,267

After deducting the reserve for the securities loaned, the portfolio has a market value, according to the auditors, of $25,545,236.

Among the other assets of the company are its investments in subsidiaries, which total $3,021,137. The auditors class these investments as a complete loss down to the last cent.

These investments consist of $3,243,000 in Insull, Son & Co., which is wholly owned by Insull Utility Investments; $3,145,837 in the Public Service Trust, and $1,630,300 in the Second Utilities Syndicate, Inc. The last two are 75 per cent owned by Insull Utility Investments.

Another Asset Is Listed.

Insull's Money Raising Genius Ultimate Cause of Downfall

La Salle street believes Samuel Insull will go down in history as the greatest money raising genius American business has produced. His gift for getting capital in difficult periods as well as in prosperous times eventually failed, but it was not before he had erected a complex structure of financial and investment companies that has had few if any rivals in American business annals.

The intricate inter-company relations of the Insull concerns baffle even the most astute students of corporate practice. The auditor's report on the condition of one of these companies, Insull Utility Investments, covers nearly 100 pages.

Able to Raise Money Even After Depression.

The reports illustrate how easy it was for Insull to raise money. Even after the depression began late in 1929 he was able to get millions to keep his investment concerns alive. Both the public and the bankers showed a willingness to finance him. The public had confidence because of the profits they had made on Insull stocks in the past. The bankers may have been skeptical, but Insull had proved to them he was right so many times that they were unable to bring themselves to the point of denying him credit.

Insull's money raising ability eventually proved his undoing. He contracted such a burden of debt for his investment companies that they eventually collapsed under their own weight. The crash came, however, only after two and one-half years of acute depression unprecedented in modern times. Had Insull not misjudged the length and severity of the depression his genius for financing might have saved him again.

Company Officials Borrow to Recoup Market Losses.

Ranking officers in the Middle West Utilities company and other Insull companies lost heavily in the stock market in shares of the various companies. The private fortunes of many of these men were completely wiped out. Many of them were given loans by the companies to protect their market accounts with the result that they are now indebted beyond their ability to pay. The amount owed to Middle West alone by officers and employes is reported to run into seven figures. In addition to the large loans voted for the higher officers there were smaller ones distributed to the junior executives. The amounts ranged from $1,000 to $400,000. In most instances the borrowers signed notes to the company. Many of these notes are not worth a cent while others are of extremely doubtful value.

Insull Will Retain His $18,000 Pension.

Reports that Samuel Insull will lose his $18,000 annual pension are said in banking circles to be unfounded. Insull receives his pensions from the three Chicago operating companies which he formerly headed under the regular pension plans which those companies have had in force for many years. Every employé who qualifies under the plan is granted a pension based on his salary and length of service. The maximum of $6,000 yearly was given to Insull by each of the three companies.

Mr. Insull displays a lively interest in the developments affecting the companies which he formerly dominated. An associate revealed yesterday that the newspaper clippings recounting the recent happenings are being forwarded to him in Paris.

When Insull was making his last desperate effort to stave off disaster terrific pressure was put on employés of the Insull companies to sell stock to their friends. Employés were requested by their superiors to speak to their relatives and friends and urge them to buy shares on the installment plan.

The market value of these on April 16 was $2,038,532, from which the auditors have subtracted a reserve of $450,000, leaving the net value as $1,588,532.

Of these borrowed securities, there was $1,554,772—value as of April 16—pledged to banks for loans; $25,545 pledged for other loans; $3,000 pledged to the Inter-Company Syndicate, $16,765 loaned to Insull, Son & Co., and $438,450 loaned to Corporation Securities company, another insolvent investment company of Samuel Insull.

The remaining assets of Insull Utility Investments are notes and accounts receivable, which total with interest $11,654,872. Andersen & Co. estimate the loss on these at $11,325,000, which leaves a net asset of $329,672.

The Accounts Receivable.

From—	Amount.
Corporation Securities	$4,771,569
Insull, Son & Co.	4,401,394
Public Service Trust	1,522,856
Second Utilities Syndicate	187,430
Other Insull companies	449,554
Loans to individuals	7,330
Due from fiscal agent	16,055
Subscribers to stock	236,667
Total	$11,612,859

To these receivable should be added $42,012 in interest which has accrued, but the auditors predict that the receivers will be lucky to get $329,872 out of that $11,654,000 of accounts receivable.

There are three other assets. One is the cash on hand. This totals $9,721.62. Another dollar has been added by the auditor for the furniture and fixtures which cost around $35,000. Still another dollar is listed as an asset for 48,909 shares of the common stock of Insull Utility Investments which has been loaned.

253 Millions of Liabilities.

Against the total of $27,473,364 of estimated assets of the Insull Utility Investments, Inc., are the $253,900,000 of liabilities. These include common stock and three kinds of preferred stock totaling $148,269,372. Then follow the debenture bonds totaling $58,645,028, including accrued interest. The bank and other loans, with interest, total $43,705,384. The liabilities on the securities borrowed are $2,038,532 and the liability under participation in syndicates is $1,495,189. Other miscellaneous liabilities total $63,633—a grand total of $253,984,341 of obligations and only $27,473,364 of assets with which to pay the liabilities.

Borrow 50 Million from Banks.

There are several impelling reasons, presented by Anderson & Co. for the fall of Insull Utility Investment, Inc., but the precipitating cause was the money borrowed from the banks. In the first year of operation the Insull concern borrowed more than $50,000,000 from the banks.

These loans were all paid on Jan. 20, 1930, with the proceeds from the sale of $60,000,000 of $6 gold debentures. The purchasers of these bonds received a pledge in the bonds that the security for them would not be decreased, and that they would have equal security with others who might loan the company money.

Then Samuel Insull turned around and borrowed more millions from the banks and pledged some of the securities in the company portfolio. With the cash he bought more securities for Insull Utility Investments. He started this borrowing in April, 1930, and continued it until August, 1931. In that period he borrowed $73,875,000. The banks began pressing him for more collateral as the stock market kept going down and down, as well as for payments on part of the loans.

Banks Get Back 32 Million.

Between April, 1930, and December, 1931, a total of $29,987,000 was repaid to the banks. In addition they applied cash balances to the loans of $2,302,479. So the banks got back $32,289,979 of the original $73,875,000 loaned to Insull Utility Investments. In addition they got all of the securities in the portfolio of the company, except those they would not accept, which had a market value on April 16 of $1,646,580.

That appears to be about all that is left for the investors who put $206,000,000 into the company. They may share in some of the other assets, but that prospect is not promising.

The securities loaned to Insull, Son & Co., Public Service Trust, Inter-Company Syndicate, Utility Securities company, Corporation Securities company—all subsidiary or associated Insull companies—will probably never be returned, because these companies also are insolvent. Some of them are alleged to have made profits, but those were turned into Insull Utility Investments and have been washed out with the flood.

Securities Held by Banks.

The banks will realize a considerable part of the money they loaned. At present they are holding the bag for $41,585,202 of loans, plus interest, but they have securities with a market value of $23,717,520 as of April 16. Of these securities, Insull Utility Investments owned $22,162,747 and the remaining $1,554,772 were securities which had been borrowed and pledged to the banks.

The other principal loans were obtained by Samuel Insull. One of these was for $500,000 from the General Electric company on a note indorsed by Samuel Insull, and the other was from the People's Gas Subsidiary corporation for $1,509,645. As collateral for these loans Insull Utility Investments put up $244,672 of securities [market price of April 16], which belonged to the portfolio of the company and $25,545 of other securities which had been borrowed. Although the auditor's report does not disclose it, it is reported that the banks obtained still more collateral from Samuel Insull personally, taking all of his and his family's securities and his 4,800 acre farm at Libertyville.

Loans Still Outstanding.

Prominent banks of Chicago and New York made the loans. A list of them and the loans still outstanding are as follows:

Chicago Banks.	Loans.
Continental Illinois	$17,988,223
First National	4,733,608
Central Republic	2,840,286
Northern Trust	852,385
Harris Trust	473,407
Total Chicago banks	$26,887,911

New York Banks.	Loans.
Guaranty Trust Co.	$ 4,741,161
Irving Trust Co.	4,742,809
Cen. Hanover Bank and Trust Co.	3,319,968
Commercial Nat. and Trust Co.	1,418,881
Bankers Trust Co.	474,288
Total New York banks	$14,697,109
Grand total, all banks	$41,585,020

These are the bank loans after the banks had applied on the loans $2,302,479 of Insull Utility Investment money on deposit with them. Of this total the Continental Illinois got $999,276, the First National $266,391, the Central Republic $159,713, the Northern Trust $47,614, the Harris Trust $26,592, the Guaranty Trust $258,838, the Irving Trust $257,190, the Central Hanover $180,031, the Commercial National $81,118, and the Bankers Trust $25,711.

Apparently the $9,721.62 in cash which the receivers obtained was not in the banks which had loaned money to Insull Utility Investments, or it, too, would have been applied on some of the loans.

Income Not Sufficient.

Arthur Andersen & Co. represent in their audit report that the income from cash dividends and interest on bonds held by the Insull Investment company was insufficient to pay expenses and interest charges.

Taking the entire period of existence of the company, its income from cash dividends was $11,731,444, its general expenses were $1,630,002, leaving a balance of $10,101,441 to meet the interest charges of $12,837,749 on loans and debentures, which left the company $2,763,307 shy of enough cash, according to the auditors.

There were other profits of $27,122,290 in the three and a half year period, much of which are questioned by the Andersen audit. Of this $27,000,000 of alleged profits, $10,720,666 was obtained in stock dividends. Insull Utility Investments credited these stock dividends at the market price of the stock on the day received. The dividends were charged to surplus by the issuing corporations at only $5,433,151, which is the method sanctioned by the New York Stock exchange in valuing stock dividends. On that basis Insull Utility Investments credited itself with $5,287,514 more han the actual receipts.

In the $27,122,000 of profits is another item of $13,117,770 which is the entire proceeds from the sale of rights reserved on investment securities. Andersen & Co. criticize that accounting. The report says the generally accepted and more conservative practice is for a determination of the basis of "allocation between the ratio of the market value of the rights to the market value of the stock on the dates the rights were received." The report goes on:

"Had the company recognized in its accounts the cost of rights sold as a reduction of income, there would have appeared in the income account a net loss of $3,252,439 on rights sold as compared with the entire proceeds taken into the income of $13,117,770."

Among other items of income was $1,995,000 of a stock dividend of Insull, Son & Co., wholly owned subsidiary, which is now broke. From Public Service Trust and Second Utilities syndicate were other stock dividends of $535,193. The auditors say that "neither corporation realized enough funds from its operations to pay the above dividends."

Difficulty of Paying Interest.

The reason why the Insull Utility Investments did not get in enough cash dividends to pay interest on its debentures and bank loans was because of the high price paid for the best stocks of its portfolio originally. In Commonwealth Edison, Peoples Gas and Public Service of Northern Illinois, a total of $119,016,000 was invested. The average price paid and the yield per share of stock were as follows:

Company.	Ave. cost per share.	Ave. yield of $8 div.
Commonwealth Edison	$329.55	2.42 per cent
Peoples Gas	296.54	2.69 per cent
Public Service	282.10	2.83 per cent

The debentures called for 5 and 6 per cent interest and presumably the bank and other loans called for as high a rate of interest. These loans constituted 42.14 per cent or $101,238,000 of the book value of the securities owned. So not enough cash dividends were obtained on the securities owned to pay interest on the loans obtained.

But the auditors say the company retained in its portfolio the securities obtained, for the most part.

Summary of Audit Report.

Summarizing paragraphs of the Andersen report say:

"The decline in the market prices of Insull securities led the company to pledge practically all of its acceptable securities as additional collateral to its bank loans. The collateral requirements of the company and its subsidiary and affiliated companies led to considerable borrowing and loaning of securities between the related companies, which securities cannot now be returned under the present financial condition of these companies.

"A large amount of funds was also loaned to Corporation Securities, Insull, Son & Co., Public Service Trust, and other affiliated interests, which funds now appear to be largely lost. Loans to Insull, Son & Co. were made mainly to support its dealings in securities of the Insull Utility Investments. Loan to Public Service Trust were utilised for special loans to individuals and others as well as for the purchase of securities."

Insolvent Beyond Hope.

The lendings and borrowings of securities were so many and so interwoven and intertwined that even the summary of the transactions in the auditor's report is so involved that it requires several readings to pick out the tangled threads. But the net result of it all is that Insull Utility Investments and its subsidiaries and its companion investment concern, Corporation Securities, are all insolvent beyond hope of recovery.

At one time it was reported that one purpose of Samuel Insull in forming these investment companies was to retain control of the utilities in the Insull-Chicago group. It was said that Cyrus Eaton was attempting to get control of the three major Insull properties.

The audit shows that Eaton sold Insull Utility Investments 42,900 shares of Commonwealth Edison for $15,015,000, 30,300 shares of People's Gas at $10,605,000, and 6,800 shares of Public Service of Northern Illinois for $2,380,000—a total of $28,000,000 for the 80,000 shares. In payment he received 88,888 shares of Insull Utility Investments common stock at $65 a share, for a total of $5,777,720. The remaining 22 million of the deal was paid in cash and instalments, all of which were completed in 1930.

$3,000,000 Over Market Price.

The price for these securities was about $3,000,000 more than the market price at the time the deal was consummated. The auditors report that Eaton wanted $400 a share, which he claimed at the time [May 3, 1930] was "the real intrinsic value" of the stocks. The uniform price of $350 a share was the result of negotiations between Samuel Insull and Cyrus Eaton.

But the above picture tells only half of the Eaton sale to Insull. Eaton actually sold twice as much as above represented. The other half Samuel Insull placed in the portfolio of Corporation Securities. This will be disclosed when the audit of Corporation Securities is made available. Now all of the $56,000,000 is gone, and the control has wandered away.

All these transactions took place a year and a half after Insull Utility Investments, Inc., was organized. The corporation's initial portfolio was acquired from the Insull family, according to the report. In consideration for the shares turned in by the family, they received the entire first series of preferred stock [40,000 shares] and 764,000 shares of common stock. The total value placed on these shares was $9,765,000.

Option to Buy More.

The agreement specified that the Insull family should have the option to purchase 200,000 more shares at $15 within two years. Still another stipulation provided that Samuel Insull would buy or cause to be bought 250,000 shares within a year at $12 a share.

The conditions of this contract, according to the auditors, were carried out. The Insull family took the additional 200,000 shares and the other 250,000 shares were sold to individuals. On the books it appears that Samuel Insull bought the 250,000 shares, but the auditors assert that this stock was distributed to individuals.

In addition, Samuel Insull purchased 2,306 shares at $20 a share in August of 1930. At the annual meeting of Insull Utility Investments, Inc., last January Mr. Insull announced that his family had sold no stock except that received as dividends.

SAMPSELL'S RISE FROM CLERK TO MAGNATE IS TOLD

Given Traction Jobs by Grosscup, His Sponsor.

Marshall Emmett Sampsell, former president of the [Insull] Central Illinois Public Service company, who, according to the receivers, borrowed $400,000 from one of the Insull companies and has no hope of paying it back, was transformed almost overnight from law clerk to utility magnate by the late Federal Judge Peter S. Grosscup, great friend of both Mr. and Mrs. Sampsell.

While attending the Chicago College of Law, from which he was graduated in 1901, young Sampsell was law clerk and secretary to Judge Grosscup of the old Federal Circuit court. In 1902 Sampsell was appointed clerk of this court at a salary of $3,000 a year, and in the same year he was appointed receiver for the old Union Traction company. Both appointments were made by Judge Grosscup. In 1903 he became receiver for the North and West Chicago Railways companies, the old Yerkes surface lines, and his combined receivership salaries were $18,000 a year.

Enters Utility Business.

Mr. Sampsell's clerkship continued until 1907 and so did his receiverships, despite widespread criticism of a man on the federal pay roll holding receiverships under a federal judge. He resigned his clerkship at this time and devoted his entire time to the utility business, being vice president of the Mattoon and Charleston Interurban Railroad company, which was largely controlled by his friend, the judge. The office of clerk of the Circuit court was abolished when that court was consolidated with the Federal District court.

The receivership job was terminated by the enactment of the city ordinance of 1907 effecting the traction settlement.

Rumors Concern Vouchers.

Sampsell's connection with the surface lines as receiver was ended, but it was not forgotten for several years, up to the resignation of Judge Grosscup from the bench in 1911. In those years there were numerous rumors reflecting on the traction receiverships. There were charges that thousands of dollars were paid out on vouchers with such designations as "special legal services," "sundry persons," "political contributions," etc.

When these revelations came to light, Sampsell, while declaring that he knew nothing about the purpose of the payments, charged that the information could have been obtained in one manner only, by breaking into his office. When newspapers asked Judge Grosscup to issue an order for the records so they could be made public, he refused to do so, stating that the information already published had been obtained by burglary.

Loan Brings Him to Notice.

When Judge Grosscup resigned in 1911 Sampsell was already well launched in the utility business. Later he became a director in various Insull concerns as well as president of the Central Illinois Public Service company, but he was not much in the public eye until the recent scandals attending the Insull collapse.

When the receivers learned of Sampsell's $400,000 "loan" in June they removed him from all the Insull companies with which he had any connection. His wife committed suicide, hanging herself with a clothes line, in the basement of their palatial Highland Park home on June 28.

Mrs. Sampsell, for years a leader in Highland Park society, was the former Edna Florence Smith of Chicago, and was married to Sampsell in 1900, while he was still a student in law school.

Sampsell was born in Marshall, Tex., in 1874, and came here to attend the University of Chicago, from which he was graduated in 1896.

Insull Case Judge

JUDGE WALTER C. LINDLEY.

Few greater and more intricate lawsuits present themselves in courts of equity than the Insull receivership cases, in the opinion of experienced attorneys. It is to the bench of Judge Walter C. Lindley that the Insull cases have gone for judgment.

Judge Lindley's home and court are in Danville. He is well at home on the bench in Chicago, where he frequently sits to hear cases on the congested federal calendar. He has been a federal judge since 1922, when President Harding appointed him at the instance of another citizen of Danville, the late Speaker Joe Cannon.

Judge Lindley tried the cases of State Representative Lawrence C. O'Brien, sentenced to the penitentiary for income tax fraud; "Machine Gun" Jack McGurn, sentenced for violation of the Mann act, and the huge middle west alcohol conspiracy, involving 61 defendants and millions of dollars. He was one of the first District judges to disagree with Judge Clarke of New Jersey, when the latter ruled the eighteenth amendment unconstitutional two years ago. Recently the judge granted a temporary injunction restraining all law enforcement officers from interfering with the buses of 18 companies operating in interstate commerce.

SWEDISH REPORT BRANDS KREUGER AS A CRIMINAL

STOCKHOLM, Sept. 13.—(AP)—Ivar Kreuger, Swedish match king who committed suicide in Paris last spring, was not a man of business, but a criminal, is the opinion expressed in the preliminary report of the administrators of the Kreuger and Toll bankruptcy proceedings, published in the newspaper Dagens Nyheter today.

Analyzing what they called Kreuger's gigantic frauds, the administrators reached the conclusion that Kreuger was not the great business man he made himself out to be. From the time when he became able to maintain the pretense, he started "to bluff" with reports of vast, but fictitious profits, they said, in an effort to maintain the impression he was a great financial genius.

It is not as a business man, the report said, but as a criminal that he was distinguished from ordinary people. The report also accuses the directors of Kreuger and Toll who, it said, appeared frequently to have had a knowledge of the falsity of Kreuger's reports regarding the firm's position.

MARTIN J. INSULL, IN CANADA, ASKS TO BE LET ALONE

Brother of Samuel Won't Discuss Debt to Utility.

Martin J. Insull, who in many respects was the spokesman for his elder brother, Samuel, in the administration of the Insull utility empire, doesn't know when he will come back to Chicago. Unlike his brother, he receives no pensions from the companies he once headed. He refuses to discuss either his personal relations with and obligations to the companies or the part he had in molding their policies. He wants to be let alone.

That was the gist of a long distance telephone conversation yesterday with Mr. Insull. After spending 45 years under the American flag, he has returned to the soil of the British Empire, in which he never renounced his citizenship. He is staying in the little town of Orillia, 84 miles north of Toronto, Ontario.

Audit Discloses Debt.

Mr. Insull was called as the result of the announcements by auditors for the receivers of the results of their examination of the books of various Insull companies. One of their disclosures was that Martin J. Insull is indebted personally to the Middle West Utilities company, of which he was president, in the sum of $168,000.

"When do you expect to return to Chicago," Mr. Insull was asked.

"I have no plans," he replied. "I don't know."

"Are you receiving any pensions from the former Insull companies, as your brother is?" he was asked.

"No, I am not," was the reply.

"Now, I insist upon my right to be let alone," Mr. Insull interjected at this point. "I don't wish to seem discourteous, but I don't wish to answer any questions. Go and see my attorneys in Chicago. They have charge of all my affairs and will tell you what they think should be told. I believe you should respect my right to be let alone. I have come up here to get myself together and to attempt to recover my health. See my attorneys."

Asked About His Home.

Mr. Insull was asked if he held title to his home in Highland Park. He refused to answer, styling the matter "a personal one."

"But in view of the reports of your debts to the company, isn't it also a matter of interest to securities holders of Middle West Utilities?" he was asked.

"Any statement on that subject will have to come from my attorneys," he replied.

Asked whether he was willing to make public a statement of his indebtedness to the various companies with which he had been associated, he replied that that, too, was a matter for consideration by his attorneys.

Inspection of Lake county records yesterday at Waukegan disclosed that Mr. Insull never held title to his home at 428 North Sheridan road, Highland Park. That has been held by his wife, Mrs. Virginia Van Vliet Insull, since it was acquired in 1916.

Ten Years Younger.

Martin is ten years younger than his brother. He will celebrate his 63d birthday Sunday. He was born in England and in 1887 followed Samuel Insull, who had come to the United States six years earlier to be secretary to Thomas A. Edison, to this country. He was then a boy of 18. He graduated from an engineering course at Cornell university in 1893 and worked for various public utility companies until 1904 when his brother sent him to New Albany, Ind., as an officer of several companies he had acquired there.

From then on his career was merged with that of his brother. Martin Insull was made senior vice president of Middle West Utilities company in 1912, when it was formed, and succeeded Samuel to the presidency in 1924. He held that post, as well as offices or directorships in a score of other Insull companies, until the economic empire collapsed last spring. He has resigned all his offices since, he stated yesterday.

It was significant that Martin Insull never renounced the sovereignty to the British king, for to the small town business men with whom his duties as spokesman for his brother brought him in constant contact, he was the prototype of the dignified, conservative Englishman. When Great Britain declared war on Germany in 1914 Mr. Insull, then 45 years old, went to the British consul in Chicago and informed that official that he was ready to respond to a call to service. He was never called, however.

Fat Men

I don't care how fat you are or how much you hate to get out and walk a couple of miles. If you will take one half teaspoonful of Kruschen Salts in a glass of hot water every morning before breakfast for 4 weeks and cut down on pastries and fatty meats—

—You will feel so good—so energetic and the urge for activity will be so great that you will immensely enjoy a daily walk of several miles—and lose fat.

While you are losing fat you will be gaining in energy—in endurance—in ambition. Your skin will grow clearer and your eyes will sparkle with the good health that Kruschen brings.

Just try one bottle of Kruschen Salts: it will last you 4 weeks and costs but a trifle. After you have taken one bottle the old arm chair won't hold you any more—you'll enjoy work—you'll sleep like a top and by reducing surplus fat probably live years longer.

A man from Richmond Hill, N. Y. writes: "After 2 bottles of Kruschen I've removed 3 inches from my belt, feel 25% more active, mind is clearer, eruptions have disappeared. Am 46 years old and feel 20 years younger. I get up feeling 100%. Kruschen sure is great!"

But be sure for your health's sake that you ask for and get Kruschen Salts. Get them at any druggist in the world and if the results one bottle brings—do not joyfully satisfy you—why money back. E. Griffiths Hughes, Inc., Rochester, N. Y.

YOU'RE THROUGH! VON HINDENBURG TELLS REICHSTAG

Commands Nazi Speaker to Recognize Decree.

BY SIGRID SCHULTZ.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BERLIN, Sept. 13.—President Paul von Hindenburg tonight rebuked Hermann Goering, National Socialist president of the reichstag, and ordered him "to acknowledge the command for dissolution expressed yesterday and to recognize the legal status it created." The 84 year old president was referring to Goering's refusal to dissolve parliament yesterday when Chancellor Franz von Papen placed a decree signed by Von Hindenburg before him.

Von Hindenburg also defended his chancellor and Baron Wilhelm von Gayl, minister of the interior, against the charge that the two had violated the constitution by ignoring summons to appear before reichstag standing committees today.

Call Constitution Violated.

The committees—for the protection of constitutional rights and foreign affairs—are empowered to act even when parliament is dissolved. But Von Hindenburg, in refusing to admit Goering's accusations that the ministers had violated the constitution, charged that the reichstag president had failed to recognize the new legal status created by his decree of dissolution.

"As soon as this recognition is accorded the cabinet members will be able to attend committees," Von Hindenburg said.

Goering replied to Von Hindenburg's note of reproof by challenging the president's own authority.

"You were elected four months ago by the German people," Goering said. "But the reichstag also was elected by the German people as their parliament. That election was more recent than your election. If the government believes it can jeer at political parties it forgets that they are part of the constitution. A president of the reich is elected through the machinery of parties and with their help."

Goering Explains Action.

Goering attempted to justify his action in the reichstag yesterday by stating that he could not interrupt the vote on the nonconfidence motion once it began.

"The Von Papen government was rejected by a devastating majority of the reichstag, which also revoked the emergency decrees," he said. "According to the letter of the law the dissolution decree is valid, since it is possible for the president to empower the overthrow of the cabinet and the right to dissolve the parliament."

Goering, on the other hand, admitted the legality of the reichstag's dissolution, while insisting that the vote of nonconfidence also was legal.

Backed by Von Hindenburg the Von Papen régime today continued its self-appointed task of consolidating an "authoritative government free of parliamentarism." Officials assert that new elections will be carried out within 60 days, according to the constitution, but the Deutsche Zeitung, the mouthpiece of the chancellor's government, today said:

"There will be no new elections—no decision on a date of election is expected in the near future."

Faith in Von Papen Grows.

The public's faith in Von Papen and his ability to "create prosperity" seems to be increasing and most newspapers have dropped the fight for "old democratic principles" like the proverbial hot potato.

All parties are preparing for an election campaign. Adolf Hitler, leader of the mighty National Socialists, issued a proclamation in which he laid down guiding principles "for the new phase of the fight for German freedom which our movement entered yesterday and which it is determined to carry through with and for the people against the reactionary clique."

He declared that the happenings in the reichstag prove that the Nazi fight for social freedom—indivisible from national freedom—is not inspired by a desire for its own material advantages, but a desire to help the German people.

"The Von Papen government is supported by only 42 votes, one-fifteenth of the national representation, but nevertheless claims it will hold office by the confidence of the president," Hitler continued. "It has the power to decide on what plane this fight will be carried on. Whichever way is chosen, we are not afraid, for we have both the people and the right on our side."

24 Workers Are Drowned When Ship Capsizes Ferry

KURE, Japan, Sept. 13.—(AP)—Twenty-four workers at the Kure naval arsenal, including several women, were drowned today when a ferryboat carrying 100 passengers capsized in the backwash of a passing steamer.

RUMOR SAYS FRANCE HAS NEW PLAN TO GET U. S. IN SECURITY PACT

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

PARIS, Sept. 13.—A sensational development in international relations is awaited by informed circles here some time before next Wednesday, when the steering committee of the disarmament conference reconvenes at Geneva. Diplomats say there is reason to believe that America will either be asked once more to join a security pact or she will be informed that she has already practically adhered to one.

The French are known to be sounding out the British and Americans on some new proposition to reinforce security, and it is also believed that Prime Minister MacDonald of Great Britain has something of the same sort up his sleeve which he will offer as a compromise in the Franco-German dispute over equality in armaments.

The security situation was considerably altered by Secretary of State Stimson's recent pronouncements interpreting the Kellogg pact. If it is generally agreed that the pact itself binds the powers to consultation in case of a threat of war and establishes the principle that territorial gains effected by force are illegal, the Europeans have an effective security pact which it is believed might go a long way toward alleviating the French anxiety about her frontiers and those of her continental vassals. To make Stimson's interpretation formally binding on America, diplomats say, it would only be necessary for the European powers to issue statements that they concur in the American interpretation of the treaty and the effect would be the same as if the United States had affixed its signature to a specific security pact.

DR. POLING GIVES UP HIS SEARCH HERE FOR ROBINS

Dr. Daniel A. Poling, head of the allied dry forces, left by airplane for New York yesterday afternoon, abandoning, at least temporarily, his search in Chicago for Raymond Robins, prohibitionist and social reformer who has been missing since Sept. 4.

Dr. Poling flew here from Portland, Ore., to investigate statements of half a dozen friends of Col. Robins who said they had seen him in the loop last week, but these friends, in the opinion of Dr. Poling, were "honestly mistaken."

"Every clew here has failed," said Dr. Poling. "There are some others in New York that I want to investigate and I may return here later."

Dr. Poling believes that Col. Robins is afflicted with amnesia, but Mrs. Robins, in Southwest Harbor, Me., insists that he has been kidnaped by rum runners.

Mexican Railway Traffic Is Disrupted by Floods

MEXICO CITY, Sept. 13.—(AP)—National railway reports today said rail traffic was interrupted or temporarily suspended practically all over north central Mexico because of floods which have washed away bridges or rendered tracks unsafe. The railway management said, however, that if there are no further floods traffic will be normal at most places before the end of this week.

RUTHENIANS ASK CZECH CHIEF TO SPEED AUTONOMY

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

PRAGUE, Czechoslovakia.—Dr. Beskid, governor of Carpathorussia, the eastern province of Czechoslovakia, has sent a memorandum to President Thomas G. Masaryk urging a final settlement of the autonomy promised to his countrymen at the time the republic was founded. The governor, who is Ruthenian himself, threatens to go before an international forum in case his demands are not met.

When Czechoslovakia was founded, the inhabitants of Carpathorussia, like those of Slovakia, were promised autonomy. This promise was not kept, says Dr. Beskid. On the contrary, he contends, the government at Prague is endeavoring to centralize the power. Dr. Beskid, though governor, is a mere figurehead in the province, the Czech administration giving him no power. The administrative power lies in the hands of the Carpathorussian president of the house of deputies, who is an exponent of Czech agrarian interests.

The governor also asks for a reorganization of the cultural institutions of his country.

Dr. Adalbert Tuka, professor of jurisprudence at the Bratislava university, made a similar request on behalf of the Slovaks a few years ago. It cost him a twenty year prison sentence.

LAKE SHORE DRIVE TROLLEY HEARING NEARING A CLOSE

Hearings on the petition of the Lincoln park commissioners for removal of the street car tracks from Lake Shore drive, after dragging through the records of the Illinois commerce commission for eight years, are expected to be brought to a conclusion this month.

On orders of Chairman G. Gale Gilbert final briefs of attorneys for the park commissioners, Chicago Surface Lines, Chicago city council and numerous intervening petitioners, must be submitted tomorrow. Oral arguments are set for Sept. 26 and the commission will then be in a position to enter a decision.

Thousands of pages of testimony have been crammed into the record since the park commissioners in 1924 requested removal of the tracks, which had been laid down in 1920 on a certificate of convenience and public necessity for the Pageant of Progress at Navy pier. In 1926 the commission ruled in favor of the city and the surface lines denying the petition. On a petition for a rehearing the case was reopened.

STATIC AT DOCTORS' ROUND TABLE DEFEATS HYPNOTIC WAVE TEST

Twenty skeptical physicians proved too great an obstacle for the hypnotic waves emitted by Capt. James P. O'Donovan, a psychoanalyst, at a meeting of the Medical Round Table in the Bismarck hotel last night. The waves were upset by the static produced by the doubting minds of the medical audience, was the way Capt. O'Donovan explained the failure of his subjects, three girls and a man, to respond fully to his suggestions.

Capt. O'Donovan put his subjects, one at a time, into a "cabalistic sleep." Neurologists present said such a phenomenon is quite possible. Then he attempted to have the subjects dilate the pupil of one eye while the other remained at normal size. The test failed. Next he attempted to have the subjects lose their reflexes, but their legs jerked with normal reaction to the thumpings of the doctors.

The purpose of the tests was to determine whether or not hypnotism might be used instead of anaesthesia for operations, but the results gave no grounds for such a belief. The captain's power of suggestion was great enough to make one of the girls sneeze by telling her a feather was tickling her nose.

SWIFT POLICE WORK SOLVES KILLING, HOLDUP

Bandits Trailed, Caught Before Victim Dies.

CRIMINAL COURT.

Swift, efficient work by the Chicago police yesterday brought about the solution of two crimes.

The most spectacular of the accomplishments was the arrest of two youthful robbers less than an hour after they had shot and fatally wounded one man and injured another in a $75 stickup of the meat market of Ernest Krampert at 5956 South Halsted street.

Caught as Victim Dies.

Krampert, who was 45 years old, died in the Englewood hospital as the men were being taken there to be identified. The identification was made by the second victim, Edward Kirsch of 6137 Kenwood avenue, a butcher, who was shot in the back.

In the second case four youths confessed that they were members of the band of five bandits who raided the Lake County State bank in North Chicago on Sept. 7 and escaped with $2,018 after shooting and seriously wounding Mrs. Moneta Steffen, 25 years old, a bookkeepr.

A Crowded Hour.

5:50 p. m.—Robbers entered store and shot Krampert and Kirsch, seemingly from sheer nervousness, and fled.

5:52 p. m.—Policeman Frank Miller of the Englewood station, seeing their flight, fired four bullets into the car, in which the killers joined a third man.

6:10 p. m.—Police calls were broadcast commanding arrest of men in a Plymouth car with first four license numbers 1,245.

6:25 p. m.—Policemen James Daley and Izar Rake of the Grand Crossing station caught the police radio message, spotted the car and followed it to 7903 Rhodes avenue.

6:45 p. m.—Reinforcements arrived, the house was searched, two men captured and sent on their way to the hospital.

Both Granted Probation.

Those under arrest are Francis [Angel Face] Crotty, handsome, 25 years old, well dressed and an ex-convict, and Peter Balcuilis, 21 years old, who was put on probation as an automobile thief last May 31 by Judge Stanton of the Criminal court. Crotty was a recipient of probation, also as an automobile thief, in 1929.

At the detective bureau, where they were taken by Lieut. John McGinnis, the two men were identified by customers of the store and the "Angel Face" broke down.

Confesses Shooting Two.

"I'll take the rap," he said. "I shot 'em both."

Those who admitted participating in the bank holdup were Clifford Heaney, 20 years old, 1649 Juneway terrace; Joseph Beck, 20 years old, 5407 Justine street; Ernest Rupprecht, 25 years old, 1748 West 51st street, and Frank Wagner, 19 years old, 5252 South Marshfield avenue. Heaney was captured at his home last night by Sergts. John Kilty and Chester Rice of the New City station. The others were taken by the same policemen on the south side Monday night.

Heaney admitted that he shot the woman bookkeeper. He and the others all agreed that after the holdup they drove to Elgin, split the loot, abandoned their stolen car, and came to Chicago by train.

Two of the four told what they had done with their money. Wagner said he bought a second hand car with his share. Beck gave his to a girl. Rupprecht, an ex-convict, and Heaney were reticent about their spending.

The four men will be taken to Waukegan by Sheriff Lester Tiffany of Lake county. Warrants charging them with robbery and shooting to kill were issued there last night.

French President's Assassin Put to Death on Guillotine

BY EDMOND TAYLOR.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

PARIS, Sept. 14. [Wednesday.]—Paul Gorguloff, slayer of President Paul Doumer, met death under the guillotine, which is the official instrument of French justice, at 5:53 this morning.

The execution was performed by the veteran, Anatole Deibler, "Monsieur de Paris." After a wagon load of assistants put together the pieces of the death machine in the broad sidewalk running alongside grim Sante prison wall, M. Deibler came along, hoisted the knife to the top of the framework and turned back the cover of a wicker basket.

Arrives in Horsedrawn Van.

Gorguloff, smiling and serene, arrived in a dismal horsedrawn van. Veteran attendants and police officers remarked it was an extraordinary exhibition of calm.

The door of the hearse, opening, revealed the tall, well built figure of the prisoner, his shoulders naked and the back of his head shaven. Then police guards emerged, and a Greek orthodox priest kissed the smiling assassin on both cheeks. Handcuffed, he then emerged between two guards, remarking to his attorney, "I die for my idea." Then, glancing toward the waiting knife, he remarked, "there is the law."

The attorney, M. Geraud, believing to the last that M. Gorguloff was demented, said, the moment after the execution, "he declared to the very end that he had nothing against France. He merely wished to call attention to the present government's 'collusion with the bolshevist government.'"

Asks His Wife's Pardon.

President Paul Doumer died May 7 of gunshot wounds after a long struggle during which doctors hoped at first they would be able to save the 75 year old statesman from the shock and loss of blood caused by the two bullet wounds.

The president was shot while attending a book sale for war orphans, a social gathering at the Rothschild foundation. He was chatting with Claude Farrere, famous novelist, when Gorguloff slipped up beside him and fired a bullet through his head and another through his back. The assassin was seized by police. Ferrere received a bullet wound in his arm trying to shield Doumer.

An effort made to prove Gorguloff insane failed, and on July 27, after a consultation lasting 30 minutes, he was found guilty of the murder by a French jury and sentenced to death. Demand for retrial was denied by the Court of Appeals.

Gorguloff's past history was never definitely determined. He was accused of being a White Russian, an ex-communist, a former Cheka [soviet secret police] agent, and a leader of the green peasant bands of Russia.

In various statements he said he killed President Doumer because of the tolerant French policy toward the soviet republic, and because of a demon which "haunted" him.

Democrats and Repeal Forces Jubilant.

form of political alibi. There were some local cross currents which were readily discernible, but this was not sufficient.

Must Fight the Harder.

"The fact is that Republicans are confronted by opposition well organized and enthusiastic. The answer is that we should organize and develop enthusiasm.

"This is not the first time Maine has selected a Democratic governor in a presidential year when a Republican was elected President. Therefore, the policy of Republicans henceforth is to remember 1880 and repeat the job."

This was a reference to the only presidential election year since the birth of the Republican party in which the Democrats elected a governor of Maine. And even in 1880 it was not a clean cut contest between Republicans and Democrats, as it was on Monday, for the Republicans that year were defeated by a fusion of Democrats and Greenbackers by a margin of only 169 votes.

Farley Is Jubilant.

Democratic National Chairman Farley grinningly opined that "as Maine goes, so goes the ball game," and said he was awaiting most impatiently a Republican explanation of the Democratic sweep in Maine.

"The Democrats do not concede a single state," he added. "I think it must be admitted by Mr. Hoover's supporters that in this particular commonwealth the Democratic prospects were no better, to put it mildly, than in the least promising (from our point of view) of the so-called doubtful states.

"According to the latest figures I have seen our Maine vote has increased 55 per cent in the state at large over the 1928 figures. In the second congressional district our improvement has been 44 per cent and in the third district 57 per cent. I know of no reason why these percentages should not obtain throughout the United States. In many sections we know from the registration figures that these percentages will probably be exceeded.

"Assuming that the total vote will approximate that of four years ago, about 35,000,000, these percentages would indicate Gov. Roosevelt's election by nearly 10,000,000 majority."

Denies Special Motives.

Mr. Farley said that Maine was no harder hit by the depression than the rest of the country and had no more reason to resent "the evasive, vacillating and dilatory policies of the administration.

"The result of yesterday's election," he went on, "is the natural consequence of the citizens' belief that under Gov. Roosevelt we will have a more competent direction of national affairs than we could possibly have under Mr. Hoover. The Democratic campaign was no more intensive in Maine than it will be in the other states. I think we are safe in saying that Gov. Roosevelt will run even stronger in Maine than the local and congressional tickets have done.

"It has long been a political maxim invoked by the Republicans every time they have carried the Pine Tree state, that as Maine goes, so goes the ball game. For once I believe that the maxim is valid. However, it is for the Republican leaders to do the interpreting and explaining. They will have a lot of it to do in November."

Hope to Profit by Warning.

Senator Daniel O. Hastings [Rep., Del.], assistant eastern Republican manager, thought it fortunate that reverse in Maine had come early enough to spur the Republicans to "real activity."

"The trouble with many good Republicans," he said, "is that they cannot conceive of men like Roosevelt and Garner being elected. The Maine election shows that it is possible. Out of it all may come the necessary alarm which will help save the country from such a disaster."

Mayor Frank Hague of Jersey City, who said at the Democratic national convention that Roosevelt could not carry a single eastern state, commented that the Maine results reflected conditions typical of those in the entire country. The millions out of work, he predicted, are going to vote their "protest against the way they have suffered."

The American Business Men's Prohibition foundation called the Maine vote a "timely warning" to prohibitionists "that pussyfooting and indifferent support of prohibition will no longer prove adequate to prevent the successful advance of liquor's comeback forces."

Analysis of Vote.

That the electorate is aroused as seldom before is indicated by the fact that with the exception of 1924 the total vote cast in Maine on Monday was the largest since 1920 when women began voting. The Maine vote and party pluralities since 1912 follow:

	Republican.	Democrat.	Plurality.
1912	70,931	67,702	3,229
1914	58,887	62,076	3,189
1916	81,760	67,930	13,830
1920	135,303	70,047	65,346
1924	145,281	108,626	36,655
1928	148,055	65,573	83,482
1932	117,412	118,792	1,380

Compared with 1928 the Republican vote in Maine on Monday fell off 30,000 while the Democratic vote increased 52,000. To what extent this was due to the defection of Republican vets, the abstention from the polls of Republican drys or the shifting of votes in protest against economic conditions is a matter of guess work.

Latest Returns.

With only 17 of the state's 632 precincts unreported the returns from the governorship contest gave Brann, the Democratic candidate, 118,792 and his Republican rival, Burleigh Martin, 117,412.

In the first congressional district Representative Carroll L. Beedy, Republican, was reelected by a vote of 46,997, his Democratic opponent, Joseph F. Connolly, receiving 33,916.

With only 2 precincts missing in the second district, E. C. Moran Jr., Democrat, won the congress seat with 42,009 votes to 39,814 polled by the Republican candidate, Representative John E. Nelson.

Returns from 262 out of 274 precincts in the third district gave John G. Utterback, Democrat, 34,334; former Gov. Ralph O. Brewster, Republican, 33,190.

Both Beedy, who was reelected and Nelson, who was defeated, had voted consistently dry in congress. Brewster, when governor, termed liquor drinkers "selective anarchists" and removed the sheriff of Kennebec county for failure to enforce the prohibition law.

DIVORCE DUE FOR 20 YEARS, WIFE SAYS; GETS ONE

Mrs. Bertha R. Freshman, 1755 East 55th street, told Superior Judge Joseph B. David yesterday that she should have divorced her husband, Sigmund, a radio manufacturer, twenty years ago. Her statement was made during her testimony in substantiation of her bill for divorce on grounds of cruelty. Judge David granted her a decree.

"I didn't want to separate from my husband while the children were small," Mrs. Freshman said. "Now they all are of age and there is no reason for me to remain his wife."

The couple were married in October, 1902, and separated last June 16. There are three children. Mrs. Freshman testified that her husband struck her on several occasions.

M'NALLY SAYS BEATING KILLED MINER IN JAIL

No trace of strychnine or opiates was found in the vital organs of Martin Virant, alleged police third degree victim, who was found hanged in his cell in the Tazewell county jail in Pekin on Sept. 1. This was revealed yesterday by Dr. William D. McNally of Chicago, after completing the examination. Dr. McNally said he believes Virant, an East Peoria miner, died as a result of a beating and probably was dead before he was hanged in his cell.

"I have notified Coroner A. E. Allen of Tazewell county of my findings," Dr. McNally said, "and will go to Pekin Thursday morning to testify at the inquest."

Deputy Sheriff C. O. Skinner of Pekin is being held on a murder charge in connection with the death. Dr. McNally said his examination was made to determine whether Virant died as a result of a beating or as a result of "knockout drops." Virant had been arrested for questioning in connection with a murder. At the inquest into the death Virant testified he had been beaten and kicked while held in jail and accused Skinner.

HOOVER SOUNDS MAINE ALARM TO AROUSE SANDERS

Get Busy, Is Gist of His Message.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Sept. 13.—[Special.]—The gloomy shadow of another eclipse darkened the political sun over the White House today as the returns from Maine, with all their traditional force as an indicator of national sentiment, told of a forceful Democratic victory.

EVERETT SANDERS.

Republican heads shook sadly and astounded voices muttered.

After that first shock, however, there was stir and bustle. Replying to a reassuring wire from Everett Sanders, chairman of the Republican national committee at Chicago, President Hoover telegraphed back:

"The result of the election in Maine imposes need for renewed and stronger effort that the people may fully understand the issues at stake. We have known all along that, owing to the ravages of the world depression, our fight is a hard one; but we have a strong case and a right cause. Our task is to acquaint every man and woman in the country with the facts and issues which confront the nation.

Reaffirms His Policies.

"In periods of emergency and stress steadfast adherence to sound principles of government is indispensable to national security and a prerequisite to recovery in business, agriculture, and employment. Adherence to these principles has saved the country during the last twelve months from all manner of destructive panaceas. This adherence and the measures and policies we have adopted have preserved these principles and laid the foundation for recovery.

"My chief concern now is that the work of reconstruction shall go forward steadily and that the forces we have mobilized to that end and which are beginning to prove effective shall continue. This transcends all personal and partisan considerations."

May Force Hoover into Campaign.

The word was passed around that the Republican motto was to emulate the illustrious defiance of John Paul Jones: "We've not yet begun to fight."

The point made by more than one Republican counselor was, however, that if they were to fight Mr. Hoover, himself must be out front.

Strong representations to this effect were made to the President. He was advised that it evidently was not sufficient for him to sit back and confine himself to a few statesmanlike radio addresses while Gov. Roosevelt stumped the country.

Hammond Man Pays $535; Saves Baby from Kidnaper

Sam Edelstein, a fruit merchant in Hammond, Ind., yesterday told police that he had paid $535 to an armed man who threatened to kidnap the one year old Edelstein baby. The man entered the store, Edelstein said, took the baby from the crib and said: "Give me $3,000 or I'll take the kid." The extortionist accepted $535, tied Edelstein and his wife with rope and fled, the merchant said.

DEMOCRATS GET 3 LEADERS OUT OF VICTORY IN MAINE

They Are Insurance Man, Lawyer, Auto Dealer.

Portland, Me., Sept. 13.—(AP)—Out of yesterday's hotly contested state election emerged three leaders of Maine Democracy today, dissimilar in most of their traits, residents of widely separated parts of the state, of diverse occupations, but possessing a common background of rigorous training in the hurlyburly of Maine politics.

The trio the electorate marked for political favor were Louis J. Brann, Lewiston attorney, whom it elevated to the governorship, and Edward C. Moran Jr., Rockland insurance agent, and John G. Utterback, Bangor automobile dealer, who won two of the state's three seats in the national house of representatives.

Brann, a Republican when he was graduated from the University of Maine in 1908, became a Democrat after he had made his home in Lewiston, the stronghold of Maine Democracy, and started practice of law in partnership with Daniel J. McGillicuddy, Maine's last Democratic representative in congress.

Six Times Elected Mayor.

A diligent worker and persuasive campaigner, Brann successfully was rewarded by election as judge of probate, appointment as judge of Lewiston's Municipa court and six consecutive elections as Lewiston's mayor.

Succesful last June in a five cornered contest for the Democratic nomination for governor, he at once expanded his reputation as a harmonizer of factions, enlisting the aid of one of his defeated opponents as campaign manager, touring the state with another, who was named national committeeman, and welding his fellow-partisans together in the most militant organization that Democratic ranks had known in a decade.

Moran's election as congressman came after two unsuccessful bids for public office. As a candidate for governor, he led his party in 1928 and 1930 in campaigns against Republican odds. An orator—he won his reputation as an undergraduate debater in Bowdoin college—Moran's voice has been raised in behalf of many a cause in Maine politics.

Fights for Fewer Bureaus.

As his party's nominee for governor, he fought against modification of Maine's regulations against the export of hydro-electric power, despite a plank in his party platform favoring repeal of the anti-export law.

In his two unsuccessful campaigns for the governorship he assailed the Republican administration for failure to reorganize its bureaus.

When Gov. William Tudor Gardiner, by whom he twice had been defeated, launched a campaign to reorganize the administrative departments Moran became his political adversary's chief lieutenant in the endeavor to win support for the proposed bill. The reorganization plan was adopted by the legislature, submitted to the people in referendum, and carried by a generous margin.

Utterback, of the three, is the most unorthodox politican. Coming to Bangor as a youth without political aspirations, he early started to build the fences which stood him in such good stead yesterday. He established himself in the carriage business, traveling by buggy through the counties which now constitute the 3d congressional district.

In 25 years Utterback's business was transformed from carriages to automobiles, but he continued to make his excursions about the territory, winning a reputation as one of the most widely known business men in northern Maine. His "spellbinding" was done among his friends and in the shops of his business acquaintances. He made one venture into politics, running for the office of mayor of Bangor on a reform ticket at a time when reform tickets were reputedly not extremely popular. To the astonishment of the old line politicians, he won.

Utterback's political career suspended with this early venture, until he heeded the call of his party and entered the lists again this year in the stanchest of Maine's Republican districts.

Editorials of Nation's Press Differ Upon Results in Maine

BALTIMORE SUN [Dem.]—The verdict [illegible]ages the expectation that the average citizen, "the forgotten man" of current controversy, has decided to turn thumbs down on the Grand Old Party's claims to popular support.

BOSTON HERALD [Rep.] — The storm which raged "way down east" Monday may well lose its violence before it reaches the rest of the states eight weeks from now. A President can outlive a tempest where others are lost.

CHATTANOOGA TIMES [Dem.]—The triumph of wet Democrats over dry Republicans in three out of four important contests in a state which is normally Republican and which was the first to adopt prohibition gives the dry cause another jolt.

CINCINNATI ENQUIRER [Ind. Dem.]—Many factors united to bring about the election of the fourth Democratic governor in Maine since the civil war, but the most important of these must have been economic conditions and dissatisfaction with Republican efforts to remedy these conditions.

CLEVELAND PLAIN DEALER [Dem.]—The prohibition issue probably figured in the overturn, but a greater influence was the widespread dissatisfaction with the Hoover administration's handling of the problems arising from the depression.

DALLAS, TEX., NEWS [Ind. Dem.]—It looks like a hard year on Hoover—its been hard enough on the rest of us already.

DETROIT FREE PRESS [Ind.]—Unquestionably the happening is a matter of nation-wide interest, but just how much it actually signifies as a forecast of the outcome in the presidential election is a point open to dispute. The Democrats . . . have excuse for some jubilation and the Republicans considerable reason for thought and prayer.

HARTFORD COURANT [Rep.]—The conclusion seems inescapable that, if the voters of Maine in any degree reflect the sentiments of the voters elsewhere, the resentment caused by the depression has gone deeper than any one, including the politicians, has realized.

INDIANAPOLIS STAR [Ind. Rep.]—The extent to which the wet and dry issue entered into the result of the voting in Maine seems to have been a real factor, but does not account for all the showing made by Democratic nominees. The fact is apparent that the Democrats were able to realize on the depression.

LITTLE ROCK GAZETTE [Ind. Dem.]—The tremendous overturn is doubly significant. It was not caused by a split among the Republicans, as when there were both regular and Bull Moose tickets in the field. And it comes on the eve of a presidential election. It surely may with complete fairness and conservatism be taken as an indication of political opinion in general.

NEW YORK HERALD TRIBUNE [Rep.]—The striking victory of the Democrats in Maine is a challenge to Republicanism the country over. No intelligent leader will seek to minimize its significance. Unmistakably a depression psychology still ruled the minds of these voters. The turn in the economic tide, gradually making itself felt in various trades and sections and slowly becoming visible in the indices of business activity, had not penetrated to this region sufficiently to overcome the normal reaction of hard times. The extent to which prohibition influenced the balloting may be difficult to measure with accuracy.

NEW YORK TIMES [Ind. Dem.]—The Maine election may not be a good "political barometer," but it is a pretty efficient seismograph. It accurately records the occurrence of an electoral earthquake. No other description fits the totally unexpected overturn. To have elected a governor Secretary Mills put the best face possible upon the Republican campaign in Maine, when he asked the voters "Why change?" Their answer came on Monday like the sound of many waters, "We want a change."

PHILADELPHIA INQUIRER [Rep.]—The result will come as a disappointment to Republicans in this part of the country, but even in their chagrin they will know that it does not mean that Gov. Roosevelt is going to carry the Pine Tree state in the presidential election. Dissatisfaction with local and state affairs played some part in the result.

PORTLAND OREGONIAN [Rep.]—Maine elections have never changed the course of a presidential campaign. It is doubtful that they have influenced a handful of votes.

ST. LOUIS GLOBE-DEMOCRAT [Independent]—That Maine, which was one of the first of all the states to adopt prohibition and which has stanchly upheld it for eighty-six years, should, with the issue indisputably defined, declare against prohibition is immensely significant in the year when the day of reckoning for prohibition has come.

U. S. INDICTMENT ACCUSES SIX OF BANKRUPT FRAUD

Six men were charged with conspiracy to conceal assets in bankruptcy yesterday in an indictment returned before Federal Judge Charles E. Woodward. They are Gus C. Korbakas, his brother, Agesilaus, owners of three confectionery stores; D. G. Michalopoulos, an attorney at 11 South La Salle street; Constantine Giovan, president of the Drexel Ice Cream company, 3000 Shields avenue; Peter D. Economos, 4803 West Chicago avenue, and Peter C. Sikokis.

An involuntary bankruptcy proceeding was started on Jan. 7, 1931, against the three confectionery stores at 5180 and 5588 Belmont avenue and 1240 Milwaukee avenue. The Korbakas brothers listed assets of $128,000 and liabilities of $75,745. M. M. Martin was appointed receiver.

The Korbakas brothers defrauded creditors of $48,000, the government charged, by the manipulation and transfer of property after the receiver was appointed. The others named in the indictment aided the Korbakas brothers in the illegal transfers, the indictment charged. Bench warrants were issued for the arrest of the six defendants. Bond of $2,500 each was set by Judge Woodward.

DIES AFTER SLASHING THROAT.

Rock Island, Ill., Sept. 13.—[Special.]—Thomas H. Durham, 54, who slashed his wife's throat and then his own with a razor in a murder and suicide attempt last Thursday, died today of pneumonia in St. Anthony's hospital.

BRUCKER LEADS MICHIGAN G. O. P. GOVERNOR RACE

Cramton, a Dry, Is Ahead in Congress Contest.

Detroit, Mich., Sept. 13.—(AP)—Gov. Wilber M. Brucker, Republican, had a lead of more than 57,000 votes over his nearest opponent in returns from 1,036 of the state's 3,417 precincts in today's primary.

The vote was:

George W. Welsh, 60,577.

William H. McKeighan, 38,392.

Two other candidates trailed far behind.

In 800 precincts William A. Comstock polled more than three times the total vote of his two opponents for the Democratic nomination. His total was 48,080.

Returns from congressional contests indicated that two former representatives—Louis C. Cramton and Grant M. Hudson—were making close races with the incumbents, who defeated them in primaries two years ago.

Cramton was ahead of Representative Jesse P. Wolcott in returns from 18 precincts in the 7th district, the vote being: Cramton, 2,186; Wolcott, 1,705. Representative Seymour H. Person was ahead in 9 precincts of the 6th district, with 1,172 votes, while Hudson had 868.

Long's Candidate Wins.

New Orleans, La., Sept. 13.—(AP)—Senator Edwin S. Broussard was defeated for renomination to the United States senate by Representative John H. Overton, backed by Senator Huey P. Long, in today's Democratic primary election. Unofficial, incomplete returns carried Overton's majority past the 40,000 mark, with indications it would increase on later returns.

Smith Defeats Blease.

Columbia, S. C., Sept. 13.—(AP)—Ellison D. Smith, veteran South Carolina senator, won a decisive victory over Cole L. Blease, former senator, in today's runoff Democratic primary for the United States senate nomination on the face of nearly complete unofficial returns tabulated tonight.

Reports from 1,393 of the state's 1,444 precincts gave Smith 146,907 votes, against 142,382 for Blease, a majority of more than 34,000.

Moses Is Renominated.

Concord, N. H., Sept. 13.—(AP)—U. S. Senator George H. Moses, president pro tem. of the United States senate, was renominated by the Republican voters of New Hampshire in today's primaries.

Moses virtually was unopposed although Joseph L. Richards whose name did not appear on the ballot had asked voters to write in his name. With more than half of the election districts tabulated, Moses had 13,364 votes against a scattering few for Richards.

Fred H. Brown, former mayor, governor, and United States district attorney and present public service commissioner, was leading in the Democratic fight for the right to oppose Moses in the November elections.

Gov. John G. Winant was far in the van in his race for the Republican renomination. With the same districts reported he had 14,212 votes against 2,238 for his opponent, George I. Haseltom, Manchester attorney.

Vermont Votes for Governor.

Montpelier, Vt., Sept. 13.—(AP)—Gov. Stanley C. Wilson was renominated in today's Republican gubernatorial primary contest by a close margin over W. Arthur Simpson of Lyndonville, who opposed him in the gubernatorial primary two years ago. The outcome was in doubt until Wilson was rolled out in front on a wave of last hour returns.

Two hundred and twenty-two cities and towns out of 248 gave: Wilson, 34,229; Simpson, 30,950.

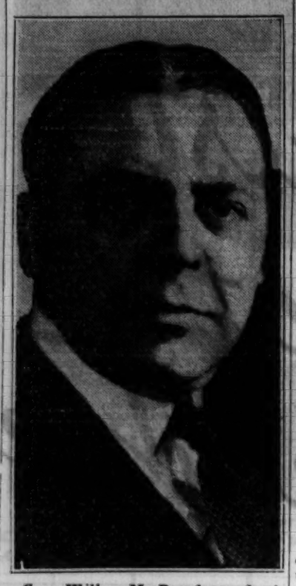
Barnett Leads in Colorado.

Denver, Colo., Sept. 13.—(AP)—John T. Barnett retained a slight lead over Alva B. Adams, in the Democratic senatorial race tonight as returns in the record breaking state primary were received slowly.

Barnett had 5,474 and Adams, 4,583, with 108 out of 1,548 precincts in the state counted.

In the Republican race for the senatorial nomination Karl C. Schuyler had 2,187 votes and Nate C. Warren

Leads in Michigan



Gov. Wilber M. Brucker, who is leading four opponents in Michigan primary.

1,283 with 55 out of 1,548 precincts in the state tabulated.

Early returns showed Edwin C. Johnson with a two to one lead over Judge E. V. Holland in the Democratic gubernatorial race. With 108 precincts in the state counted Johnson had 3,058 votes, Holland, 1,425.

Jones Ahead in Washington.

Seattle, Wash., Sept. 13.—(AP)—Scattering returns from only 13 incomplete precincts out of 2,682 in Washington tonight gave Wesley L. Jones 129 votes for Republican renomination to 58 for his opponent, Adam Beeler.

In the Democratic senatorial race Homer T. Bone, Tacoma attorney, led with 132 votes. Stephen F. Chadwick had 43 votes; Edwin J. Brown, 17, and Lloyd Black, 12. The returns came from widely separated parts of the state.

Arizona Nominates Governor.

Phoenix, Ariz., Sept. 13.—(AP)—B. B. Moeur, a Tempe, Ariz., doctor making his first bid for political fame, jumped into an early lead tonight over Arizona's long-time governor, George W. P. Hunt, 73-year-old veteran, for the Democratic gubernatorial nomination.

In 70 precincts, partially complete, out of 457 the count gave Moeur 5,473; Hunt, 3,234; K. Berry Peterson, Arizona attorney general, 2,731; Fred Sutter, 1,225, and Webster C. Reed, 345.

The Democratic nomination for governor is expected to be tantamount to election, with 113,000 of the state's 142,000 voters expressing a Democratic preference.

In the Republican gubernatorial contest, J. C. Kinney held a slight lead, polling 660 votes in 35 precincts, with W. W. Midgley receiving 470 ballots and William Walton 141.

DE VALERA ASKS THIRD PARTY TO HOLD ANNUITIES

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Sept. 13.—Indications that a way might still be found to renew negotiations on the Anglo-Irish dispute over payment of land annuities due Great Britain were evident today. The dominions office received a communication from President de Valera of the Free State suggesting that the moneys be placed in the hands of a third party pending settlement of the dispute.

This step, however, carried the quarrel only a little way toward a reopening of conversations. De Valera made a similar suggestion in a speech several days ago. There is also nothing to indicate that he has relented on his insistence that a tribunal to hear both sides of the case be made up of a nonimperial character. The British insist that the court be made up of dominions representatives.

But the note constitutes an alternative to Prime Minister MacDonald's insistence that, pending arbitration, the annuities should be deposited with the British government before the question is settled.

ROOSEVELT BIDS FOR FARM VOTE AT TOPEKA TODAY

Governor Is Cheered by Maine Victory.

BY JOHN BOETTIGER.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

En Route with Roosevelt to Topeka, Kas., Sept. 13.—[Special.]—Gov. Roosevelt rolled swiftly across the yellowing fields of Ohio, Indiana and Illinois today on the first day of his sortie into lands which he hopes will deliver him into the presidency of the United States.

The Democratic nominee was in high glee over the news that Maine, long a citadel of Republicanism, had gone Democratic.

McNutt Visits Governor.

All during the morning and early afternoon various reports on the Maine election were brought to the Roosevelt special train, but it was Paul V. McNutt, Democratic nominee for governor of Indiana, who at Indianapolis told Gov. Roosevelt that the final results in Maine showed that Louis J. Brann, the Democrat, had been elected governor. Most of the Roosevelt leaders had been willing to concede Maine to the Republicans, although the governor himself has always refused to concede a single state to Hoover. With this erstwhile stronghold of Republicanism gone Democratic, the Roosevelt managers now look for a victory stretching from sea to sea, boundary to boundary.

Members of the governor's party declared that the Maine victory was all the more significant in view of the claims made by the Maine G. O. P. leaders that their candidates would won by 25,000.

Engineer Averts Tragedy.

The Roosevelt entry into Illinois almost brought on tragedy. In Paris, south of Danville, a crowd had gathered to wave to the governor as he rode by, and the press of enthusiasts brought some of them so perilously close to the railroad tracks that the engineer piloting the Roosevelt special, fearful of an accident, brought it to a grinding stop, a stop so sudden that it spilled a vase of flowers from a table in the governor's car into the lap of M. H. McIntyre, the Roosevelt campaign business manager.

For a few seconds members of the party thought the train had struck something, but as soon as the emergency brakes could be released the train went on.

Paris had profited by gaining a full glimpse of Mr. Roosevelt, who waved from the window of his car.

At Mattoon, where a five minute stop was made, a crowd of several thousand had gathered at the Big Four depot. Fully three-fourths of the men were garbed in overalls, and they drew expressions from the nominee on the issue closest to their hearts.

Shout for Beer.

"When do we get beer?" called out a husky Egyptian. "I hope pretty soon," Gov. Roosevelt called back, and was cheered for his answer.

"We want jobs, too," this from a sober faced man.

"I know you do, and I want to help you get them," came the reply, and this brought applause.

An ex-soldier tried to get Mr. Roosevelt to express himself on the bonus, but Gov. Roosevelt, tight lipped on this issue all day, despite many such queries, ignored the question.

"I and my family all voted for Al Smith in '28," came another call. "We're going to vote for you, all of us, this time."

Hears Encouraging Words.

"Thanks," said the governor. "I appreciate that." "Say," popped up another voice, "lots of us around here voted for Hoover in '28, and we're all going to vote for Roosevelt this year."

Gov. Roosevelt laughed and said, "That seems to make it unanimous."

McNutt, who came to the depot at Indianapolis, one of a large group of cheering Hoosiers, was spotted quickly by Gov. Roosevelt and invited to the observation platform of the governor's private car.

Putting his arm around McNutt, the former national commander of the American Legion, Gov. Roosevelt hailed him enthusiastically before the crowd as "the next governor of Indiana."

Anxious to See Him.

Indiana seemed anxious to get a glimpse of the standard bearer. At Anderson a crowd of 5,000 had gathered, but they must have been disappointed for the train hardly slowed down at all and the delegation never caught even a glimpse of Mr. Roosevelt. Citizens of other cities and villages on the way gathered along the Big Four tracks to wave to the governor.

None of the stops in Ohio gave much of an opportunity for Buckeyes to show their feelings for or against the Democratic nominee. The stop at Cleveland was too early for a crowd to gather. But several Ohio Democratic leaders boarded the train at this and other stops to bring assurances that Ohio, no less than her sister state of Indiana was going Democratic.

The governor's special passed through the southern end of Illinois, where the Egyptians showed their enthusiasm for Roosevelt, and thence all the way across the state of Missouri, with short stops at St. Louis and Jefferson City.

Happy to Be in Missouri.

The governor ended a busy day at Jefferson City where he addressed five thousand Missourians gathered to greet him in the plaza in front of the statehouse. Introduced by former Senator James A. Reed, the governor said:

"I am very happy to be in the capital city of Missouri and to be introduced by my old friend Senator Reed. It has been a happy day because it began with the announcement that Maine had gone Democratic. If Maine does that, what will Missouri do?"

This query brought a burst of cheers from the crowd. The governor waved a vigorous farewell and was driven back to the train, where he went at once to his stateroom and to bed.

Tomorrow morning will find the governor traversing the fertile plains of Kansas. A two hour stop is scheduled at Kansas City early tomorrow morning, too early for the governor to be up, unless he is willing to brave a 5:30 rising to greet his running mate John N. Garner of Texas, who will ride on the train with him to Topeka.

Busy Revising Speech.

The governor spent every spare minute today revising his speech on the agricultural situation, which is to be delivered at Topeka at noon tomorrow and which has been heralded as one of the most important addresses to be made by Gov. Roosevelt during the entire campaign. The governor has been told repeatedly by spokesmen for the millions of American farm folks that if he holds out to them anything of real hope for better days, they will flock to his support. He is anxious to win that support, and it is known that the governor has struggled and sweated as much over his stand on this issue as any other in the campaign.

Wins in Louisiana

Representative John Overton, who defeated Senator E. S. Broussard in Louisiana Democratic senate primary.

'MA' FERGUSON IS NOMINATED, CONVENTION SAYS

Lubbock, Tex., Sept. 13.—(AP)—The Texas Democratic convention late today declared Mrs. Miriam A. [Ma] Ferguson the party's nominee for governor and soon afterward her defeated opponent, Gov. R. S. Sterling, filed suit contesting her nomination on the grounds of election fraud.

After adopting a report of the party executive committee that canvassed returns of the August runoff primary, showing Mrs. Ferguson had received 3,798 more votes than Gov. Sterling, the convention formally nominated her for governor and adjourned.

Meanwhile, Gov. Sterling filed suit in the District court at Austin contesting the election. He contended that "many thousands" of illegal votes were cast for Mrs. Ferguson, who previously served a term as governor.

Sterling had claimed in bitter post-campaign statements that he received the majority of votes cast. He had expressed confidence he ultimately would win the Democratic nomination and had planned to carry his fight to the floor of the convention today, but he did not do so.

Nude Body of Woman Is Found; Her Son Held

Galesburg, Ill., Sept. 13.—[Special.]—The nude body of a woman believed to be Mrs. Alice Boyer, 47, who lived on a farm near this city, was found in a canal at Joliet today. Her son, Arvid, 21, is being held in the Warren county jail at Monmouth for questioning.

Town in Indiana Revives 30 Year Old Curfew Law

English, Ind., Sept. 13.—[Special.]—A curfew ordinance adopted thirty years ago is again effective in English, and Vollie Smith, night marshal, says it will be strictly enforced. It applies to persons under 16 years old and provides $10 fine as penalty. The new electric fire siren is used for the curfew, the ordinance providing it shall sound at 8 o'clock from May 1 to Nov. 1 and at 6 o'clock from Nov. 1 to May 1.

ESKIMOS SAVE FLYING FAMILY IN GREENLAND

ANGMAGSALIK, Greenland, Sept. 12.—(AP)—After a two day search along the east Greenland coast by aviators and seamen the Hutchinson "Flying Family" was found today on a beach less than forty miles from here. They had cracked up their trans-Atlantic plane in a treacherous reef filled fjord.

The party of eight, including George R. Hutchinson, his wife, and two daughters, 6 and 8 years of age, were picked up by the British trawler Lord Talbot, which had been scouting around a position given by the Hutchinsons in an S O S call since Sunday afternoon.

Forced Down by Sleet.

The Lord Talbot arrived at Angmagsalik late today with the Hutchinson party. Hutchinson said his plane was forced down by sleet and smashed on a reef by the waves.

He, his wife, children, and others in the party were able to wade ashore and reached the tiny Eskimo settlement of Eker, whose few inhabitants were preparing to abandon the place for the winter. In a few more weeks they would have been on their way to Angmagsalik.

Captain Tells of Rescue.

Capt. Thomas Watson of the Lord Talbot tonight said he had located the Hutchinsons in Ikersuak fjord at 1 a. m. [Greenwich mean time] today.

"We noticed flares coming from the lower end of the fjord," he said, "and sent out light signals in Morse, which were answered in kind by the Hutchinsons.

"The mate landed and talked with Hutchinson, who said everything was well. The boat returned to the ship at 2:15 a. m., and the mate informed me he and Hutchinson had decided the swell was too heavy to permit embarkation in the darkness. We brought them aboard after dawn, the rescue consuming about three hours. The plane was a wreck."

Members of the party attempting the trans-Atlantic flight by easy stages with Hutchinson, wife and two daughters, included Peter Redpath, navigator; Gerald Altfillisch, radio operator; Joseph Ruff, mechanic, and Norman Alley, cameraman.

They left New York Aug. 23 and had made stops at St. John, N. B., Anticosti island, Hopedale, Labrador, and Godthaab and Julianehaab, in Greenland.

Suffering from Exposure.

[Copyright: 1932: By the New York Times.]

ANGMAGSALIK, Sept. 13. — The members of the "Flying Hutchinson" party which was landed here today by the trawler Lord Talbot were not provided with Arctic outfits and seemed to be suffering much from exposure as a result of the long hours they spent stranded on the Greenland coast. Mr. Hutchinson was immediately put to bed on his arrival here.

He said that after many hours of low flying, fog finally closed down and forced him to alight in the sea. They then taxied toward the coast. The danger of collision with icebergs was accentuated by a heavy ground swell. When land was sighted the amphibian was run hard onto the beach and the family jumped ashore. The plane was soon battered to pieces by waves, but the male members of the party managed to save the bulk of personal effects.

The Lord Talbot first landed the party at Finsbu, but discovered that there were insufficient provisions to last them through the arctic winter.

May Be Stranded All Winter.

COPENHAGEN, Sept. 13.—(AP)—All eight members of the party of the flying Hutchinson family were well when they were found today by the trawler Lord Talbot, it was reported here.

The Lord Talbot is one of the biggest and best equipped of the Aberdeen trawler fleet, but accommodations aboard the vessel are restricted and it seemed likely that it would be difficult to find room aboard her for the eight castaways.

The last boat of the season already has left Angmagsalik and if the Lord Talbot could not carry them to Iceland or some European point it would be necessary for them to spend the winter at Angmagsalik.

Face Shortage of Food.

That would not only be trying for the Americans, particularly for the two children, but actually might involve hardship for the inhabitants of Angmagsalik, who never have much more than enough food for their own needs during the long winter.

Before word of their rescue reached here the newspaper Politken asserted that even if the Hutchinsons were found, the Danish government already has been fully justified in refusing permission for their landing in Greenland. The flight served no useful purpose, either scientific or practical, but was merely a sensational stunt, the editorial said.

It added that the government knew from previous experience what elaborate precautions are required for a flight over Greenland and also what it costs to send rescue expeditions when such flights fail.

"Flights across Greenland are work for men," said the newspaper, "not for women, and especially not for little girls."

OCEAN FLYERS SIGHTED FAR AT SEA

Line No. 1 indicates course being followed by William Ulbrich, Miss Edna Newcomer and Dr. Leon M. Pisculli on their projected nonstop flight from New York to Rome. They have been sighted twice by ships since they took off, once 400 miles and once 1,000 miles at sea.

Line No. 2 indicates where projected trans-Atlantic flight of "Flying Hutchinson family" ended when their plane was wrecked on a reef on the east coast of Greenland. The eight members of the party were rescued.

miles due east along the forty-second parallel and then veer slightly north so as to strike the Spanish coast in the vicinity of Cape Finisterre. From Finisterre Ulbrich's course will take him north of the Pyrenees and across the island of Corsica to Florence and Rome.

The pilot said he hoped to reach Rome in thirty-five or thirty-six hours. If he keeps to schedule he will strike the European coast about 1 p. m. tomorrow, Chicago time.

Woman in Gay Spirits.

"Well, boys, we'll have a drink for you when we get over there," Miss Newcomer said gayly as she stepped into the plane. She seemed to be in the best of spirits.

Ulbrich, his nerves worn by weeks of waiting for good weather, was uncommunicative. Dr. Pisculli occupied himself with the scientific paraphernalia which has caused the ship to be dubbed a "flying laboratory."

Miss Newcomer is riding at Ulbrich's side. She expects to relieve the pilot at intervals and give him a chance to rest and possibly use the sextant which he has taken along. Dr. Pisculli is riding in a small compartment behind the big main gas tanks. With him is his pet woodchuck, Tailwind, whose presence aboard is more than merely as a mascot. Dr. Pisculli believes that mishaps to planes at sea may have been due to carbon monoxide gas in the closed cabins. He will observe the actions of Tailwind, as the woodchuck will react to bad air more quickly than the doctor and his human companions.

Carry No Radio.

The plane carries no radio, but has a miscellany of apparatus for use in the event of mishap at sea. Beside Dr. Pisculli in his cubbyhole are three circular rubber life preservers, four magnesium flares, a Very pistol, and twelve shells.

SEIZE SAM IRBY ON FRAUD CHARGE IN NEW ORLEANS

Sam Irby, former Louisiana road commissioner and author of an unpublished book, "Kidnaped by the Kingfish," was arrested in New Orleans yesterday at the request of Chicago police on a charge of defrauding the Congress hotel. New Orleans police wired the detective bureau that extradition proceedings had been instituted. Sergt. John Quinn of the detective bureau was sent to bring Irby back to stand trial here.

WARNING to PROPERTY OWNERS

TODAY a letter came to my desk that deeply impressed me. It was written by a woman—the mother in a typical American family. Her little home had been saved from foreclosure by a coat of new paint, for which a part of their meager savings had been paid.

Those few gallons of fresh paint had so revived the appearance and enhanced the value of the property that the mortgagee had consented to renew the loan . . . and the little home was saved.

I could not help thinking of the thousands of homes and buildings that are shabby and unattractive today due to several years of neglected painting; of the millions of home owners who, because of reduced incomes and enforced economy, have been obliged to sacrifice painting for taxes, interest, assessments, to say nothing of food, clothing, heat and other essentials of comfort and health.

You have seen these paint-starved houses and buildings, as have I. They are everywhere about you. Perhaps your home is included.

Do you understand what they signify? Do you realize what will happen to wood or metal that is literally naked of paint if these houses and buildings face the attack of another season of rain, snow, ice, and frost?

Never in the history of our country has the situation been paralleled.

Property owners face an added burden of expense amounting to millions of dollars for repairs and replacements next spring.

And the crisis, in my opinion, will be reached this coming winter when paint of four, five, and even six years exposure to the weather will be unable to resist the elements—when badly weathered wood and metal will be easy prey for rot, rust and decay.

Today the big question facing thousands of property owners is plain. It is "paint or pay." Either you must invest a little this fall in new paint or you must take the risk of paying many times the cost of paint to repair the damage done by rot, rust and decay this winter.

Even at the sacrifice of other things, have your house or buildings completely repainted now. No investment you can make will pay better dividends. And nothing you can buy will make you and your family feel so uplifted and cheerful.

If you cannot arrange to do a complete repainting job now, at least give the badly weathered places a coat or two of protecting paint.

Look especially, to the window sills, thresholds, outdoor porches and steps; the joints of porch railings and palings; the bases of pillars; the edges of eaves; the roof; the gutters and down spouts. These are the vital spots where water lodges—where ice and frost settle—where rot and rust attack first.

A few dollars' worth of good paint, applied now, will protect these vital spots—will tide you over this crucial winter. And it will probably save you a much greater expense for repairs and replacements next spring and summer.

Under existing conditions, you may be tempted to buy a cheap paint because of its low price. I hope you will not make this costly mistake.

Even on sound lumber, inferior paint is a poor bargain. But on weathered wood, which is very porous, such paint is worse than useless. It gives you a false feeling of security and leaves you without protection.

Prices of well-known, established brands of paint are now the lowest in fifteen years. Enough good, dependable paint can be purchased for a few dollars to protect all the badly weathered surfaces on your building.

Again I repeat, do a complete paint job this fall if you can. But at least do the vital exposed places before it is "too late."

Just what is "rough cut?"

THE tobacco that is cut best for pipes might be termed "whittle cut" or "rough cut," like Granger.

Then again, it requires a certain type of tobacco for a pipe—different from the leaf tobacco that is used in making chewing tobacco or in making cigarettes. In addition, Granger is made by Wellman's Method.

Granger has a pleasing aroma. It is slow burning and it is cool. Just try it!

LEGION TO BATTLE OVER BONUS AND HOOVER CENSURE

Subcommittees Oppose Both Resolutions.

Portland, Ore., Sept. 13.—(AP)—National headquarters of the American Legion announced tonight that a resolution calling for immediate payment of the adjusted compensation certificates of world war veterans would be introduced at the Legion convention session tomorrow morning.

The announcement came after a day in which opponents of the cash bonus and supporters of a vigorously worded resolution of censure for President Hoover both found themselves in the minority in subcommittees.

The minorities still were in a fighting mood, however, and floor battles on both questions were presaged. J. J. Deighan, member of the Pennsylvania delegation, which sponsored the censure resolution, and member of the subcommittee considering it, said it would be dealt with in a minority report.

Anti-Bonus Banners.

Plans of the Nebraska delegation to carry anti-bonus banners in the annual parade today were abandoned when police and military authorities persuaded the cornhusker contingent not to do so because disorder might result. The parade was staged in typical Legion style.

Members of the Nebraska and Missouri delegations who had been active against seeking immediate cash payments for veterans said they would take their case to the floor in the hope of persuading their opponents to agree on some sort of compromise. The Missouri delegation had gone on record favoring the postponement of any bonus request until later.

The Legion parade was staged without the participation of Secretary of War Patrick J. Hurley, who had planned to march as a member of the Oklahoma contingent.

Hurley on Reviewing Stand.

Secret service men, Legion and police officials said they persuaded Hurley to take the reviewing stand with other distinguished guests instead of marching. They said they did this to eliminate any possibility of any "untoward incident" in the line of march.

Boos mingled with cheers as Hurley mounted the reviewing stand in Multnomah stadium, scene of the spectacle. He ignored this and gave the Oklahoma war hoop as the delegates from his home state passed. It was the second time a crowd had greeted him with mingled feelings. He was booed and cheered yesterday when he made a short speech of greeting at the convention.

Escorted by secret service men, an army car, and state and city police, Hurley was the object of all eyes as he left the thronged stadium to take a plane to Huron, S. D., where he will speak Thursday.

Secretary Booed and Hissed.

Much applause came from the spectators as Hurley led the cheering for the Oklahoma delegation.

Hurley also was booed and cheered by a mixed assembly at the national commander's dinner last night.

When the Nebraska contingent first formed for the parade it had huge canvas banners reaching entirely across the street reading:

"The American Legion Was Formed to Serve the Nation, Not to Exploit It. Nebraska Votes No on the Bonus."

Meanwhile, replies to a telegram addressed to all presidential candidates except Hoover asking their attitude on the bonus question, was being awaited at Nebraska Legion headquarters.

GEN. GLASSFORD STILL DEFENDS BONUS ARMY; REPLIES TO CRITICS

Washington, D. C., Sept. 13.—[Special.]—Washington's police chief, Brig. Gen. Pelham D. Glassford, stood firmly by his guns today and by the bonus veterans whom he yesterday defended against the charges of President Hoover and Attorney General Mitchell that many of them had been criminals, radicals, and fakers.

Glassford stuck by his assertion that he had not been informed that federal troops were to be called to evict the bonus marchers on the day of the Pennsylvania avenue riot, last July 28. And he reiterated his insistence that the police could have managed the situation without federal help.

In a second statement, backing up his first of yesterday, Gen. Glassford replied to last night's official statement by the District of Columbia commissioners in which they asserted that the police chief had agreed that troops were necessary.

"I was never apprised by the commissioners," he said, "that troops had been called. Although it has been stated that the police were threatened with a mass attack, I was able to stop the fighting in less than five minutes. The second assault, occuring nearly two hours later, in which two veterans were shot, was halted almost instantly. This was a spontaneous affair involving less than two dozen participants on both sides. For three hours thereafter—until the troops arrived—there was no disorder."

ATTORNEY WARNS AGAINST A SALES TAX BY COUNTIES

County Attorney Hayden N. Bell announced yesterday that in his opinion any law passed by the general assembly providing for an optional sales tax by counties instead of a statewide tax would be overthrown in the courts. The opinion was contained in letters sent to Joseph K. Brittain, chairman of the committee on state and municipal revenue of the Chicago Association of Commerce, and to State Representative Elmer J. Schnackenberg.

"I understand that nobody desires a sales tax uniform as to all property and persons," said the Bell letters. "Therefore any county sales tax which could be passed would have to contain omissions, exemptions or classifications and, in my opinion, would be certain to go into the courts and never come out alive."

While the state constitution gives the legislature power to make omissions or exemptions in favor of necessities over luxuries, no such power exists with reference to a county sales tax, Attorney Bell said.

BOLIVIA CALLS RESERVISTS TO COLORS IN CHACO

LA PAZ, Bolivia, Sept. 13.—(AP)—The reserves of the military classes of 1927, 1928, and 1929 were called to the Bolivian colors today, and were ordered by the army chief of staff to report within three days to their proper headquarters throughout the republic. An army communique tersely announced that the fighting continued around Fort Boqueron, strategic stronghold in the Chaco region in dispute with Paraguay.

The government replied to the league of nations' note reminding Bolivia of her international obligations, with the statement that Bolivia was on the defensive, after Paraguayan demands for a truce had proved inacceptable. It was added that Bolivia was powerless to stop the fighting at this point.

Fight Through Fifth Day.

ASUNCION, Sept. 13. — (AP) — The fierce battle for control of strategic Fort Boqueron in the disputed Chaco jungle raged on unabated through its fifth day today. The war ministry said the fighting had developed over a more extensive area than heretofore, but was more intense around the fort itself.

RONALD COLMAN SUES FILM FIRM FOR 2 MILLIONS

Los Angeles, Cal., Sept. 13.—(AP)—A $2,000,000 damage action was filed today against Samuel Goldwyn, Inc., motion picture concern, by Ronald C. Colman, film actor, who charged the company with issuing written statements which he construed as reflecting on his character and ability as an actor.

The suit alleged the film company had been endeavoring to obtain agreements from Colman to perform acts which he said he was not obligated to perform.

One of the statements was set forth as being "He feels that he looks better for pictures when moderately dissipated than when completely fit."

There also was a quotation from another alleged statement as follows:

"He believes that by getting slightly more than drunk he plays love scenes—well, more in love."

The actor said he had demanded a retraction but had been refused.

QUESTIONS POLICE RIGHTS.

Milwaukee, Wis., Sept. 13.—[Special.]—when Martha and Emma Tauck, sisters, were before him today on a prohibition charge, Floyd Jenkins, federal court commissioner, ordered police to produce evidence to show they had made legal entry to the flat of the women at 1131 West State street. The commissioner said he did not believe the police had a legal right of entry.

CHILE AIR FORCE REVOLTS; OUSTS SOCIALIST HEAD

Threatens to Bomb Palace of Carlos Davila.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

SANTIAGO, Chile, Sept. 13.—Carlos G. Davila, Socialist president of Chile and former ambassador to the United States, resigned this afternoon after the army air force rose in revolt.

The provisional president stepped down in the face of a threat that the presidential palace would be bombed or attacked by troops unless he surrendered his office.

Force Out Cabinet.

The rebellion began last night when Col. Arturo Merino Benitez, air force commander, heading a military clique composed of Gen. Luis Otero, Gen. Carlos Saez, and Admiral Carlos Jouanne, forced the resignation of the cabinet. Davila refused to comply with their demand to withdraw as a presidential candidate in the national elections of Oct. 31.

The ultimatum of the air force to resign followed.

This afternoon Minister of the Interior Gen. Bartolme Blanche, who was appointed head of the government by Davila, assumed temporary control, calling a conference of all commanders and political representatives.

Planes Arrive in Capital.

It was announced later that the committee proposed to name the president of the Supreme court provisional president or to form a military junta.

Men of the aviation corps poured into Santiago this afternoon from all parts of Chile. Thirty planes arrived at an air field just outside the capital.

The revolt is attributed to Davila's restriction of the press as well as individual liberties. The newspaper La Opinion was suppressed yesterday by Davila for publishing Col. Merino's manifesto, which declared that Davila was unpopular because he failed to carry out the socialist program. The article also called on Davila to resign.

The cabinet in announcing its resignation said that it wished to leave Davila at liberty to cope with the future general elections. Davila attempted to reshuffle the cabinet today announcing the appointment of Gen. Blanche as premier. Blanche accepted, declaring he did so to preserve an unbiased election.

Air Force Against Davila.

Col. Merino's clique claimed the support of the air forces at El Bosque, six miles south of Santiago, as well as of the Santiago garrison. Davila, too, relied upon a measure of military support in Santiago.

The Merino committee held two meetings at El Bosque. Each was followed by a conference with Davila. Last night's meeting resulted in the cabinet changes and today's meeting resulted in his resignation.

"I will leave Chile of my own accord," Davila said. "Probably I shall seek a job in journalism in a land where they think I am worth more than the people believe I am worth here."

Davila was smiling. Next he telephoned his wife and said:

"Herminia, I have resigned and in a few moments I will be with you. Don't answer telephone calls as you will be insulted."

Hands Over His Office.

In resigning Davila rescinded his decree appointing Gen. Blanche to head a new cabinet. Instead Blanche assumes temporary control of the presidency. Davila's resignation read:

"I resign supreme power of the nation and hand over the high functions that were offered me by the revolution to Gen. Blanche, who was called by me to this high post as a sure guarantee of peace and social tranquility."

Gen. Blanche then signed a decree in which he assumed power as provisional president.

While these events were occurring, military planes were flying over the city, dropping copies of a manifesto announcing the change in government.

The conference at El Bosque this morning issued a statement, declaring that the socialist program was being ruined through lack of liberties and that these must be reestablished immediately. Maintaining order and giving help to the poor was also stressed. The communique said that the military would return quietly to their professional duties after the elections.

ROADS GUARDED TO HALT BENTON MINE PICKETS

Sheriff Declares They're Not Coming In.

Benton, Ill., Sept. 13.—(AP)—Armed deputy sheriffs were dispatched tonight by Sheriff Browning Robinson to guard highways leading into Franklin county to prevent "shock troops" of the Progressive Miners of America from entering the county to discourage miners from working under the $5 daily wage scale.

"They're not coming into Franklin county," said Sheriff Robinson, whose force of approximately 500 special deputies recently repelled an attempted invasion of the county by approximately 15,000 miners from northern and central Illinois.

Stop Outside Miners.

The sheriff said highways entering the county would be guarded constantly by his deputies, who were under orders to stop outside miners who might attempt to enter the county. He said he could not say how many deputy sheriffs had been ordered out tonight, but that the force was sufficient to deal with any situation that might arise.

Authorities of Marion county, to the north, were asked by the sheriff to notify him if any miners pass through that county on their way to Benton.

Sheriff Browning said he had received no information indicating when the miners were expected to reach the Franklin county boundary line. The movement of the miners started tonight from the north.

Will Not Halt Picket.

Pinckneyville, Ill., Sept. 13.—(AP)—Sheriff Albert Davis of Perry county said tonight no attempt would be made by his deputy sheriffs to prevent miners representing the newly formed Progressive Miners of America from entering the county to discourage operation of mines under the $5 daily wage scale.

Sheriff Davis said, however, that he was "not speaking" for merchants or business men of the county, who resented the previous march of northern and central Illinois miners to this section to close the mines.

The sheriff said he had received word the new union's pickets were expected to reach here early tomorrow.

POLICE CAPTAIN CLEARED.

Fond du Lac, Wis., Sept. 13.—[Special.]—Capt. Charles Flanders of the police department tonight was found not guilty of charges of conduct unbecoming an officer and drinking intoxicating liquor.

ANGLICAN CHURCH MAPS PROBE OF $1,000,000 THEFT

WINNIPEG, Man., Sept. 13.—(AP)—Both the province of Manitoba and the Church of England were attempting today to straighten out the affairs of John A. Machray, formally charged with misappropriating University of Manitoba funds and held for investigation in connection with the loss of church funds. The institutions' losses totaled nearly $2,000,000.

Premier John Bracken was planning steps the government will take to investigate the loss of more than $900,000 from the university endowment funds. Machray was chairman of the board of governors and bursar of the university.

A committee of ten laymen of the Church of England will meet Friday night to investigate the loss of about $1,000,000 of church funds under Machray's control.

A Letter From Mr Cooper To Mr Baskin

"It is inevitable, of course, that the sharp rise in cotton will before long influence the retail price of cotton products. We feel very earnestly, however, that no substantial upturn in retail activity is possible unless merchants generally, in co-operation with their sources, delay price advances to the public as long as possible

"Your recent announcement in the newspaper in which your policy in this matter was expressed, merits the highest commendation

"The shirts and shorts you are now selling three garments for one dollar prove that you practice what you preach. For the general good of all it is to be hoped that other merchants will also pass on to the public the savings realized by their commitments when prices were at the bottom"

STEVENS

that are almost evening gowns!

Exquisite Quality!

Chas. A. Stevens & Co.

Cheap soaps are lacking in real soap value. They often contain free lye that eats and weakens fabrics... roughens delicate hands. A big cheap cake may look like a bargain but the few cents difference in price can't begin to pay for the clothes it ruins.

"So you thought you saved money when you bought that big cake of bargain soap. Now look at your things! Colors faded.. fabrics in shreds. Why, you can ruin more clothes in one washing with that cheap, strong stuff than it would cost to buy good soap for a year."

"I had no idea soaps could be so different."

"There's a world of difference. Cheap soap is often padded with free lye and other harmful things, so it will look big. And you know how lye eats into everything it touches."

"But I was told it would clean quicker."

"Why, that cheap soap really doesn't clean—it bleaches, that's all. Take my advice and never use anything but Kirk's American Family. It's pure..never fades..never harms a thread. And it makes double the suds of ordinary soaps, because it's made especially for the hard water of this Great Lakes region."

"Guess I'll have to give up trying to save on soap, then."

"Not at all. Think how American Family saves clothes and everything else for that matter.. your colored china and glassware, your woodwork, tile and linoleum. That's real saving! It means dollars compared with the few pennies you skimp when you buy cheap bargain soaps. Then, too, they're now making the American Family cake much larger, without changing quality or price one bit. And don't forget how soft and smooth it keeps your hands. That's something which a woman who does her own housework can't overlook."

EX-GOV. DUNNE LABELS G. O. P. POLL A FARCE

Says 'Who's Who' Doesn't Represent People.

BY ARTHUR EVANS.

In the opinion of Edward F. Dunne, former Democratic governor of Illinois, former mayor of Chicago, former judge, the Republican national committee, instead of confining its straw vote on the presidency to the names in "Who's Who," ought to embrace the "Woe Woes" and the "Coo Coos" among the farmers. He communicated this idea yesterday to Republican national headquarters in a letter responding to a postcard questionnaire which he found in his mail, sent by Henry J. Allen, director of Republican publicity.

E. F. DUNNE.

The former governor, who is 79 and looks 60, has nine living children and 21 grandchildren, sat down after the postman called and dictated a letter to Everett Sanders, Republican national chairman, and Mr. Allen, terming the poll of "Who's Who" a "political farce."

Who's in "Who's Who."

Former Gov. Dunne wrote that "Who's Who" is a compilation comprised mostly of capitalists, public officials, manufacturers, merchants, and professional men, clergymen, and men who are leading lights in colleges and universities.

"A great majority of all these men and women," he continued, "are wealthy or in the past have affiliated with the Republican party. The seeking by you of a referendum from a constituency so fully impregnated with plutocracy and affiliation with the Republican party is so clearly a political maneuver as to make it a political farce.

"The Who's Whos do not voice the sentiment of the rank and file of the American electorate. In this nation there are now from ten to eleven million men and women out of work. We might call them the 'Woe Woes,' but they have votes.

They All Have Votes.

"There are millions who after twelve years of Republican rule find their wages have been cut or delayed in payment. We might call these the 'Slow Goes.' But they have votes.

"There are hundreds of thousands who have notes and mortgages overdue and are threatened with the loss of their homes and farms after twelve years of Republican rule. We might call them the 'Over Dues,' but they have votes.

"There are a few hundred thousands who still own their own homes and farms who have not seriously suffered from the financial disaster of the last three years. We might call them the 'Coo Coos'—they have votes.

"With most of my fellow citizens I welcome a fair referendum, but I want a referendum of the masses as well as the classes. I want the 'Woe Woes,' the 'Slow Goes,' the 'Over Dues,' and the 'Coo Coos' given the right to vote on the same referendum with 'Who's Whos.' The referendum among the 'Who's Whos' alone is worse than a joke; it is a farce."

With a chuckle as he slipped this into the mail, ex-Gov. Dunne remarked that Mr. Allen's referendum might well be set to the tune of "Who's Your Little Whoosis?"

HOOD AND EHLER NOMINATED FOR SUPERIOR BENCH

G. O. P. Convention Picks Candidates.

The Republican Cook county judicial convention yesterday nominated Judge Craig A. Hood for the vacancy caused by the death of Judge Albert C. Barnes, and Municipal Judge Theodore F. Ehler for the vacancy on the same bench caused by the demise of Judge Martin J. Isaacs. The nominations were unanimous.

Before the convention met, the executive committee balloted on ten candidates whose names were presented. Among them were Henry E. Ayres, Harry S. Ditchburne, assistant state's attorneys; James B. Cashin, Milton Henkel, John Leonard, Tyrrell A. Richardson, and Daniel A. Roberts, attorney for the west parks.

Judge Hood in Lead.

Judge Hood, who is city judge of Chicago Heights, was in the lead in the first balloting. The balloting for second place was close. Richardson, who has appeared in court for Capone and his men, showed strength on the west side.

After several ballots, Judge Ehler was picked. He has been on the municipal bench 12 years, and his name, it was argued, will help among the German vote. Mr. Cashin, who was supported by Negro leaders, lost the recommendation of the committee by only one vote. It was argued the ticket needs strengthening among the colored voters, where the Democrats are reported to be making heavy inroads this year.

Democrats Meet Today.

After the unanimous nomination of Judges Hood and Ehler, the convention was addressed in behalf of Senator Otis F. Glenn by Charles Hadley, and by State's Attorney John A. Swanson. Both said reports from downstate and from Cook county indicate a Republican victory in November, provided all the workers work for the ticket.

"I'm for the ticket from soup to nuts," said State's Attorney Swanson. "The Democrats win elections in September, but the Republicans carry elections in November."

INDIANA CITY FIGHTS ANNUAL INVASION OF BLACKBIRD FLOCKS

Rushville, Ind., Sept. 13.—[Special.]—When the fire whistle sounded here tonight it was a call to arms for Rushville residents to attempt again to resist the capture of shade trees by thousands of blackbirds. Futile efforts have been made in the past to rid the city of blackbirds which take up their evening quarters in Rushville's shade trees every autumn. The police department tonight sponsored the concerted attack on the birds, enlisting every male resident over 21 who owns a shotgun. Each volunteer took his position near a tree. When the fire siren sounded a general attack began. This plan also will be carried out Wednesday evening. Authorities believe this will result in "bye, bye, blackbird."

Thousands See Two Killed as Plane Nose Dives in Mud

New York, Sept. 13.—[Special.]—An open cockpit airplane, carrying Donald Probst, pilot, and a student flyer, crashed in the Passaic meadows this afternoon in view of several thousand persons watching a ball game at Newark, between Baltimore and the Newark Bears. The plane, a D. H. Moth monoplane, was flying at 500 feet when it nose dived into the soft mud of the railroad yards. The bodies of the two men were buried in the mud.

SUICIDE VERDICT RETURNED.

George W. Cooper, 60 years old, 4609 Magnolia avenue, shot and killed himself while despondent over financial losses, a coroner's jury decided yesterday. Cooper was found dead in his apartment on Monday.

EMMERLING GETS DRUNK AGAIN ON HIS JOLIET BREW

It would be a great relief to Warden Frank D. Whipp of the Joliet penitentiary if William [Dutch] Emmerling, Chicago gangster who is imprisoned there for robbery with a gun, would take the pledge. Emmerling was in solitary confinement yesterday after having got drunk within the prison walls for the second time in three months.

As on the occasion of his previous spree, which nearly started a riot in the prison, Emmerling had been drinking a concoction of fruit juices, potatoes and what not, stolen from the prison kitchen and fermented with yeast.

"Stew again," he muttered.

Without further comment he seized several plates and sent them whirling across the room. Guards led him to a solitary cell.

In June Emmerling and Edward Pletch, another Chicago gunman, got drunk, beat up another prisoner, and were clubbed into submission.

Canadian Parliament to Meet Oct. 6 on Empire Pact

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

OTTAWA, Ont., Sept. 13.—The Canadian parliament will assemble Oct. 6 to debate and probably approve the imperial trade treaties subscribed to by the dominion at the recent conference here. Other British empire parliaments will assemble at or about the same date. Concurrent announcement of promulgation of the treaties is deemed necessary.

WORKMAN DIES WHEN SCAFFOLD FALLS 30 FEET

Martin Burkhardt, 60 years old, 8801 South Carpenter street, fell 30 feet and was fatally injured yesterday when a scaffold on which he was working at Oak Forest collapsed. Burkhardt, a brother-in-law of Frank Chambers, county superintendent of public service, was lowering the scaffold with Howard Fraler, 8011 Prairie avenue, when a wheelbarrow on the scaffold caught on the edge of the building. As Burkhardt attempted to free the wheelbarrow he loosened the scaffold.

This Town in Indiana Has No Tax Problem

Richmond, Ind., Sept. 13.—[Special.]—Citizens of Boston, Wayne county, have no argument with the state legislature about the $1.50 tax levy limit, for as far as the town is concerned, there is no tax problem. Citizens, of course, have to pay state, county, and township taxes, but there will be no corporation tax next year. Money now in the town treasury plus fall tax collections and the state gasoline tax will take care of the community's needs. All roads leading into Boston are state highways, each home has its own water supply, and there is no town marshal.

Men just can't stand BAD SKIN!

(Left) SO OFTEN bad skin comes from poisons here! To "tone" and purify sluggish intestines leading specialists advocate fresh yeast.

Cruel—yet who can blame him? An "unclean complexion" is more than a social offense. It is as repellent as disease.

For disease it is . . . a living sign your body is not throwing off the poisons that collect in your intestines . . . that you are suffering, knowingly or not, from the commonest of all human ailments—Constipation!

Get rid of Constipation!

So you can see how useless it is to try to cover up bad skin with cosmetics . . . or cure it with salves.

You must go to the root of the trouble. You must rid your body of poisons from accumulated food wastes.

"Tones" and Purifies Intestines

A food, Fleischmann's Yeast mixes with the clogging waste masses in your intestines—softens them—and at the same time stimulates the action that helps clear them away regularly.

Thus your whole intestinal tract is "toned up"—purified. Poison-forming matter no longer remains to stagnate and contaminate your blood. When this occurs, digestion improves. "Pep" returns. You tire less easily.

And best of all you look better. Skin blemishes—pimples, blackheads, etc.—are usually cleared up very quickly by yeast.

Will you try it? You can get Fleischmann's Yeast—the fresh yeast rich in vitamins B, G and D—at grocers, restaurants and soda fountains. Eat it just plain, or dissolved in a third of a glass of water.

NO GIRL likes to miss good times because of a bad complexion! Miss Ann Blankenship, of Tulsa, Okla., writes: "I had acne. Nothing did any good. I ate 3 cakes a day of Fleischmann's Yeast. My complexion became clear."

HORNER TELLS FARMERS HE'LL CUT THEIR TAXES

Denounces Political Farm Experts at Sterling.

BY PERCY WOOD.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Sterling, Ill., Sept. 13.—[Special.]—Campaigning through the pleasant valley of the Rock river today, Judge Henry Horner, Democratic candidate for governor, went hard after the northern Illinois farm vote—not as a practical farmer but as one who believes the practical farmers should be allowed to control their own destinies unhampered by crushing taxes.

Audiences in three towns—Oregon, Dixon, and Sterling, urban centers of this rich, black dirt belt—grew instantly sympathetic when their speaker told them that "the state can and should relieve your backs from the burden of taxation that is bowing you down to earth."

Admits His Farm Failed.

With the easy comradery which delights his listeners, Judge Horner admitted at Oregon, somewhat ruefully, that a farm he owned years ago "failed when farming was good."

"So I am the only candidate for governor in captivity who admits that he is not a farm expert," he said. "But, by the way, I have watched these political experts on farming during the last ten years or more, and the net result of the relief granted the farmers is that they have been relieved of most of their farms."

Regardless of his inexpertness in practical farming, the candidate does not remain "indifferent" to the problem of the agricultural portion of Illinois, he said. "My personal view on the subject of the farmer is that all he is asking or that he has ever asked for is a square deal, a square deal in the legislation of the state equal with those of other industries," he declared.

State Should Aid Coöperatives.

"He is not seeking a governor of the state who will sow and reap for him. That he can do himself, and do so well. He is seeking from his state government only such government aid as to which he is entitled, equal with all other citizens. It should be the business of the state to aid the development of voluntary coöperative movement among the farmers. The state government should also keep the farmers constantly informed upon the best and latest methods of agricultural operation, and how to get the best results from it."

Hand in hand with this subject came a discussion of good roads and Judge Horner twitted his opponent, Len Small, for "trying to make some people believe that he is the discoverer of hard roads."

"He speaks of good roads in Illinois as if he had paid for them out of his own pocket," the Democratic leader asserted, "and some of his advocates would have you believe that unless he is elected he will roll up our hard roads like a hall carpet—take them under his arm, and walk out of the state with them."

Says Dunne Built Roads.

The truth is that the state hard road plan was originated in 1913 under Gov. Dunne, said Judge Horner. And when his opponent, Small, completed his term, "he had built 1,300 miles less of roads than he was required to by statute, although the $60,000,000 and the $100,000,000 raised for that purpose by the sale of bonds had been exhausted."

Another thrust at Small came with Judge Horner's characterization of him as "the best plain and fancy promiser in the universe." The Democratic candidate questioned how his opponent reconciles making wholesale promises of jobs, if elected, in one breath, while declaring for economy with the next.

Bent on learning the countryside of the state he expects to govern, Judge Horner made side expeditions today at points of interest. One of these took him to view the gigantic statue of the Indian warrior chief, Blackhawk, who keeps a solitary vigil on a high bluff overlooking the Rock river on the outskirts of Oregon.

PLAN TO BRING SUBMARINE TO WORLD'S FAIR

Plans to bring an R-type submarine to Chicago as a World's Fair exhibit next year were announced yesterday by Congressman Fred Britten, ranking Republican member of the naval affairs committee of the house of representatives. The undersea craft, about 185 feet long, will be brought up the St. Lawrence river, Welland canal and great lakes to the north lagoon of the exposition.

Congressman Britten said he would recommend that the submarine be the center of a spectacular navy exhibit with a battalion of marines as a guard of honor. Visitors will be allowed on the submarine, which will probably be submerged once a day.

The fate of the captive observation balloon which broke from its moorings on the World's Fair grounds during a squall on Monday and floated out over the lake is still a mystery, according to Capt. R. J. Walters, who has the concession for the balloon. Capt. Walters said he had received a message that the silver bag had floated over Milwaukee. The wind currents, however, should have sent the balloon over upper Michigan, he added.

JUDGE CLEARS MORALS COURT OF SPECTATORS

Judge Edward S. Scheffler yesterday ordered the Morals court cleared of spectators to prevent recruiting agents for vice resorts from operating in the courtroom.

"I have complaints that young girls, many appearing here after their first arrest, have been annoyed by men seeking vice recruits," Judge Scheffler said. "These men often place the girls under obligation by paying small fines."

He ordered that only persons directly interested in cases on call be admitted in the future, and threatened prosecution for loiterers. Judge Scheffler said that the persons attracted to the Morals court created an additional hazard for witnesses and defendants appearing in the Boys' court, across the hall. He had received reports that the youths had been solicited by frequenters of the Morals court, Judge Scheffler said.

RECTOR WOULD SET HIS BARREL AT BISHOP'S GATE

LONDON, Sept. 13.—(AP)—The Rev. Harold F. Davidson, deposed rector of Stiffkey, threatened today to take up permanent residence in a barrel near the gates of the palace occupied by the bishop of Norwich.

The clergyman has been exhibiting himself in a barrel for some time as as Diogenes did in his tub."

a means, he explained, of financing an appeal from the decision of an ecclesiastical court which recently convicted him or immorality. The police put a stop to that.

If the bishop of Norwich carries out the sentence imposed following his conviction, said Mr. Davidson today, "I might feel it my duty to engage a small site as near as possible to the bishop's palace and take up a permanent residence there in my barrel, as Diogenes did in his tub."

Pay Scale for Job Shops Ratified by Employers

The proposed scale for typographers in job printing shops, agreed upon last week by committees for the employers and the Chicago Typographical union No. 16, was ratified yesterday at a general meeting of employers at the Great Northern hotel.

Terms of the agreement will not be revealed until Sunday, when it will be submitted to the union members, officials said.

SEES MINORITIES DRIVING NATION TO BANKRUPTCY

Rossetter Tells Why Tax Foes Organized.

George W. Rossetter, general chairman of the National Organization to Reduce Public Expenditures, told 250 members of the Illinois Society of Certified Public Accountants, at a dinner in the Morrison hotel last night, why the organization was formed.

"In 1913," said Mr. Rossetter, "only 13 cents out of each dollar of national income went for public expenditures. Based on the best estimates of our current national income, 40 cents of each dollar earned will go towards public expenditures this year. Under such conditions, it becomes a question how long any government can endure."

Headed for Bankruptcy.

Experts, Mr. Rossetter pointed out, have advanced the theory that any government diverting more than 25 per cent of national income to public expenditures is on the road to certain bankruptcy. He expressed the hope that in the case of the United States the experts would be proven wrong.

It was with a realization of the peril facing the government and private business, as well, that a committee of Chicagoans including members of the Association of Commerce, of which Mr. Rossetter is president, went to Washington last winter to plead for government economy, he recalled. The visit was enlightening to every member of the committee, Mr. Rossetter said.

Find Minorities in Power.

"We thought we understood the power wielded by the organized minorities," he said. "We learned otherwise. We told the members of congress that the tax burden was sapping the life of business, depriving men of their jobs, turning families out of their homes and off their farms.

"The legislators seemed sympathetic but reluctant to act. It was then that we began to understand that the organized minorities—the soldiers, government pay rollers, labor unions, and others, had the power through the ballot of turning congressmen out of office. So we decided to organize also."

There were plenty of associations of all kinds in the field, already, Mr. Rossetter explained. Therefore, he said, the group set up to reduce public expenditures was formed merely as an association of already existing agencies. Since its incorporation in June, 700 associations have joined, he said.

Vets Get Billion Yearly.

"Our purpose is to make the people tax conscious," Mr. Rossetter explained. "On the matter of veterans' relief, for example, the taxpayers should know that a billion dollars, or one-fifth of the federal budget this year, will go to veterans. I have been a soldier myself and I believe with every other patriotic citizen that the government should not stint in caring for the men maimed or the dependants of those killed in war.

"When one learns that half of all the expenditures for veterans' relief goes to men who never left the United States, to men hurt in taxi accidents, and to men who wore the uniform only a month or two, the injustice of it becomes apparent. It has been estimated that the government could save $452,000,000 annually by limiting its aid to those actually disabled in military service. I believe a vast majority of the veterans are opposed to the present system."

Taxes Support 5 Millions.

Five million persons are being carried on the federal, state and local public pay rolls at this time, Mr. Rossetter asserted. He estimated that about every five wage earners in the United States are supporting every sixth wage earner on a public pay roll.

"It is becoming a question as to how soon the pay rollers will outnumber the rest of us," said Mr. Rossetter.

NEW YORK BLAST TOLL REACHES 67; FIND 22 BODIES

New York, Sept. 13.—(AP)—The death toll of the steamship Observation blast rose to 67 today as the East river yielded 22 more bodies. Most of the bodies rose to the surface in the vicinity of the explosion, which tore the steamship apart and sent it to the bottom with a load of workmen late Friday morning. Others were found floating some distance away.

MIDWEST TO GET FEDERAL FUNDS FOR RIVER WORK

Flood Control and Harbor Improvements Planned.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Sept. 13.—[Special.]—All of the $15,500,000 for flood control work and nearly half of the $30,000,000 for rivers and harbors work under the emergency relief and construction act will go to the Mississippi valley and the midwest, the war department announced today.

Of the appropriation for flood control, $11,500,000 will be used for levee construction, as follows:

Memphis district, $6,500,000; Vicksburg district, $1,500,000, and New Orleans district, $3,500,000. Bank protection, contraction works, and dredging will take $3,950,000, and $50,000 will be set aside for contingencies.

Midwest Projects.

The total to be spent on Mississippi valley and midwest rivers and harbors projects will be $14,066,650, allotted as follows:

Mississippi river between Ohio and Illinois rivers, $2,000,000; Mississippi river between Illinois river and Minneapolis, $3,200,000; Missouri river, Kansas City to the mouth, $1,700,000; Missouri river, Kansas City to Sioux City, $5,000,000; Tennessee river, $1,500,000; Grand Haven harbor and Grand river, Michigan, $25,650; St. Mary's river, Michigan, $41,000; Monroe harbor, Michigan, $600,000.

Other Allotments.

The Alleghany river, Pennsylvania, and the Kanawha river, West Virginia, both tributaries of the Ohio river, receive respectively $4,000,000 and $2,000,000.

Other large rivers and harbors allotments are:

Delaware river, $960,000; James river, Virginia, $600,000; Umpqua river, Oregon, $450,000; Los Angeles and Long Beach harbors, California, $700,000.

SUPERVISORS CUT SALARIES OF KANE COUNTY WORKERS

The finance committee of the Kane county board of supervisors yesterday recommended salary cuts for county employes which will save a total of $16,900 next year.

Other reductions in the county budget are expected to lower the total expenditures from $441,000 this year to $378,000 next year. Revenue to be raised by taxation is lowered, in the recommendations, from $270,000 to $218,000.

It was pointed out at the meeting, held in Geneva, by the county's department heads that there was no authority to make most of them take a salary cut. Only three, the clerk of the Circuit court, the county auditor, and the county recorder, are up for election this fall. The others have two years more to serve and their pay of $4,000 each annually cannot be reduced without their consent. Those to be elected in November now draw $3,500, and it was voted by the finance committee to fix their scale at $3,200.

Rainbow Veterans to Hold 1933 Convention Here

The Rainbow Division Veterans' association will hold its 1933 convention in Chicago, it was announced yesterday by Col. Noble B. Judah, national president of the veterans' organization. WHY do Tribune want ads get such good results?

Just this. Buying is always more active in the market that presents more reasons for more people to frequent it.

Furthermore, the Tribune is read by more families in Chicago and suburbs, daily and Sunday, than read any other Chicago newspaper.

The Tribune's large volume of rental advertising or its larger circulation may alone produce results. Together they give greatest assurance of satisfactory results. If your apartments are vacant,

ILLINOIS SENATE DEMANDS CUT IN FEDERAL TAXES

Warns Congress People Can't Raise Money.

BY PARKE BROWN.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Springfield, Ill., Sept. 13.—[Special.]—An emphatic demand for the reduction of the federal tax burden today opened the second week of the fourth special session of the Illinois general assembly.

As the senate prepared to resume its deliberations on the problem of meeting the flat statement of the state emergency relief commission that 36 million dollars must be provided to meet the demands for relief for the unemployed during the coming winter, Senator James J. Barbour of Evanston introduced a resolution declaring that Illinois has reached the limit of its taxpaying ability and demanding that the federal congress lighten the load of its imposition on the state.

House Defers Action.

After a brief but emphatic argument by Senator Barbour the resolution was adopted unanimously. It then went to the house, where, after some remarks by several members of the talkative type, action was deferred until tomorrow. Favorable action is expected there after the members understand the resolution, which apparently they failed to grasp on the first reading.

The text of the resolution follows:

"Whereas, the ever increasing burden of taxation has brought the state of Illinois to the breaking point, and,

"Whereas, there is a forceful demand at this time for a further increase in local taxation for the purpose of relieving the victims of unemployment, and,

Must Be Borne by State.

"Whereas, the congress of the United States recently enacted a revenue bill requiring the payment of an additional billion dollars in federal taxes, a large part of which must be borne by the state of Illinois, and,

"Whereas, official reports show that during the fiscal year ending June 30, 1931, Illinois paid into the federal treasury in internal revenue alone the sum of $190,508,952 out of a total of $2,430,148,742 paid into that treasury and that the state of Illinois received in federal aid only $8,265,920 out of a total of $219,162,574 distributed among the various states, and,

"Whereas, these figures demonstrate that Illinois paid almost twenty-three times as much toward the support of the federal government as it received in federal aid, and,

Illinois Can't Reach Demands.

"Whereas, the report of the internal revenue department for the fiscal year ending June 30, 1932, discloses that the state of Illinois in internal revenue alone during that period paid in the sum of $106,676,227, and,

"Whereas, these figures demonstrate beyond question that Illinois can no longer meet the demands of the federal government, particularly in view of the recent addition of one billion dollars to the national burden, and that its resources of taxation have been exhausted, therefore,

"Be it resolved, by the senate of the general assembly of the state of Illinois, the house of representatives concurring herein, that the state of Illinois does hereby call upon the congress of the United States to reduce the amount of taxes levied upon the residents of the state by the elimination of unnecessary, duplicated and overlapping bureaus, commissions and similar bodies, by the cessation of non-essential activites in all departments, and by the immediate termination of waste and extravagance wherever they exist, and,

To Send Copies to President.

"Be it further resolved, that copies of this resolution be forwarded to the President of the United States, to the Vice President of the United States as president of the senate, and to the speaker of the house of representatives."

"The situation in Illinois is not understood in Washington," said Senator Barbour after the upper chamber had acted favorably on the resolution. "It is not realized there that the residents of the state have reached the limit of their taxpaying ability. The total of taxes unpaid throughout the state shows that property owners and others upon whom taxes are levied cannot meet any further demands upon them, and yet we are told that we cannot expect any further aid from the 300 million dollar appropriation for unemployment relief unless we do something for ourselves.

"We ask them what we are to do. We invite Chairman Pomerene of the Reconstruction Finance corporation to make good on his offer to come and discuss the situation with us and he declines. That is to be regretted.

No Place to Raise Relief Fund.

"So we are left confronted with the demand that we raise a large amount of money for relief work and there is no place to raise it, and, since Illinois in the past has paid something like 8 per cent of the total collected in the country through internal revenue, we face the likelihood that the federal government will collect another eighty million dollars from Illinois under the new taxes and the increased taxes imposed by the billion dollar revenue bill.

"Our state tax of 39 cents is comparatively a small part of our burden. We will do our best to reduce that at the regular session opening in January, but the new congress and the administration elected in November should have before them as soon as they take office the plea of Illinois for relief from the heavy federal burden."

Sales Tax Proposal.

The senate devoted much of its afternoon session to the alternative proposal for a sales tax—an optional county sales tax—proposed in a bill by Senator Richard J. Barr. The Joliet man sought to amend his bill to limit this authority to "counties of more than 500,000 population," meaning Cook county, but he was beaten on this proposal by a vote of 12 to 14, the Chicago senators having been advised that such limited legislation would be unconstitutional.

After this amendment was beaten and after other amendments such as the exemption of foodstuffs had been adopted, the bill was advanced to third reading and is ready for passage tomorrow. But the author said he would not call it up unless the necessary two-thirds or 34 votes can be seen in plain sight.

Senator Carlson served notice that he may call the general sales tax bill up for passage tomorrow, but after Senator Barr's remarks he said he might delay if the time seemed inopportune. According to opinions expressed by a number of senators any time will be inopportune. In other words, there may be a showdown tomorrow or Thursday on both the state sales tax and the optional county sales tax and neither one likely will be successful.

Advance NSF Check Bill.

Senator Noah M. Mason of La Salle county, without objection, had advanced to third or final reading the bill to repeal the NSF teachers' check bill which has blocked the sale of Chicago board of education tax warrants. He is considered a representative of the downstate teachers' organizations and his pressing the bill is considered an augury of its passage.

In the senate also, while the bills were not up for formal discussion, it was said there had been a sudden increase in opposition to the housing commission bills.

Edward L. Ryerson Jr., chairman of the state emergency relief commission, appeared before the house and answered numerous questions concerning the administration of the funds in its hands, but efforts to heckle him were met by an easy manner that later brought from some members expressions that he had met the situation satisfactorily.

LOS ANGELES GETS A 40 MILLION LOAN FROM GOVERNMENT

Washington, D. C., Sept. 13.—[Special.]—Forty million dollars of Reconstruction Finance corporation money was loaned to Los Angeles today to go westward and join the 165 millions of federal funds which will be spent on Boulder dam.

The forty millions, supplied by the federal treasury through the purchase of finance corporation debentures, will be used to build an aqueduct to supply Los Angeles and a dozen other southern California cities with water from the Boulder canyon reservoir.

Right of way over federal land on which the aqueduct will be built was turned over to the California water company by congress at the last session.

The forty millions was made available by the finance corporation in the form of a "self-liquidating project" loan—the first to be granted by the corporation since it was authorized to make such advances under the emergency relief bill.

Agreement of the federal loan agency to finance the initial construction of the aqueduct brought to successful culmination weeks of lobbying and negotiating on the part of officials of the southern California metropolitan water district, to whom the loan was made.

New York also sought today to expedite action on its application for a 75 million dollar loan to construct a vehicular tunnel under the Hudson from Manhattan to Weehawken, N. J.

HOOVER ORDERS PLAN DRAFTED TO REDUCE BUREAUS

Tells Budget Chief to Get It Ready for Congress.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Sept. 13.—[Special.]—When congress reconvenes in December, there will be placed before it, President Hoover announced today, a comprehensive plan for the reorganization of the entire executive structure of the government. In making his announcement, the President said:

"Upon my recommendation, the congress at its last session gave to the President authority to reorganize the executive branches of the government by regrouping, reconsolidating and reducing the number of bureaus and commissions, eliminating overlap and duplication of effort in order to bring about large economies. Under the provisions of the law, the President is to issue executive orders covering such changes and these orders are to be transmitted to congress, to become effective after 60 calendar days, should congress not disapprove of them.

Make Detailed Studies.

"The law creating the bureau of the budget provides that that bureau, on direction of the President, shall make detailed studies for purposes of determining changes in the executive organization.

"I have today directed that the director of the budget shall set up the staff to make the necessary detailed investigations and prepare executive orders for reorganization of the whole structure of the federal government. These orders, covering the entire executive establishment, will be completed and presented to the congress immediately on its convening in December."

The law under which the President is acting is that which was written into the economy bill passed by the last session of congress.

Congress Declares Policy.

In that act congress declared it to be its policy, "[A] to group, coördinate and consolidate executive and administrative agencies of the government, as nearly as may be, according to major purposes; [B] to reduce the number of such agencies by consolidating those having similar functions under a single head; [C] to eliminate overlapping and duplication of effort, and [D] to segregate regulatory agencies and functions from those of an administrative character."

The President was given broad powers under the law, having the right to consolidate, transfer, and redistribute bureaus and executive agencies and their duties. Democratic members, however, were anxious to keep a string on this exercise of executive power; a proviso was inserted, therefore, ordering that if the President wished to abolish any department or agency set up by statue he must submit his recommendation to congress; in the absence of a vote of disapproval the change would take effect.

371,315 REGISTER FOR CLASSES IN PUBLIC SCHOOLS

The students enrolled in Chicago's public schools mounted to 371,315 yesterday afternoon, an increse of 21,870 over the enrollment on Monday, the opening day. William J. Bogan, superintendent of schools, said that by the end of September there will be more than a half million pupils.

Enrollment in the elementary schools was 321,274, or 5,320 fewer pupils than on the second registration day of last year. The decrease is the result of the declining birth rate, according to school statisticians.

Students in the senior high schools numbered 98,831, an increase of 5,822 over 1931, for the second school day, and in the junior high schools, 44,746, an increase of 5,280 pupils.

TEACHERS VOTE FOR REPEAL OF N. S. F. CHECK LAW

The joint conference of 27 teacher organizations yesterday voted for repeal of the tax payment feature of the "N. S. F." check law at the special session of the legislature. This provision has prevented the sale of the school board tax warrants to bankers, since security experts have stated that the law impairs the value of the warrants. The law has thus been an obstacle to teachers' pay.

The conference was held at the Principals' club at 185 North Wabash avenue. Charles Stillman, chairman, will appear before the board of education this afternoon to report the action of the teacher organizations.

At the last special session of the legislature the revenue act was amended to permit the use of "N. S. F." checks when cash is not available as a lien on taxes.

Several representatives of teacher groups are in Springfield urging the legislature to repeal the law. The state teachers' association, represented by its executive secretary, Robert C. Moore, has also recommended the repeal.

Drag Lake After Suicide Note Is Found in Hat

Lincoln park police dragged the lake off Oak street yesterday in a vain search for the body of Harry Vercamp, 52 years old, 1008 West 80th street. Earlier in the day police had found a hat on the beach containing Vercamp's business card, on which was written: "Please notify police my body is in the lake." It was learned that Vercamp formerly was a salesman in the real estate department of the old Foreman Trust and Savings bank. He has been missing from his home since Monday.

Sears Bought at the BOTTOM to Insure "Two-Fold" Savings

Sixty days ago, before basic commodities started their phenomenal rise, Sears prepared for their greatest selling event of the year—their 46th Anniversary. They placed orders with manufacturers when cotton, silk, wool, leather and rayon and other staple materials were at rock-bottom prices . . geared in Sears tremendous buying power and resources to make advantageous purchases even at those low cost commodity levels! The result is a host of never-to-be-forgotten values . . definitely lower prices you have learned to expect even from Sears, and with Sears high quality standards maintained! Sears bought at the BOTTOM—Sears buying power took advantage of lowest wholesale costs to give you the lowest prices. There's a "two-fold" saving for you on everything you buy in Sears great 46th Anniversary, which starts in all Sears stores tomorrow, Thursday.

SEARS 46TH ANNIVERSARY

This chart forcefully demonstrates why retail selling prices will be higher this fall. Because Sears placed tremendous orders with manufacturers when wholesale commodity prices were at the bottom sixty days ago—we were able to effect savings not possible today. Sears foresight reflects itself most effectively in the offerings prepared for the 46th Anniversary selling. Seasonable, style-right, quality merchandise at lowest prices—and, we repeat, double savings on tested merchandise because Sears made timely purchases in the low markets of last July.

"The newspaper is an institution developed by modern civilization to present the news of the day, to foster commerce and industry, to inform and mold public opinion, and to furnish that check upon government which no constitution has ever been able to provide."

THE BONUS ARMY AS A POLITICAL ISSUE.

What happened to the bonus marchers in Washington has become a partisan issue in the presidential campaign. The Democrats are seeking to foster the belief that a peaceful assemblage of veterans, intent only on exercising the constitutional right of petitioning congress and the President, was driven from the capital by a brutal and murderous soldiery. The Republicans, on the other hand, are seeking to convince the voters that the bonus army included a large proportion of dangerous radicals and criminals whose presence in Washington constituted a hazard and who are still at large.

Thus we find Mayor Curley of Boston, a Democratic spellbinder, haranguing the national convention of the American Legion at Portland, Ore. The bonus army, he says, "were shot down like dogs in our national capital." This outburst came only a day after President Hoover and Attorney General Mitchell had issued a statistical summary intended to show the prevalence of revolutionary agitators and common criminals among the bonus marchers.

Maj. Gen. Glassford, who is chief of the Washington police force, occupies a position somewhere between the lines. He insists, and no doubt correctly, that the bonus marchers were, in the main, well behaved. He finds no evidence of an increase in crime in Washington while the bonus army was there. He denies that he advised calling in the regulars. What the general has to say is being taken up by the Democratic partisans as ammunition for them, but as a matter of fact his testimony is of little value to either side.

The relevant facts are as follows: The bonus marchers arrived in Washington while congress was in session to present their petition for immediate payment of the unpaid portion of their certificates. No one interfered with them until after congress had adjourned. Then the police of Washington were required to evict the bonus marchers from a vacant building. The act was resented by the marchers, who engaged in a fight with the police. Several policemen were injured and two members of the bonus army were killed. Gen. Glassford says he informed the district commissioners that if any more evictions were attempted that day there would be further trouble. He did not advise the summoning of the regulars, but they were summoned to drive the bonus army out of their lodgings. This was accomplished without further bloodshed.

To say, as Mayor Curley does, that the bonus men were "shot down like dogs" is to go far outside the record. The men who were shot were engaged in a riot. They were resisting the orders of the constituted authorities to evacuate premises to which they had no shadow of a claim to occupy. Mayor Curley, who ought to be familiar with the Boston police strike, should know, better than most men do, how dangerous a mob can become if once it gets out of hand. It may be argued that the order to evacuate never should have been given, but it cannot be argued that the bonus marchers were justified in resisting it with brickbats and fists. The constitutional right to petition congress does not imply that petitioners are entitled to free lodging in Washington for an indefinite period and it does not grant the petitioners any right to throw bricks at policemen. If, under the circumstances, the police had failed to use force, they would have been guilty of gross neglect of duty and could have been held responsible for any ensuing disorders.

Whether the Republican administration handled the affair as tactfully as was possible is quite another question. If the Democratic spellbinders have any suggestions to offer as to how the bonus army might have been treated, the suggestions deserve some consideration for future use. But to use the incident, as Mayor Curley does, to inflame the public mind against the brutal soldiery and by inference to suggest that Democrats, had they been in power, would have granted the bonus, is to talk nonsense. The soldiers killed nobody. No administration ever was as frightened of revolutionaries as was the Wilson administration in which A. Mitchell Palmer was grand inquisitor. And if the Democrats would have granted the bonus it is astonishing that a few weeks before the eviction the Democratic national convention deliberately rejected the proposal of Gov. Murray of Oklahoma to include a bonus plank in the platform. The bonus plank was voted down, as it should have been, after Democratic congressmen had assured the convention that the proposal would destroy confidence in the stability of the dollar and in the security of United States government bonds.

Mayor Curley is an accomplished demagogue. When he seeks to arouse the indignation of the American people against a brutal government and its soldiery he must know that he is striking a popular note. Why the American people should be so willing to believe their government and its army officers are savages with a thin veneer of manners is worthy of study. Maj. Gen. Glassford is an army man whose temperate counsel was overruled by civilians. When the regulars appeared they accomplished their mission without the shedding of a drop of blood. The regular army has not been used in this country to oppress the people. Mayor Curley must be addressing himself to men who, when they think of soldiers, think of Cossacks and the black-and-tans. Americans have known nothing of that kind of oppression in more than 150 years.

THE GERMAN CRISIS.

The political crisis in Germany is very difficult for the American public to interpret, but they will be impressed, at least, by the irony of a situation which discloses both Col. von Papen and Hitler appealing to the constitution for justification and support. Both parties intend to wipe out the constitution if and as soon as their authority is established, but Goering, the Hitlerite, takes his stand on the parliamentary rules of which he skillfully availed himself to shut off Von Papen's decree of dissolution, and Von Papen points to the constitutional provision which declares that the right of the government to be heard cannot be encroached upon by disciplinary measures of the reichstag chairman.

It is evident that matters have not yet gone so far that either combatant is ready to forego the appearance of legality and rely upon the naked edge of force. Neither the Stahl Helms nor the Nazis have any scruples on this point, but neither seems to be confident enough of the results of a collision to give up the cover of constitutional form. That may come before these words appear in print or later.

Meanwhile among the well wishers of the German people in America there is sincere regret that the experiment in republicanism is in dire peril. To us the German nation has seemed on the whole better prepared for republican government than any other people on the continent of Europe. Self-government calls for an educated and self-disciplined citizenship, for respect for law and order for their own sake, and for the conditions essential to general economic and social well being. All of these the Germans have in a high degree, even the last in spite of their misfortunes since 1914. That they should revert to the aristocratic régime represented by Von Papen or the Fascism of the Nazis is understandable but deplorable from the viewpoint at least of Americans who had hoped to see Germany added to the short list of really republican states.

We in America may be unduly partial to the republican system and unduly optimistic as to its possibilities, but we cannot forget the part played by the old German régime in the Europe which swept into the vast disaster of the war, even though we have little sympathy with the effort to fix exclusive responsibility for that catastrophe upon Germany. We cannot believe, on the other hand, that Hitlerism is anything but reactionary and destructive of the freedom upon which, we profoundly believe, human progress depends. Therefore we watch the angry currents which seem to be sweeping the German people away from republicanism with anxiety and regret. A German republic seems to us to insure in the long run an extension of the influence of the civilian, the man of peace, and of his vital interest in international amity and coöperation. It is not that republics will not cherish delusions of grandeur or indulge in rancors and national ambitions productive of strife. No form of government is free from the characteristics of human nature, but those in which the people have the greater influence over national policy and conduct we are convinced must in the main seek the stability and accord which is conducive to the welfare of the common man.

The German republic has been subjected to exceptional strains before it was able to establish its processes and its prestige. It is not surprising that republicanism, even among a people so well fitted for its responsibilities as the German, has not yet won the confidence which would sustain it against reaction. The republic may sink in this stormy time, but the republicans of America will not doubt that it will rise again. Popular government, where it is well established, has weaknesses which threaten destruction in troubled periods and the swing of distracted peoples toward autocracy is natural, if not indeed inevitable. Nevertheless, for the sake of peace and progress not only in Germany but in the world it is hoped the crisis in that country will not restore the morale and philosophy of dominance which kept Europe under the shadow of fear for a generation.

Editorial of the Day

A FRENCH "MIDDLETOWN."

[New York Times.]

A few years ago a typical American city was minutely described in a book called "Middletown." Within the limits of an article in the August Harper's Eugene Bagger attempts the same sort of picture of a French city. He selected Nimes, a city of 84,677 in the heart of the French south, chiefly because of its richness in historic background. It has existed as a municipality for more than two thousand years—in striking contrast to the green youth of "Middletown."

Most Americans would expect to find the interest of such a study in the vivid differences between cities on opposite sides of the Atlantic. Yet there are surprising similarities. Although the Roman monuments of Nimes are among the most perfectly preserved in the world [two of them, the amphitheater and the public gardens, still being used], their influence on the cultural outlook of its citizens is negligible. Nimes is a distribution center for an agricultural region, with a few manufactures, including shoes and ready made clothing. It counts ten families worth over a million dollars. But its middle and working classes have incomes "from one-half to one-third of those enjoyed by their American equivalents." Yet they live well, though commodities are at average world levels, with food, particularly meat, sugar and fruits, dearer than in America. But French rents are lower, and living well in Nimes does not necessarily include ownership of bathrooms, radios, electrical household equipment or oil burning furnaces. The Nimois go in for sports, but prefer shooting and football to tennis or golf. They have an old municipal theater, but it has fallen on evil days, while the seven movie houses are flourishing.

Two representative citizens offered their conception of the typical business man's idea of the "good life." One, a Catholic conservative, included "a comfortable home, a car, a good gramophone or wireless, or both; taking his family to the movies once or twice a week, spending Sunday at the mazet, or a country villa, if more ambitious; driving his friends to dine at one or another of the good restaurants in the region." A Protestant liberal listed "a well managed home, a close knit and exclusive family life, a villa in the country, a good car, a little shooting, participation in the activities of the church." Not very far from Babbitt's notions.

In commenting on the subtler differences, Mr. Bagger notes that there are in Nimes no boosters or professional optimists. There is no organized meddling with the affairs of others. Yet there is "no public spirit, no civic initiative," and above all, "no tradition of unstinted private endowment of benevolent and cultural causes." "There is no cant about 'service.' On the other hand, there is no service." There are no efficiency experts, but, then, there is no efficiency, either.

MAINE HAS SPOKEN! Usually for G. O. P. by twenty-five thousand more or less, the Democrats have captured her lock, stock, and barrel. And now all the Jefferson lads are going around smiling as they repeat over and over, "Well, as Maine goes so goes the nation," while the G. O. AN OLD GENTLEMAN brought before the court in Washington, D. C., yesterday because he was found very drunk on the sidewalk was discharged by the judge when it was established that the prisoner had not drank a drop of intoxicating liquor for eighty-one years. We'll bet a nickel he was a Democrat who had just heard the news from Maine. Eighty-one years is a long time to wait.

IMMORTALS.

Strangely, across the schoolroom, through the din
Of whispers, stifled giggles, shuffling feet,
Old ghosts take substance—heroes who could meet
Red danger single-handed, fight and win!
A martyr flames; beruffled adventurers spin
Their wild sea tales . . . word visions incomplete,
Schoolbook immortals time cannot defeat,
The young mind stirs and calls these great ones in.

Queer court they hold before the childish brain
Between his urgency for sleep and play,
Historic shades, invincible, they reign
Over the past, and point the future way,
And then at four o'clock they fade again

WASHINGTON is having a terrible time over who ordered the troops brought in against the bonus marchers. Everybody is shouting either "I did not" or "You did too" at everybody else, and late reports say the statues of Gen. Jackson and Lafayette climbed down from their pedestals last night and engaged in a fist fight right in the middle of Pennsylvania avenue.

THA DUKE AN THA B. AND C. ARE GOING ON A 2D HONEYMOON.

Dick: An then she says your going an what's more your gonna like it an then I says but listen honey an she says don't honey me you poor simp you promised me a trip after every baby was born an I yet got to see what's south of South Chicago. Whadda you going to do with a volcano like her? There's no use sittin around till she quits spouting cause she'll be doing bizness long after Vesuvious quits. So I says alright carbolic you win and now please pull in your neck before tha Cohn family send fer tha squad car again. When I tells her it will take me a cupple days to plan tha trip and it will take tha garage guy 3 days to wash tha jalloppy she informs me that I dont have to bother as tha trip is already planned without my massive brain and we aint using our chariot. Seems Blimp and Irene hafta get out of town fer 10 days on account most of their installments come due between tha 20th an tha 1st and also if his car aint in Chgo they cant take it till he gets back. So they an tha B. and C. laid out a trip through Canada and if I say I dont want to go to Canada I will go to Canada. We aint leaving until Friday but tha Mama is already packing stuff an I expect when I get home tonight I will be asked to detach tha kitchen sink and tha gas stove. Me, I dont have to do any packing as I always got my other suit on and I can shove my other pair of sox in my pocket. Those nuts think they did a smart job planning tha trip without me, not a damn one of them had brains enough to find out tha most important thing of all so this afternoon I gotta find out where ya get those permits and what time at night does tha places close and do they limit a guy on quantity. Tha connivers are all excited and their calling tha trip a 2d honeymoon. Anyhow I hope it turns out better than our first. They tell me I'm gonna get a big kick out of tha scenic wonders, if ya ask me I bet Canuck grass an trees aint a bit diffrunt than what we got in Lincoln Park. Well, when I send you my picture dont think those are tears coming out of my eyes, "Listin Buddy thems beers, yes sir beers." God save the King! DUKE BAKRAK.

A BOY SCOUT'S SCORE CARD.

One group of Boy Scouts has adopted a scoring plan for promotion of skin tanning as a part of the program for a Boy Scout camp. The procedure was worked out by Dr. W. H. Merrill. The camp is provided with score cards for individual records. When a boy enters camp he is given a tan record card. On this is entered his name, age, type of complexion, color of hair, and color of lashes. For the purposes of scoring the skin is divided into four regions, viz.: head and neck, arms, torso or trunk, and legs. The names of these sections are printed on the card. Under each major head, such as arms, there are subheads and blank spaces in which ratings are entered.

The factor for normal is zero; that for light tan, 30; tan, 60; dark tan is 100. A specimen score might read as follows:

Head and neck—20 per cent of area was normal, zero; 80 per cent had a light tan (80x30)=24.

Arms—50 per cent of skin normal=50.

JUNE 8.

Head and neck—10 per cent light tan (30x10)=3; 80 per cent tan (80x60)=48; 10 per cent deep tan (10x100)=10. Total, 61.

Arms—50 per cent light tan (50x30)=15; 30 per cent tan (30x60)=18; 20 per cent deep tan (20x100)=20. Total, 53.

Torso—60 per cent tan (60x60)=36; 40 per cent deep tan (40x100)=40. Total, 76.

Legs—25 per cent light tan (25x30)=7.5; 25 per cent tan (25x60)=15; 50 per cent deep tan (50x100)=50. Total, 72.5.

Grand total, 262.5.

JUNE 15.

Head—40 per cent tan (10x60)=6; 90 per cent deep tan (50x100)=90. Total, 96.

Legs—10 per cent light tan (10x30)=3; 20 per cent tan (20x60)=12; 70 per cent deep tan (70x100)=70. Total, 85.

Grand total, 357.

John Jones, therefore, was rated 79.5 on entrance, June 1; 262.5 on June 8, and 357 on June 15.

Competitive classes must have ten or more members. Winners are suitably designated or rewarded. Any competitor who blisters his skin or causes the skin to become edematous or markedly inflamed, or who has a fever due to a burn is ruled out of the competition and, of course, becomes ineligible for an award.

At the beginning of the contest the scout master explains to the group not only the rules of the game but also the effects of light on the skin. He tells them that certain types of skin tan readily, other types poorly, and that, as a rule, skins that burn easily tan poorly. The group is told that persons who tan poorly and burn readily must expose their skins with great caution—limited areas at a time and short exposures; whereas those in the other groups can proceed with less caution. The explanations include the physiological effects of light.

CRADLE CAP.

Mrs. W. G. writes: May I offer this simple cure for cradle cap? Grease baby's head with olive oil or vaseline in the evening. Next morning, before bathing, put a little baking soda on affected part. Rub gently with a little water. Then wash with soap and water and repeat next day if necessary. It is astonishing how it cures, and on return just repeat.

REPLY.

I am sure this simple treatment will cure some cases, but far from all. Cradle cap results from eating something to which the child is sensitized. Some cases will not get well unless the diet is changed.

TAPEWORM.

C. R. A. writes: How can a person know if he has a tapeworm? I am 68 years old, eat two hearty meals a day with a relish. I am taking cod liver oil tablets, two a day. Bowels move shortly after the morning meal. As I weigh only 120 pounds, I thought I might have a worm. I never weighed over 140. My health is good.

REPLY.

Finding segments of a worm is the only proof of its presence. Under weight is not even suggestive of tapeworm. Eating enough for two—host and guest—is no job at all. What a tapeworm eats would not keep a canary alive.

WITHIN THE LAW.

Chicago, Sept. 9.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—I have noticed and stopped to observe very frequently our protectors of life and property, the fire and police squads, dash at dizzy speed, careening around obstacles and corners at top speed, apparently with no regard for the lives and property they endanger on their way to their destination. Going through stop lights is their big display of recklessness. I believe these departments could execute their work in a more sane manner and therefore, as a student of sociology, would like to know: 1. Whether they are within the law by exceeding the speed limits and disregarding traffic signals. 2. If so, under what code, state or municipal, and what is the statute?

FROM THE TRIBUNE'S COLUMNS

16 YEARS AGO TODAY

SEPTEMBER 14, 1916.

CHICAGO.—Edward F. Dunne was renominated for governor in the Democratic primary yesterday over William B. Brinton of Dixon, the Sullivan entry, by a vote of avalanche proportions. Incomplete returns indicate his plurality in the entire state will be around 90,000. Frank O. Lowden won the Republican nomination for governor by a plurality of just about 100,000. His lead over Senator Morton D. Hull will be slightly in excess of the round figure rather than under it, as the downstate returns accumulate. Frank L. Smith ran second downstate, but was far behind in Cook county. Medill McCormick's finish as a candidate for congressman at large developed into a primary night sensation. After early bulletins showing that he had been manhandled by some of the strongly organized downstate counties he began to forge ahead, and it is probable that he has negotiated a plurality over former Senator William E. Mason of close to 50,000. In Cook county the Republicans nominated Harry B. Miller, a city hall entry, over John E. Northup, for state's attorney. Other victors were: Sanitary district, Charles H. Sergel, James H. Lawley, and Matthias A. Mueller; coroner, Peter M. Hoffman, and recorder, Joseph F. Haas. The Democrats nominated Maclay Hoyne for state's attorney; Thomas A. Sullivan, Joseph Ruskewicz, and James A. Long for the sanitary district; James B. Bowler for coroner, and Joseph F. Connery for recorder.

LONDON.—The British forces which crossed the Struma river in Greek Macedonia on Sept. 10 have been withdrawn after having inflicted heavy losses on the Bulgars, according to a report sent by the British press representatives at Saloniki.

PARIS.—French troops continued their gains towards Combles, the important rail center, the loss of which would imperil the whole German line in the region of the Somme river. The official statement tells of the capture of the town of Bouchavesnes, the "key to Combles." A later report says these gains have been enlarged and that the French stormed new trenches south of La Priez farm. Desperate counter attacks gave the Germans temporary possession of the farm in L'Abbe wood and hill 76, but they were recaptured by the French later.

BERLIN.—A Russian destroyer has been sunk in the Gulf of Riga by a German airplane squadron, says a report given out by the German admiralty. German naval planes also have attacked Russian sea forces in the Black sea off Constanza, Rumania.

ATHENS.—King Constantine accepted the resignation of Premier Zaimis and his cabinet. He asked M. Dimitracopulos, former minister of justice, to form a new cabinet. M. Dimitracopulos has accepted in principle and will confer with the king. He is a supporter of the policy of former Premier Venizelos and has expressed the opinion that, with Rumania in the war, it was time for Greece to abandon its neutrality.

CHICAGO.—Information given Chief of Police Healey by THE TRIBUNE last night led to an arrest in Chicago, which, it is believed, may clear up the mysterious robbery of the branch of the Bank of Montreal at New Westminster, B. C., and lead to the recovery of a large part of the $271,000 loss. The "tip" came from THE TRIBUNE'S correspondent in Toronto, Canada. It told of the taking into custody there of Michael B. Shortall of 6639 Perry avenue, Chicago, as he was trying to pry open a safety deposit box in the vault of the Bank of Toronto. When the box was examined it was found to be stuffed full of notes stolen in the Westminster bank robbery. The bank's records showed the box had been rented for the last four years by another Chicagoan, Martin H. Flannigan of 164 West 51st street. Shortall told the police he had been employed by Flannigan to make the trip to Toronto. Flannigan was arrested by police on the information furnished by THE TRIBUNE.

THE HOUSING BILL.

Chicago, Sept. 10.—Of all the economic quackery thus far set forth the twaddle in yesterday's cartoon entitled "A Real Prosperity Plan" is the most pernicious.

The rampant credit extension during the period of the so-called prosperity resulted in such an overbuilt condition and so many vacancies in all classes of buildings that the gross returns in most instances are insufficient to pay the upkeep, confiscatory taxes and actual depreciation. The fact that when the Aquitania building—originally subject to a $1,200,000 bond issue—was sold by the county treasurer, free and clear of the bond issue and all other liens, no one, other than the treasurer in his official capacity, could be found to bid $163,000 for the same, shows that there is practically no value left in Chicago apartment buildings. Thousands of frugal and industrious people, who invested their money in equities or mortgages and building bonds, have lost it all.

In the face of this you advocate the erection of additional apartments for which there is no demand and which will therefore not only be without real value but will destroy what little value the now existing apartments may still have. And for this you propose to use the taxpayers' money. In other words, you propose to destroy, at least reduce, the value of the taxpayer's property with the money to be extracted from him under the guise of legitimate taxation. Of course it is preposterous to assume that the men to be engaged, directly and indirectly, in the construction proposed will be able by reason of such employment to occupy the new apartments to be built as well as the good ones which are at present vacant, or pay a reasonable rental therefor.

Since there is no demand or need for such new buildings they will not be "self-liquidating." They will destroy rather than constitute wealth.

If there were any merit in your nostrum why would not unlimited prosperity be caused by the hiring of all the unemployed to dig holes and fill them up, or in Garner's plan of indiscriminate construction of postoffices? What is wrong with the worst sort of bureaucracy, pay roll padding or any other device to bleed the taxpayers white? All of those methods "give employment" and "put money in circulation." Like your scheme they involve a criminal waste of money, labor and valuable materials, but none is as bad as your proposal since they would not destroy the value of existing property.

It is just another racketeering propaganda to place at the public trough the organized material concerns, building trade unions, architects, insurance companies and parasitical subdividers. As organizations they have votes and lobbyists. Hence the enthusiasm of the administration in their behalf. When the voice of the organized is heard public justice cannot afford to consider the rights of the individual to what he has honestly earned and saved.

SAVING A MILLION.

Chicago, Sept. 6.—Mr. Weege says Lincoln park saved a million dollars. And why not, when ordinarily they employ men that get paid by the park! As it is, they have Emmerson relief men doing the work in the park and getting paid out of that fund. I have a brother working in the park and he works five days a week at $4 a day and works every other week and must wait sometimes a whole month and then he gets one week's pay, and his family is expected to live on that. These Emmerson men get paid every week and get plenty of help.

My children go to Seward park and also to Stanton park to play. These places have two and three physical instructors and they do nothing but sit in the office and give out a bat or a ball or a checker board, and for this service they collect $140 a month. I think such stuff can be done away with at a time like this and men with families put to work.

MRS. SARAH SMITH.

MR. BUSH'S FILLING STATION.

Chicago, Sept. 7.—This concerns the palatial and much patronized filling station owned by Guy Bush and operated by men in his employ.

Now this highly paid ball player of the Cubs doesn't need to maintain an establishment of this kind for a livelihood, in view of the salary he earns as pitcher for his team.

It is easily seen that it is the popularity of Mr. Bush that's driving all the trade his way, what with his name emblazoned on a huge electric sign on his filling station.

Most people are hero worshipers and fall for this stuff. However, I have no objection to that, but what gets my goat is capitalizing on popularity to the discomfiture of others of lesser renown. This is typical of modern methods of doing business; big fish eat little fish, every man for himself and let the devil take the hindermost.

KEEN OBSERVER.

THE INEVITABLE SALOON.

Byron, Ill., Sept. 11.—It is evident that the coming campaign will be waged on the question of wet and dry and if the wets win and bring back light wines and beer, won't they be kind enough to tell us where we can buy it if there are to be no saloons and also where is the money coming from wherewith to buy? Let every voter try to think clearly and know the truth—that wherever beer and wines are sold, there will be a bar and that bar will be in a saloon and the old days will come back.

CANADIAN VETERANS.

Chicago, Sept. 6.—Let me commend your editorial in the issue of Sunday, the 4th, headed, "National Obligation to Veterans."

Canada lost as many men in the war as we and, of course, has less with which to pay, but when a man wounded seven times during his four years in service is not pensioned because he has all his limbs and is able to carry on in the business world it is a self-evident proposition the Canadian people look on the matter of military service and national obligation in a different way from our own. WOTTA LIFE! WOTTA LIFE!

BIG WHEAT CROP PLANTS ITSELF TO PROFIT MANY

Nature Plays a Kindly Trick in Montana.

Hardin, Mont., Sept. 13.—[Special.]—Nature has been exceedingly kind this season to Thomas Campbell, once known as the Montana wheat king and frequently referred to as the largest wheat farmer in the world.

And it has been kind, also, to the Crow Indians on whose government reservation Tom Campbell built up the mammoth farming corporation operations which a year ago came to a standstill at the expense of Campbell and a score of Chicago and Minneapolis bankers and grain men who had financed him.

It has all come about through the voluntary seeding last fall of some 15,000 acres of former wheat land which had been abandoned by the Campbell corporation. The crop which came up of its own has just been marketed to the credit of the federal government, who took the corporation farm for back rent. With a yield of over 16 bushels to the acre, a quarter million bushels have been shipped to Minneapolis, and netted 40 cents a bushel.

Gets $30,000 for Harvest.

Of the $100,000 realized on the volunteer crop, the government has paid Campbell $30,000 for harvesting and marketing. The balance has been credited to the Indian reservation after deducting commissions to the federal farm board's grain sales agency, the Farmers' National Grain corporation.

Harvesting and hauling to the railroad gave employment at good wages to about fifty men for six weeks. Some of the rusty idle tractors, combines and trucks which the corporation had set aside last year were returned to work. Being government wheat, a low freight rate was obtained to Minneapolis and the wheat was found to have a high protein content, selling at from 53⅛ to 59⅝ cents a bushel.

Leases Still in Effect.

The Campbell farming corporation's leases on the Crow reservation run until 1934. The sale of the volunteer crop just made has paid rent in arrears and up to date. As a result, Campbell has a crew of men now seeding 17,000 acres to winter wheat. Recent rains have insured a good stand for the 1933 crop.

Last season, when Campbell announced he would not raise a crop, his announcement was heralded by the farm board as the answer of a big wheat farmer to their appeal for reduced wheat production. Neither he nor the government, which had rented him the Indian land, foresaw the conditions that produced the self-planted wheat just marketed.

Only a few years ago the gigantic operations on 10,000 acres of Montana land were drawing world-wide attention to Campbell's "big time" farming here. Campbell was called to confer with officials in Washington, with bankers in New York and Chicago. Some of the latter invested in his corporation when they were told wheat could be grown economically on so large a scale.

Soviet Hires Campbell.

The methods employed here appealed to the Russian soviet. In 1929 Campbell was called to Russia to supervise the planting of a 10,000,000 acre crop. When the farm board was created he hailed it as the greatest boon to farmers the government had ever given.

Today Campbell is trying to pick up the threads of his once thriving enterprise. And his being hired by the government on a basis which netted him a small profit to market the crop which nature provided has made it possible.

2 SWANSON AIDS WILL HANDLE ALL CAR THEFT CASES

Assistant State's Attorneys John L. Murphy and Joseph Orrico were instructed yesterday by State's Attorney Swanson to devote all their time to automobile theft cases. They will follow each case from the Municipal court to the final disposition in order to prevent repeating offenders from gaining clemency through inadequate records, the state's attorney said.

A meeting of the Criminal court judges scheduled for yesterday afternoon was postponed for one week by Chief Justice John Prystalski because of the absence of Judges Thomas J. Lynch and Rudolph F. Desort. Judge Prystalski will present a plan to have one judge assigned to automobile cases exclusively. If the judges reject the plan State's Attorney Swanson said he would ask that automobile theft cases be grouped at definite times in the various courts to allow his assistants to carry on their work.

SEARCH HARBOR FOR BODY AFTER BOAT OVERTURNS

Coast guardsmen dragged the yacht basin at the foot of Monroe street yesterday in a vain search for the body of Frank Moats, 30 years old, 6400 Normal boulevard, who is believed to have been drowned earlier in the day when a rowboat in which he and two others were going ashore from the yawl Scarab overturned in a gust of wind.

Stanley Pope, 22 years old, an employé of the yacht, and Miss Isabelle Surprenant, 20 years old, 516 West 66th street, were the other occupants of the rowboat. They swam to a nearby buoy, where they were rescued by the crew of the yacht Reality.

A dozen young men and women had gathered on the Scarab for a party without the consent of Alfred B. Sirois, 6531 South Maplewood avenue, the owner.

Christmas Tree Salesman Plays an Unwilling Santa

Roy E. Estes, a Christmas tree salesman from Rockland, Me., told the police yesterday that he had unwittingly played Santa Claus to a hitch hiker whom he picked up on an automobile trip to Chicago, where he is seeking orders for his trees. On arriving in Chicago Estes put his car in a loop garage. The hiker, who had given him the name of John Payne Whitney, nonchalantly picked up the claim check, and when Estes returned for his automobile yesterday he discovered that his guest had driven away in the car.

Burglars Loot Home of Investment Banker

Robert W. Miller, an investment banker, yesterday reported to Lake county authorities that burglars had taken rugs and clothing valued at $4,700 from his home in Bannockburn, adjoining Deerfield. Miller discovered the burglary late Monday night, and neighbors said they saw three men drive away from the Miller home in an automobile Monday afternoon. The burglars used a skeleton key to gain entrance, Miller said.

FIVE COUNTIES WILL TAKE PART IN AURORA FETE

Residents of Du Page, Kane, Kendall, Will, and De Kalb counties will celebrate Friendship week in Aurora next week. The celebration will open Monday night with an antique vehicle parade. More than 100 school and community bands from the five counties will participate in a contest Tuesday afternoon. A massed choir will present a musical cantata Tuesday night. A Mardi Gras will hold the stage Thursday, and the celebration will end with special circus acts on Friday and Saturday.

Rock Island Labor Leader Beaten by Bandit Pair

Rock Island, Ill., Sept. 13.—[Special.]—Accosted by two men who ran his machine into the curb, Ray King, secretary of the Building Trades' council of the Tri-City Federation of Labor, was beaten and his clothing torn last night while on his way home from the Labor temple, where he had attended a meeting of the organization. The bandits, one of whom King believes he recognized, took $75 of the council funds from him.

GRAIN BOARD STARTS CUTTING HUGE EXPENSES

Economy Order to All Employes Revealed.

BY PAUL POTTER.

Action to curtail the expensive operations of the federal government's grain stabilization corporation has been taken behind closed doors in the corporation's headquarters in the Fisher building in the last few days, it became known yesterday.

G. S. MILNOR.

In a confidential memorandum sent on Sept. 6 to all officers and employés of the federal farm board's grain organization, George S. Milnor, its president, warned that expenses must be trimmed. The contents of the order became known last night.

Operations Limited.

"Discontinuance of selling and buying will, of course, materially reduce the amount of work required," Milnor's order read. "This fact, in connection with the rapid reduction of our stocks [farm board holdings] during the last few months, practically limits our operations to taking care of our present holdings until deliveries are made to Brazil, on other sales contracts, and to the American Red Cross."

Milnor predicted that it would take from six to nine months to clean up deliveries of wheat which have been hanging over American and foreign markets since the government first attempted to "peg" wheat prices at $1.18 in Chicago late in 1929.

The unsuccessful market operations of the farm board were carried on through this corporation, its pay roll and overhead costs mounting into the millions and extending into nearly 400 American and foreign markets. Together with its cotton deals and loans to coöperatives, the farm board has spent a half billion dollars, recent investigations by the Channon congressional committee have disclosed.

"A sufficient organization will be maintained to carry on the work (of the grain corporation) effectively," Milnor informed the employés. Many of the employés who formerly occupied, together with the Farmers National Grain corporation, two complete floors in the Chicago loop building have resigned or been discharged.

The grain corporation still holds most of the 45 million bushels of wheat which congress ordered turned over to the Red Cross for unemployed relief. It also has title to the 25 million bushels of wheat traded two years ago for Brazilian coffee. At one time the corporation owned or controlled one-third of an entire year's wheat production for the United States, and had nearly 30 million bushels of it stored in Canadian grain elevators.

MRS. JESSEL LEAVES RENO FOR MEXICO TO SPEED HER DIVORCE

Reno, Nev., Sept. 13.—(AP)—Whereabouts of Mrs. George Jessel, wife of the musical comedy star, was unknown today, but the guess of her attorney, L. D. Summerfield, was that she had gone to Mexico in an attempt to speed divorce proceedings. Accompanied by her father, Mrs. Jessel unexpectedly packed her belongings and left Reno yesterday. She had established divorce residence here Aug. 27 and would have been eligible to file suit on Oct. 10.

A. A. Blackmer, owner of a dude ranch in the Washoe valley, said a man named Ricardi called on Mrs. Jessel and that she seemed greatly agitated and made the remark "I guess it's the best thing to do." Then she and her father packed their things and left in the car with Ricardi.

Summerfield said he believed the man referred to as Ricardi was Vincent Ricardi, an attorney who has been barred from practice in California and Nevada. Ricardi has announced that he is going to obtain a Mexican divorce for Norma Talmadge, who has been linked in a romance with Jessel.

Mr. and Mrs. Raskob Jr. Become Parents of Boy

Dayton, O., Sept. 13.—(AP)—A boy was born to Mr. and Mrs. John J. Raskob Jr. at Miami Valley hospital here at noon today. The boy is a grandson of John J. Raskob, New York financier and former chairman of the Democratic national committee. Condition of the mother and baby was reported as "good."

"I KNEW HER before she was married. She used to be so dainty—that's why it shocked me to see her putting on underthings that weren't quite fresh. Perspiration odor clings—it's so easy to offend"

SO MANY married women tend to neglect daintiness in this way. Such neglect can kill romance. Everybody perspires—underthings are constantly absorbing perspiration. Others get that penetrating hint before you do. Daintiness demands a daily change.

It is so easy to wear fresh lingerie every day! Lux is made to remove perspiration acids and odors completely, yet it keeps colors and fabrics like new. And it takes only 4 minutes or less.

Avoid Offending

1 Wash this 4-minute way: One tablespoon of Lux does 1 day's undies . . . stockings, too! Use lukewarm water—Lux dissolves instantly in it. Squeeze suds through fabric, rinse twice.

2 Wash after each wearing, for perspiration acids left in silk fade colors and rot threads. Lux removes perspiration completely—leaves colors like new.

Have you tried Lux for dishes? Beauty experts advise it to keep your hands lovely. Costs only 1¢ a day.

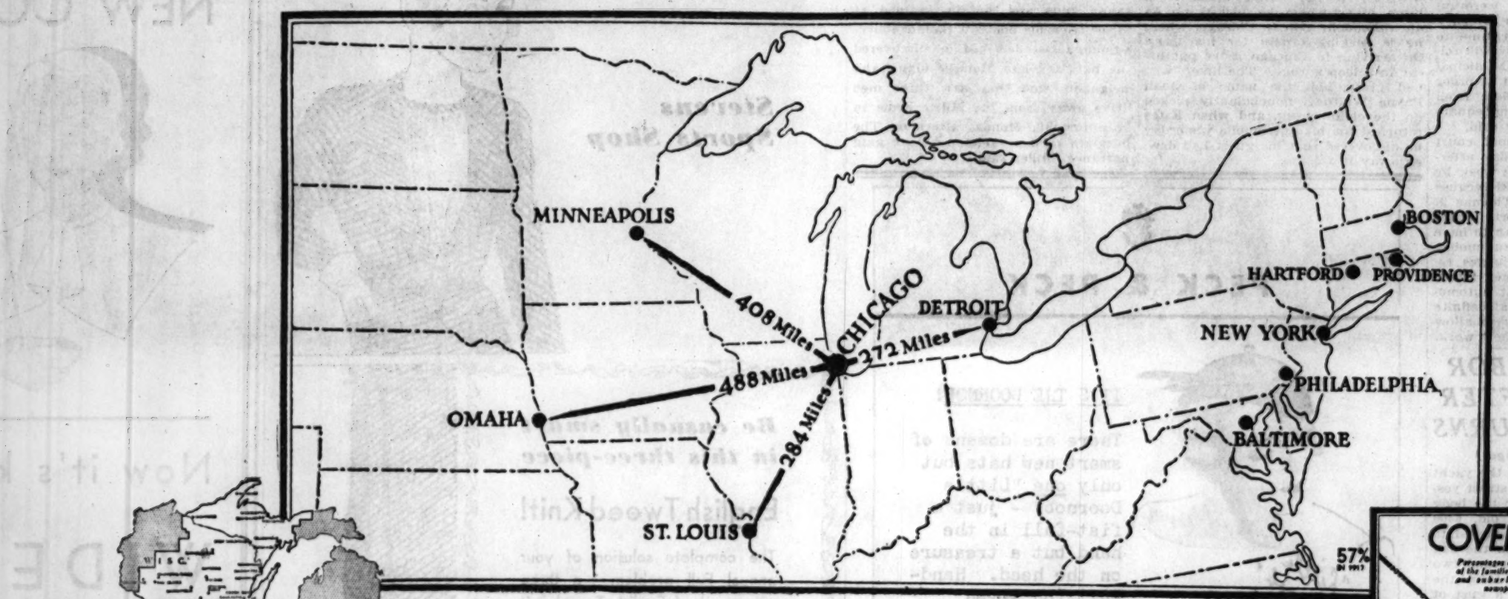
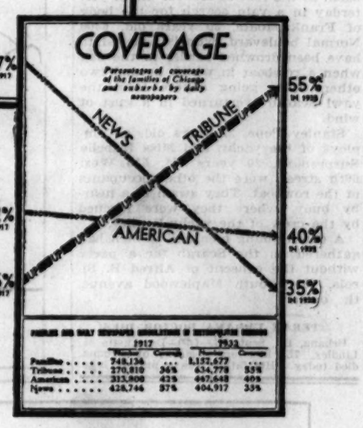
Why the Chicago Tribune is the foremost financial advertising medium of Chicago and the Middle West



In an investigation made among 309 bank presidents living in the 144 cities shown on this map of "Tribune Town," 264, or 85%, of them stated they were regular readers of the Chicago Tribune.



Above is shown the circulation coverage of three Chicago daily newspapers in Chicago and suburbs in 1917 and in 1932. Today the Tribune reaches 55% of the families in Chicago and suburbs—36% MORE than any other Chicago newspaper. (Circulations are averages for six months' periods ended March 31 and for city and suburbs only.)

The Tribune is the favorite newspaper of Chicago, the suburbs and the rich Middle West. Its total circulation is more than 770,000. In Chicago and suburbs the Daily Tribune is read by 600,000 families —200,000 more than read any other Chicago daily newspaper. In every income group in Chicago, from highest to lowest, the Tribune has greater coverage than any other Chicago daily newspaper.

Bankers, brokers, security dealers, men and women in this territory with money to invest—no matter where they live—prefer the Tribune for complete, timely financial news.

Outside of Chicago in this territory, which absorbs so large a volume of securities every year, people read the Tribune for its comprehensive coverage of national and international news. They read it for its big-city newspaper features. And they read it for the excellence of its financial pages.

The Tribune's financial pages are edited—and have been for many years—to serve the interests of that large portion of Chicago's population which is primarily interested in finance. Its staff of financial writers, in Chicago and New York, is composed of seasoned financial reporters and editors. Its stock, bond, and commodity tables are complete.

The Tribune's extensive circulation throughout the Middle West comes naturally. It is the most interesting Chicago newspaper, and there is no other metropolitan newspaper to divide the field.

The map shows how Boston, old in culture and prestige, encroaches upon New York from the north, and how Philadelphia competes with it on the south and west.

Chicago stands alone. It has no rivals. It is approached by no city of the first class. St. Louis is 284 miles away. Detroit is 272 miles to the east. North and west are Minneapolis and Omaha—408 and 488 miles distant.

A recent investigation made among 309 bank presidents in the 144 cities shown on the map at the left emphasizes the Tribune's unique position. 264 of them, or 85%, said they were regular readers of the Chicago Daily Tribune. In another investigation of Tribune circulation outside Chicago, 92% of the presidents, vice presidents, and other executives of a representative group of manufacturing concerns stated they were regular Tribune readers.

In Chicago and throughout the territory shown in the map at the left, generally known as "Tribune Town," Tribune coverage is such that it may safely be said that this newspaper reaches by far the great majority of bankers, brokers, security dealers, business men, and investors who would be interested in the financial advertiser's message.

That's why for years the Tribune has carried more financial advertising lineage than any other Chicago newspaper. During the first eight months of this year the Tribune printed 135,751 more lines of financial advertising than any other Chicago newspaper. Out of forty individual stock and bond issues appearing so far this year in Chicago newspapers, the Tribune carried 29, or 22 more than any other Chicago newspaper printed.

The one newspaper which gives financial advertisers the coverage they need to do an adequate job at low cost in this great security market is the Chicago Tribune.

300,000 LETTERS

For eighteen years the people of the Chicago territory have recognized the Tribune Investors' Guide as a reliable source of unbiased investment information. In July the Investors' Guide received its 300,000th letter. The sole function of this department is to protect the investor. In doing so, it also protects the legitimate investment house by making it difficult for any other kind to distribute their spurious wares.

Benson Adds to His List of Clever Books

Sense of Fun Will Charm Readers Again.

BY FANNY BUTCHER.

"Secret Lives," by E. F. Benson. [Doubleday-Doran.] Published today.

I LOOKED up E. F. Benson in the English "Who's Who" to find the publication date of "Dodo," one of the gayest, most delightful fritterlies in the English language. To my great surprise it was in 1893 when his first book was published. Even I, with my creaking joints and my bespectacled eyes, wasn't reading in 1893, and yet "Dodo" is one of my most delightful literary memories.

E. F. BENSON.

Which shows, it is plain, that "Dodo" lived well beyond the three score days and ten of the usual novel (for I read it years later), that it lived for YEARS, not days. And so far as that goes, "Dodo" is still a good deal quicker than most novels of last year. There are, one must admit, infinitely more dead than quick in the fiction population.

If "Dodo" was Mr. Benson's first delight, it certainly was not his last . . . "Queen Lucia" was another which is still one of my favorite prescriptions for blues. There were 57 books to Mr. Benson's credit in 1930 in "Who's Who," and of those 57 every one which I have read has been a joy in either a superlative or a comparative degree. Of them, "Our Family Affairs"—the history of the famous family to which the author belongs—was one of the most charming and the most brilliant records of a period which I have ever read.

Gentle, charming, but none the less scalpel-like spoofing is Mr. Benson's special genius, and he does it with the manner of a gentleman of the old school offering a lady an especially luxuriant rhododendron which he has just plucked for her from his most prized shrub. There is a certain implied intimacy in his writing which is delightful, as if he were sharing with his reader the secret that he and the reader have a sense of humor akin one to the other, and that, to most of us, is the most flattering assumption that any writer can make.

"Secret Lives" will not disappoint those sharers of his secret sense of fun (always so decorously clothed in charming literary manners). It, like his other pleasant whimsies, is about neither drama nor tragedy, and characters do not become heroic or shuffle off their armor of grandeur before the reader's eyes. It is pure gayety.

The secret lives are those lived in Durham square, a proper and sedate spot in London which at one time was neither proper nor sedate but which was made so by the reverend sir (retired) who had business acumen enough to buy up all of the leaseholds and then remodel them nearer his heart's desire and to the desire of the renting public. His daughter, the social doyen of the square, fancied herself literary, since she was about, or about to be about, the business of writing a biography of her father.

But real literature moves in in the form of the mysterious author of best sellers and the mysterious conductor of a gossip column and the not at all mysterious publisher who made a fortune for himself and Rudolph da Vinci, the author of "nauseating sentimentality . . . . mawkish trash . . ." and whose latest book was "a valet's view . . . lispings of a lady's maid . . . titterings of a typist . . ." The secret of the identity of Rudolph da Vinci is kept from the inhabitants of the square until the last chapter, but Mr. Benson open heartedly lets his reader into the secret almost in the first. There are countless gay mixups and nothing of any importance whatever happens charmingly.

The speed with which Rudolph da Vinci turns out best sellers with the aid of a raucous gramaphone) is not exaggerated. It is possible for a writer to keep himself writing at top speed, as is evidenced by Mr. Benson himself and his 57 books and two plays recorded by 1930—and all of the fifty-seven varieties something to be proud of! And only last month there was published in New York a superb life of Charlotte Bronte from his pen.

It was only my un-American shyness which kept me from watching that pen at work last summer, or at least catching a glimpse of it idle. We were motoring through the south of England (I was with Clara Laughlin, author of the "So You're Going . ." series of travel books) and we had luncheon in Rye in an Elizabethan house where the food was old English style and as difficult of assimilation as the alphabet.

To make ourselves forget the overlay of paste that had been our ration through the picturesque downs we made a pilgrimage to Henry James' house. I was getting all worked up about one of our greatest novelists and the utter peace and calm of the place where his work was done when Miss Laughlin said, "You know, E. F. Benson now lives in that house. Why don't you go up and use that handsome knocker? I'm sure Mr. Benson would be happy to know that the literary editor of THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE is one of his admirers." And just like a little girl who is too shy to take a piece of cake when it is offered her, I stood there and looked at the house, now doubly interesting . . . and then just walked away. Next time I'm going to give the knocker a resounding bang!

New Lincoln Bronze Will Be Dedicated in Fort Wayne Friday

A special train will leave Chicago Friday morning for Fort Wayne, Ind., where the bronze, "Abraham Lincoln, the Hoosier Youth," will be dedicated in the afternoon. The monument, created by Paul Manship, sculptor of New York and Paris, and erected by the Lincoln National Life foundation, shows Lincoln as a youth of 21.

Thousands of Lincoln students from all parts of the United States are expected to attend the ceremony, at which Secretary of Agriculture Arthur M. Hyde will make the principal address. Other speakers will be United States Senator James E. Watson, Gov. Leslie of Indiana, Ida M. Tarbell, Lincoln biographer, Daniel C. Beard, National Boy Scout commissioner, George Ade, author, and Dr. E. C. Elliott, president of Purdue university. Music will be furnished by Mme. Cyrena Van Gordon, formerly of Chicago Civic Opera company, and Thuvin's band of Chicago.

Good Quality, Right Prices Win Shoppers

Furs Are Appropriate for Many Costumes.

BY RHEA SEEGER.

PROFESSIONAL calamity howlers who have been engaged in a campaign to frighten female spenders will do even less damage in the future than the small amount they have done in the past because of the real values in honest to goodness new clothes ready for prompt and knowing selection. Prices are lower and clothes are better than they were last year, when some of us mistakenly grabbed bargains at unheard prices only to reap a disillusioning harvest of sleazy materials, dull designs, and sloppy seams and workmanship.

Having learned the little lesson, we now buy shrewdly and knowingly . . . we buy costumes that can be used again and again, transformed with costume accessories each time we wear it . . . and, are we proud of ourselves after our painful educational experience?

For instance, furs, fur scarfs, skins, and trimming . . . never have pelts been cheaper or more fashionable. Some of the most distinctive costumes or ensembles are contrived with a dress and swanky fur extras. One dull black dress goes dramatic with a severely simple one piece frock . . . two dashing, sleek, black cavalier cuffs with silver disks button over the lower portion of your arm below the elbow. These are of luxurious black broadtail that looks like beautiful moire satin and match the very deep snug fitting black broadtail cape, a cape that is tailored to fit every curve of your shoulders.

Remove these black furred accessories and try thick crinkled white velvet for another transformation. A swathed turban, a round short cape collar that ties demurely on the left shoulder, and wide white three tiered cuffs will make a second knockout costume with the same dress as a basis. Gray Persian lamb could be used effectively in place of the broadtail and the new dove gray shaded velvet could pinch hit for the white crinkled stuff.

If you are a new enthusiast for all shades of gray you will mortgage the farm for a gray outfit that is a honey . . . a slim slender dress of dark dusky gray, the sleeves are long, of pearly gray, the sleeves are long, trimmed with gleaming gray silver buttons.

The dress is positively good enough to eat, but the separate jacket will make you swoon with joy and unbelief. This hip length jacket is of dark gray squirrel, with full, bulky sleeves that reach just below the elbow. The jacket is held around your waistline with a belt made of the same fabric as the dress. Think of the costumes that a clever quick change gal could manage with these two gems . . . wear the squirrel jacket with a red or green or black dress . . . wear the subtle made gray dress under almost any coat you have with breathtaking results.

Another get together that will stop traffic is a flawlessly tailored one piece black wool dress with long old-fashioned bell sleeves . . . these sleeves have graduated rows of black Persian lamb as the sole decoration of the dress. A shimmering silver mesh belt is the only contrast.

The furred cape is what the clothes conscious public will gasp over . . . it is long and swings merrily around the waist line in a most intriguing fashion. You can button it in front or back, and the rows of flat, satiny black Persian lamb repeat the banded effect of the sleeves of the dress. This is another cape that could swank it over the shoulders of any other black or colored dress in a fall or winter wardrobe with all sorts of chic and even furred grandeur.

Astrakhan Trims Grege Wool Suit from Lucile Paray

BY BETTINA BEDWELL.

PARIS.—[Special.]—The platform of fall fashions from Paris has planks that are put in to please every feminine viewpoint. Among the important planks is that of the fur trimmed suit. In certain climates this type of ensemble is preferable to the coat and dress, and Paris itself has such a clime. The fur garnished suit and the suit with a separate fur are this moment being worn here.

Women who go in for the last word in style are more likely to wear the suit with fur attached, as it is more exclusive. These fashionables favor a suit that is light in color, and usually they chose one in soft gray, grege, or beige. Suits in these colors, worn in Paris, are almost invariably trimmed with dark, short haired fur or with matching fox. Astrakhan is the favorite short haired fur, and the dressmakers have produced some tricky effects in placing it on the fall suit.

The Lucile Paray tailleur shown in our sketch today, is astrakhan trimmed, and the fur is put on in an unusual way, which is what makes it chic for autumn, 1932. The suit is made of grege [between gray and beige] smooth wool, and its jacket has raglan sleeves to give a feminine, rounded shoulder line, a line that replaces the military line of last year's shoulders.

Daily Exercise Will Take Inch Off the Ankles

BY ANTOINETTE DONNELLY.

Eleven inches from the floor is the smart fall fashion ruling for daytime dresses. Now, we thought when skirts were knee-high that if the day would come when they were eleven inches from the floor our leg trimming and ankle shaping days would be over and all our troubles along with them.

But, instead of making life easier for ankles, the lengthened skirt line focusses attention directly on the stoutish pair and life isn't nearly so pleasant as promised with the change. Too, should a wind blow an observing eye is more tickled with a shapely leg exposure than it was in the days of all revealment.

Now, trimming down ankles is not one of the easiest performances known. It takes time—and quite a stretch of it, with a lot of patience thrown in. It's harder to get a half inch off the ankle than it is to get four off the abdomen. Though a general body reduction will whittle down flesh on all other parts, the best it will do for ankles is but a fraction of an inch, as a rule. So, exercise or massage simply has to be focussed on the legs.

Just to give an idea of what a neat leg and ankle should measure we might take a girl or woman of five feet five, whose weight should be around 135. Thirteen and a half inches would be her calf girth and 8½ her ankle. This is a generous allowance, but not too generous.

Dancing is about as good an exercise as you can recommend for reshaping leg muscles. But you must do a lot of steps daily. This you can do with the aid of your radio music. Tap dancing steps are particularly good. The stretching work in connection with ballet, athletic and other dance forms is also good. And you can do leg stretching work countless numbers of times in your day by simply rising up and down on your toes and stretching with each rise.

I have some other good exercise forms for the legs which you may have if you will send a stamped, fully addressed envelope.

Attendants for Bride

THE CAST.

Betty	Dorothy Wilson
Michael	Richard Cromwell

By Mae Tinee.

Good morning!

Older people often have the idea that they possess a corner on all life's problems!

Youth, they contend, is a happy, carefree period. Young folks don't "feel things" the way they do.

Wrong, all wrong! Boys and girls, heedless though they seem, see and question and worry, and suffer more keenly than age does, I think, because youth's suffering is new. It is a surprise, a shock, untempered by the buffer of experience.

"Age of Consent"—one regrets the title with its deliberate appeal to the morbid—tells a story of some puzzled and distraught university kids who get a heap of book information on the biological urge that helps them not at all when the real thing attacks them.

The cast is principally peopled by youngsters, with John Halliday, Aileen Pringle, and Reginald Barlow as the older background. Though some of the time they act pretty young for college students, you will be much impressed by the work of all the youthful players. Dorothy Wilson has a refreshing style and is reminiscent of Norma Shearer. Arline Judge has a world of snap and Richard Cromwell and Eric Linden are clever and lovable in their respective rôles.

The story, none too original through its first reels, packs a good wallop toward the end. Here there is real thought in the dialogue—especially the words which fall from the lips of pretty Arline.

There were many in the audience yesterday who, with no cause at all, whispered and nudged and laughed and made themselves generally obnoxious. The type of folk who frequent the "Men Only" and "Women Only" atrocities. Despite its title "The Age of Consent" is NOT that sort of picture.

"NIGHT CLUB LADY."
Produced by Columbia.
Directed by Irving Cummings.
Presented at the State-Lake theater.
THE CAST.

Everett	Gerald Fielding
Thatcher Colt	Adolphe Menjou
Lola Carewe	Mayo Methot
Tony	Skeets Gallagher
Mike	Nat Pendleton
Vincent Rowland	Albert Conti

Andre	George Humbert
Dr. Baldwin	Niles Welch
Dr. Lengle	William Von Brincken
Mura	Tsru Shimada

QUALITY: Just fair.

ACTING: Passable. The players are able and conscientious, but seemed hampered by rôles not tailored for them. Especially uncomfortable, I thought, was Adolph Menjou as an ace detective. The man always shines—but in this part it was with a forced, synthetic glow. Mayo Methot [don't know her] is harshly effective as the "lady."

DIRECTION: So so.

DIALOGUE: Explosive and melodramatic.

SOUND, PHOTOGRAPHY, SETS: Oke.

AUDIENCE APPEAL: Has a modicum of suspense.

Society Back Home for a Busy Season

Vacationers Returning on Every Train.

BY JUDITH CASS.

ALMOST every train from north, east, and west these days is bringing home returning vacationers, all tanned and rested and anxious to get busy at studies, business, good times, charity work, or whatever it is that is to engross each one this winter.

Autumn in the country is almost the loveliest time of the year, but families with children of school age find it impossible to remain away from home much after Labor day, and so most of the resorts which have been so gay and colorful for the last two and a half months are beginning to be deserted, and before long there won't be a handful of people left at any of them.

The Chicago club at Charlevoix in Michigan is closing its fifty-third season on Sunday, but already many of the cottagers have left, although a few plan to remain on until cold weather drives them southward. Some of those who have left there and are back at home are the junior John Colemans and their children, Betto and John III.; Mr. and Mrs. Cyrus H. Adams and Mary and Cyrus III.; the Augustus A. Carpenters, Miss Margaret Conover, the Joseph H. Kings, Mrs. Charles I. Pierce and her son, Charles; Mr. and Mrs. Francis Stanley Rickcords, Mrs. Edward B. Butler and her sister, Mrs. Arthur T. Evans; the Frederick H. Scotts, the Solomon A. Smiths, the John Stuarts, Dr. and Mrs. Eugene S. Talbot and their children, and the John P. Wilsons.

Makes Trip in Plane.

Frederick H. Scott Jr. flew directly from the steamer which brought him home from Paris, where he spent the summer, to Charlevoix to spend the Labor day week-end with his parents before they came to Chicago.

The Bachelors won the annual Labor day baseball game between the Bachelors and Benedicts this year, John Coleman Jr. scoring four home runs in the game which lasted eleven innings, and John III. scoring the same number. The final score was ten to nine.

John P. Wilson won the annual regatta for six meter sailboats, having won seven firsts and two seconds in the ten races in the regatta. Next season there are to be five new six meter boats added to the fleet which already is the largest inland fresh water fleet in the country, so our correspondent assures us. Another projected development for next year is the construction of additional en tout cas tennis courts at the club.

The Oscar W. Johnsons, who went to Charlevoix this summer in their cruiser, are coming home by motor and are expected this evening. Mrs.

A SENSATION EVEN BEFORE PUBLICATION!

INHERITANCE

by PHYLLIS BENTLEY

Hard-headed book dealers were so enthused over advance copies of this fine novel that they gave it a vogue a month before its general publication! . . . Startling, tensely dramatic, broad in scope, rich in variety of action, new in theme—the concensus of opinion was that Miss Bentley has produced a book which fulfilled every hope of lovers of fine literature . . . INHERITANCE covers six generations and one hundred years in the life of a Yorkshire woolen family; its fueds and romances and crimes comprising a unique human chronicle.

The Murder of Caroline Bundy

By ALICE CAMPBELL.

SYNOPSIS.

Neil Starkey, American biographer, is engaged by Caroline Bundy to compile the life and letters of her late father, a famous English biologist. Neil is mystified by the peculiarities of Miss Bundy, who is broken in health and in great mental distress. She has hired a photographer named Tilbury as bailiff and he and his wife, a common, illiterate couple, occupy the lodge. Neil meets Natasha Andreyev, beautiful, but fiery tempered, who is apparently Miss Bundy's secretary.

INSTALLMENT III.

A GUARDED SECRET.

Before long, however, Neil was brought down to practical matters.

"If you wish to move here tomorrow morning," said Miss Bundy briskly, "you'll find your room ready and, I hope, comfortable. That's settled, isn't it? And now, if you've finished your tea, suppose I show you where you are to work?"

Out of the corner of his eye he saw the girl, Natasha, stiffen and stare at him in unfriendly fashion. Annoyed over his coming to stay, no doubt, though he could not conceive why.

At the back of the house was a little cloakroom lobby, out of which led several exits. The first on the left, a baize covered door, his guide swung back to disclose a second door just beyond. She took a bunch of keys from her coat pocket, inserted the largest in the lock, and then did an odd thing. She peered suspiciously in every direction to make sure of not being overheard, switched on an interior light and, pausing on the threshold between the double doors, addressed him in a guarded whisper.

"Mr. Starkey, after today I am going to entrust these keys to your care, and I particularly want you to return them to me personally each evening when you leave off. No one, you see, is allowed in this study without my permission. I don't want any one—any one, mind you—prowling about amongst my father's papers, for which reason, if you have occasion to leave the room during working hours even for a few minutes, can I depend on you to lock this door and take the keys with you?"

"Mr. Starkey—after today I am going to entrust these keys to your care."

He promised, half amused by her absurd cautiousness and half inclined to regard her waxing peculiarities with distrust. His former conclusions concerning her had now gone by the board, and he had begun to wonder if she were not a little unbalanced. Did that girl think so, too, and was that why she had given the two of them that penetrating look?

A strong, green-shaded lamp shone down on a mahogany table and a Chippendale arm chair, but beyond its circle of radiance spread semi-dusk. Brown velour curtains hung from the windows, one of which gave on the back garden, the other on a rose arbor. Two walls were occupied by glazed bookshelves reaching to the ceiling, a third was broken by a fireplace, while every intervening space was filled by filing cabinets and cases containing specimens.

Over the mantel was a full length portrait of the great man himself—bullnecked, aggressive, with fierce hazel eyes, and whiskers worn in the fashion of the '80s. So lifelike, so compelling was it that Neil had the unpleasant sensation of being spied on by the late owner in person—more, that Bundy was still master here, brooking no interference, dictating commands as he had done for three-quarters of a century.

"Painted by Sir Aubrey Freyer," murmured the daughter in an awed undertone, "and presented to us by my father's old friends at Balliol. An excellent likeness."

It crossed his mind that she shared his feeling and shrank a little from those accusing eyes. He glanced at her with a flash of insight.

"You were in close touch with his research, weren't you?" he asked tentatively. "Did you yourself have a scientific education?"

She blinked at him, surprised and, he thought, flattered.

"I? O, no! I was not considered clever enough for that. I was his secretary, though, from my nineteenth birthday. He trained me. I think I may claim to have been at least methodical and in small ways helpful to him. If ever I achieve renown on my own account," she added hesitatingly, "it will still be only because I have carried to their conclusion theories he initiated. Some slight praise might be due me, but he would be the last to grudge me that."

Once again that fanatical gleam in her eyes! It told of a secret jealously guarded, yet so proud a possession that she must needs drop hints of it now and again. Was she indeed struggling forward with some line of work begun by Bundy? But no, such a notion was manifestly absurd.

"You will see," she said, "that each of these bookcases and cabinets has its separate key. Here they all are"—she dangled the bunch before him—"and let me repeat, I rely on you to leave everything locked up at the end of the day. The room is at your disposal at any time except from six o'clock onward, but after that I shall want it for myself. That's quite understood, I hope?"

It was six o'clock now, as it happened. The words were hardly out of her mouth when the bronze clock on the mantel struck the hour. Miss Bundy jumped, grew fidgety, and seemed to be listening for something. He realized she was anxious to get rid of him.

"I must not trespass on you any longer," he declared, moving towards the door and standing aside for her to go first. "As a matter of fact I promised to go on from here to some friends of yours in the village—Giles Gisborne, you know, and his sister, whom I met in my own country last year. You remember I spoke of them."

She stopped stock still. Her manner froze.

"Giles Gisborne! Indeed! No, I was not aware that you knew him. It's certainly the first I've heard of it."

She had forgotten, that was all. He was sure he had mentioned the vicar, since it was that person who in the beginning had put him on to the biography.

A bell pealed. His companion gave a violent start. Bundling him out, she dismissed him with an abrupt "Tomorrow, then. If you will pardon me, I have an important appointment," and left him in the hall, though he realized she had retreated only a few paces and was hovering in the background.

At this juncture a voice, coldly disdainful, spoke to him from behind and, turning, he found the Russian girl holding out the gloves he must have deposited in the drawing room. Hardly had he thanked her when his attention was drawn to Crabbe, just delivering a measured announcement to his mistress.

"Mr. and Mrs. Tilbury, Miss. Shall I ask them to wait or am I to show them directly into the study?"

The old lady's reply came with stiff dignity.

"I am quite ready for them, Crabbe, and mind"—in a low whisper—"no interruptions whatever. Not on any account are we to be disturbed till I ring."

A business conference, it seemed, but why did the girl's narrow eyes, inveluntarily trapped by his, show again that mixture of angry scorn and humiliation? Why, for that matter, did their owner bolt from him without a word of leave taking, as though she resented his knowledge of her annoyance?

A second later he guessed the reason, or at least a portion of it.

Brushing past the two visitors, now divesting themselves of their wraps, he glanced at them with slight euriosity, confident of their being either county grandees or distinguished members of the scholastic calling, an impression derived from Miss Bundy's behavior. Imagine his astonishment when he beheld a nondescript couple whose scrubbed faces and wetly brushed hair he at once recognized.

In short, Mr. and Mrs. Tilbury were none other than the pair of incredibly vulgar Cockneys he had seen at the lodge!

Neil was utterly bowled over by the unexpected appearance of the two vapid little guttersnipes so incongruous in their surroundings, so exactly like lower class tradespeople accidentally strayed into the wrong entrance. Ill at ease yet complacent, the man reeking of foul hair oil, the woman perkily bright eyed, her greasy braids coiled round her ears—why, beside them Crabbe, the butler, had the air of a distinguished diplomat!

Of course there was nothing peculiar in their having an appointment with Miss Bundy. Dozens of reasons could account for that. No, it was purely the old lady's manner which made the thing seem queer, her excited anticipation and badly hidden defiance, as though she scented criticism and repelled it, and then, too, there was the girl's attitude, plainly revealing passionate disavowal of all responsibility. Something decidedly odd was going on at Stoke Paulton, something which perhaps went far to explain the changes he had noticed and felt.

He hoped he might learn the explanation of this from the Gisbornes, but there again, unless he was imagining things, he did not believe the vicar and his sister were any longer on good terms with his future hostess. It came over him that he landed with both feet in a hotbed of rural intrigue.

His rather shabby two seater turned his reflections into another channel. Why had the young woman addressed as Natasha fired that brusque question about the proprietorship of the car? The obvious answer was that she had recognized it as one familiar to her, the property of a friend, no doubt. Well, quite likely it had belonged to some one she knew, for as it happened he had purchased it only yesterday in Bath, second hand, meaning to use it while he was in England and then get rid of it.

Studio Starts Work on Film by Clara Bow

BY GEORGE SHAFFER.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Hollywood, Cal., Sept. 13.—It was like the old times of 1926 of the Paramount lot when Clara Bow and Gilbert Roland got together today at Fox's for the start of Clara's comeback film, "Call Her Savage."

It is a more sedate Clara, who is starting her first film work in two years, with Director John Francis Dillon officiating.

In the film Roland played Moonglow, half breed lover who never presses his wooing until the heroine is widowed from her New York husband, and returns west to find that she, too, is a half breed. So, in the film, Roland gets Clara for his own after all the years.

Of course, in real life, her husband, Rex Bell, is very much the one and only one in Clara's life. Rex was there when Clara went to the studio last week for the last details prior to the important relaunching of her screen career, but he wasn't on the set today, for he and another cowboy are moving horses northward from Bakersfield, Cal., to a rodeo.

If Clara's comeback vehicle proves a hit, as Fox's hopes and expects, the studio holds an option for other Bow starring pictures, and I guess Clara will be glad enough to take them, as each successive film will be worth more than $100,000 to her.

Clara is down to 117¼ pounds and red headed again. Roland looks pert and peppy, too, this being his best part since the Norma Talmadge days. Roland took off 17 pounds in training for the part opposite Clara and now weighs 158.

That 900 pound actor, Duke of Rosedale, seems to hold much interest for Will Rogers. The cowboy humorist was eyeing the prize hog who plays a main rôle in Fox's "State Fair" on the lot, and an acquaintance, marveling at how one pig could be induced to eat enough to bring him to the Duke's proportions, asked Will: "What do you know about tankage?" "What do I know?" Rogers replied, "I know all about it: I played every town on the circuit."

Looks 10 Years Younger Brushes Away Gray Hair

Now you can really look years younger. Simply brush away those unsightly streaks or patches of gray. It is so easy to do—and at home—with Brownatone. Over 30 years of success recommend this proved method. With an ordinary small brush you just tint your hair back to its natural shade—whether blonde, brown or black. Guaranteed harmless. Active coloring agent is purely vegetable. Does not coat the surface. Actually penetrates the hair. Defies detection. No tell-tale, flat "dyed" look. Cannot affect waving of hair.

No need to guess. First cut a lock of hair from your head and apply a little of this famous tint. If Brownatone does not give your gray, streaked, dull, or faded hair its natural color, youth and sheen, your money back. Only 50c.

Society Back Home for a Busy Season

Adele Harris Whiting and her children will arrive tomorrow; the Harold C. Smith family returned to Lake Forest yesterday.

Mrs. Robert Stuart and the William B. McIlvaines are among those prolonging their stays and the dates for their return are indefinite. The Howard Linns, who went up to Charlevoix for a short visit about a week ago, are expected home any day.

Paul McBrides Return Home.

Mr. and Mrs. W. Paul McBride have returned from a trip abroad and with their baby daughter, who was with Mrs. McBride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. C. Frederick Childs, during their absence, are back in their own house on Sheridan road in Lake Forest. The Childs' other little granddaughter still is with them, for her parents, the William A. P. Pullmans, do not arrive at home from a trip to California for another week.

Mr. and Mrs. James C. Hutchins and their younger daughter, Margaret, will be at home from Camden, Me., where they have spent the summer with Mrs. Hutchins' mother, Mrs. Chauncey Keep, the end of this month. Barbara and Chauncey Hutchins both attend eastern schools so they will not come home with their parents.

Mrs. Keep's other daughter, Mrs. Robert A. Gardner, and Mr. Gardner and their children, Mary, Robert and Henry, will return to Lake Forest on Sunday from Camden. Mrs. Keep usually does not return from Maine until late in October.

The Sterling Mortons are on their way to Paris to see their daughter, Miss Suzette Morton, who went over in midsummer for some study in French before entering the Sorbonne this fall. Mr. and Mrs. Morton are expected to return about Nov. 1. They put their yacht, the Freedom, in dry dock before they left, and as far as is known now they do not plan to take it out this winter to go to Florida waters.

Mr. and Mrs. Clark J. Lawrence of Hubbard Woods have returned from having spent the summer at Upper St. Regis lake in the Adirondacks.

Mrs. John Gary Sails for Home.

Mrs. John W. Gary of Glencoe, who has been in Scotland with the James Simpsons, sailed for New York last Saturday and as soon as she arrives in Chicago there will be a meeting of the committee in charge of the St. Luke's fashion show to be held on Oct. 25. Mrs. Gary is general chairman of the committee.

Mrs. Joseph B. Long of 1540 Lake Shore drive is back at home after a six weeks' motor trip in the east, but she will be leaving again Nov. 1 for New York, where she has taken an apartment at the Hotel Pierre for the winter. She plans to take her customary winter trip to Florida in February.

President and Mrs. Robert M. Hutchins of the University of Chicago will arrive in town this morning from a trip abroad, part of which was spent leisurely navigating the canals of Holland.

Maj. and Mrs. A. Wallace Owen and their son, Wallace, are arriving tomorrow from Geneva, N. Y., to spend the winter here in an apartment they have taken at 6 Scott street, in the same building in which Mrs. Owen's sister, Mrs. William Ernest Walker, has an apartment. Young Wallace is going to the Latin school this year instead of to school in Aiken as he has done for several years.

Mrs. Owen's and Mrs. Walker's other two sisters, Mrs. Robert F. Hall and Miss Annie Rogers of 11 Scott street, are in the east for a short visit. Mr. and Mrs. Hall having motored to New York soon after returning from a motor trip to California to join Miss Rogers, who has been with Mrs. Walker at her country place at Geneva.

Junior Hurleys Arrive Today.

Mr. and Mrs. Edward N. Hurley Jr. and their daughter, Jeannette, are expected to arrive at home today from a European trip which was cut short by the tragic death of Mrs. Hurley Sr. in a recent automobile accident.

The former Helen Hurley and her husband, William A. Ryan, who were injured and who have been in the Westlake hospital in Melrose Park ever since the accident, are leaving the hospital today and going to the senior Mr. Hurley's apartment at 3400 Sheridan road.

Mrs. Stewart Johnson of Winnetka and her daughter, Catita, had to delay their departure for the east a day because 'Tita broke her wrist playing tennis the other day, and so they left yesterday instead of Monday. They are motoring to Farmington, where 'Tita has been entered ever since she was born, practically (although it still will be several years before she goes there), and where her mother was "finished," and then to Red Bank, N. J., for a visit with an old Farmington classmate of Mrs. Johnson's. They expect to be at home by Oct. 1 for 'Tita to return to her studies at the North Shore Country Day school.

Mrs. Lorenzo M. Johnson arrived in Winnetka Monday from California to spend the autumn with her daughter, Mrs. Ayres Boal, and Mr. Boal and their family.

Attend Wedding at Winnipeg.

Mr. and Mrs. Joseph B. Card of Highland Park and their son, Richard, and daughter, Mrs. Sutherland Campbell of Los Angeles, are leaving tonight for Winnipeg, Canada, to attend the marriage on Saturday of the other son of the family, Joseph Phelps Card, and Miss Dorothy Fawcett. The wedding is to take place at 8:30 o'clock in the evening at St. Stephen's Broadway church, after which there will be a reception at the Manitoba club.

Miss Fawcett is the daughter of William Francis Fawcett of Winnipeg. The bridegroom-to-be and his sisters, the Misses Mary and Ruth Card, went to Winnipeg the latter part of last week to attend all the prenuptial festivities, as did George Strickland of Chicago, who is to be Mr. Card's best man. Miss Mary is to be in the bridal party, too. Mr. Card will bring his bride to Chicago soon after Oct. 1 and he has left their place of residence to be selected after her arrival.

Miss Mary Martin of Omaha is visiting the Misses Virginia and Louise Ruffner in Highland Park. Miss Martin's family is moving here and she will be with the Ruffners until her parents arrive and occupy the house on Indian Hill road in Winnetka which they have taken.

Wears Blue Bridal Gown.

Miss Mary Miller defied superstition and tradition by wearing a pale blue satin bridal gown yesterday when she became the bride of Charles N. Proctor instead of the usual white satin. The gown was lovely, made very simply, with a short train and long, full sleeves, and her tulle veil was of the same delicate color.

The veil was bordered with old rose point lace from the wedding gown of her grandmother, Sarah Caroline Mason, when she was married to Henry Giles Miller in the seventies. The same lace was used for the close fitting cap which held the veil in place. The bridal bouquet was of valley lilies, gardenias and forget-me-nots.

The service was read at 4:30 o'clock by the Rev. Ashley Gerhard in the garden of the Winnetka residence of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. William Southworth Miller, in the presence of about fifty relatives and close friends. William W. Miller served his brother-in-law as best man. Mr. Proctor and his bride are motoring to Cambridge where they will reside.

Makes Debut Friday

Miss Mary Louise Morris is to make her debut on Friday of this week at a tea to be given by her parents, Mr. and Mrs. F. Thomas Morris, at their Winnetka residence, after which her uncle and aunt, Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Reebie, will entertain about forty young people at a dinner dance at their residence in the same north shore town. Miss Morris is entering Sarah Lawrence college later this month.

Young People Need Training for Adult Life

BY GLADYS HUNTINGTON BEVANS.

Someone said in a newspaper the other day that in bringing up our boys and girls we should keep in mind the fact that when they grow up they will be husbands and wives and fathers and mothers.

There are many wives who, as they pick up magazines and sox and pajamas wish ruefully that their mother-in-law had trained her son to a certain amount of order and had not picked up after him endlessly. And there are many husbands who wish their mother-in-law had trained her daughter in the rudiments of cooking, as they eat the experiments of their wives. And there are many many young mothers—or prospective mothers — who feel acutely the unpreparedness of their training for this most important function of marriage.

When the boys and girls are in their teens we want them to be happy and sociable and have a good time and not to be too tied down to the more serious affairs and responsibilities of adult life. But we are doing them a disservice if we do not fit them to be prepared for life.

First: Self- control, responsibleness, an ability to stand on their own feet—all those intangible qualities of character that cannot necessarily be trained in a person, but which can be trained out by the wrong upbringing.

Second: Because in these times we cannot be sure of their financial security, a training in a trade or profession is wise, and particularly for the girl, training in the care of children.

Third: A knowledge of the mechanics of living. By that I mean the physical routine of housekeeping. Knowing how to buy food, knowing how to cook, and run a house, knowing the value of money and how best to spend it.

They will not always be young; they have the greater part of their lives ahead of them, after they have left home and are making their own way in the world. So we should bear this in mind and try to make the first twenty years of their lives not only happy and sociable and enjoyable both for them and us, but also a preparation for the important and maturer joys of marriage and parenthood.

"Six lamb chops, please."

"Any good chicken today?"

"I'll have a rump roast — six pounds."

"Make it smoked ham—a small one."

And so it goes—chops, chuck, rump, breast, roasts, steaks and all the rest. It would seem that with such regiments of meats to choose from the enthusiastic kitcheneer would never want for new dishes to gladden the hearts and satisfy the tummies of the most exacting family.

Yet apparently far green fields are the fairest in cookery as in other arts, for today we are hearing more and more about the cooking of unusual animal parts—glands and organs primarily—we hardly knew existed ten years ago. Liver, of course, leads this interesting procession and we may take our choice of obtaining this iron rich food from calf, lamb, pig, or beef animals. Special devices, part sieve and part separator, are now on the market which efficiently separate and discard the fibers from the coarsest of these organs, overcoming one of our former objections to liver.

Kidneys, lamb's and young calves, are comparatively low priced and furnish big helpings of iron and vitamins and lend themselves to a whole army of interesting main course treats. Calf brains is another most intriguing meat possibility. Brains are really a delicacy, but in this country they are so little in demand that in many markets they may be had very cheaply. Creamed, en casserole, broiled and served with butter on toast, in rissoles or fried au gratin they make excellent lunch or dinner dishes.

Sweetbreads found both in the throat and near the heart of the young calf or lamb make an interesting, oddly textured dish. Since they spoil quickly they must not be kept long before using. Sweetbreads are most delicious creamed, broiled or served in croquettes, pastry roll-ups, or patty shells. They also make novel salads bound to start conversation and insure empty plates.

FRIED BRAINS A LA PROVENCALE.

Prepare three sets of brains for cooking by cleaning, skinning and soaking two hours in salt water. Chop into small dice and dry on a cloth. Roll the brain squares in a well beaten egg which has been seasoned with salt and pepper. Then roll in finely grated peppy cheese. Melt from one-third to one-half cup of butter in a frying pan and drop the brains in by teaspoonfuls far enough apart so that they do not touch. Fry until brown then arrange on a hot platter and garnish with parsley and pickle fans.

SWEETBREAD CROQUETTES.

2 pairs sweetbreads
2-3 cup minced ham
¾ cup milk
¼ cup each of flour and butter
½ teaspoon salt
Dash of pepper
Dash of cayenne
1 tablespoon lemon juice

Wash the sweetbreads and plunge them in boiling water, to which one tablespoon of vinegar has been added. Let them simmer gently three-quarters of an hour, drain, cool quickly in cold water and remove the membrane on each. Cut the sweetbreads fine and combine with a very thick white sauce made from the milk, fat and flour. Add the seasoning and lemon juice and spread on a shallow pan to chill. If not stiff enough to mould, work in a few soft bread crumbs. When cold, form the mixture into patties, croquettes or "bones" and dip in fine dry bread crumbs, then in beaten egg and then in crumbs. Arrange in a frying basket and fry in deep fat [380 degrees F.] until golden brown. Serve with tomato or cream sauce.

Pick Evanston Church to Be Procathedral

Bishop Stewart Selects Former Parish.

BY THE REV. JOHN EVANS.

St. Luke's Episcopal church, Evanston, was designated last night as the procathedral of the diocese of Chicago. The announcement was made at a special meeting of the Evanston parish by Bishop George Craig Stewart, who for 26 years prior to his elevation to the prelacy had been its rector and builder. At the meeting, Thomas J. Lyman, senior warden of the parish, announced the reelection of Bishop Stewart as rector.

Bishop Stewart announced the appointment of the Rev. Geral G. Moore, rector of the Church of the Advent, Logan Square, to be the dean of St. Luke's, which will be the fourth cathedral church in the history of the Episcopal diocese. The Cathedral of SS. Peter and Paul, Washington and Peoria streets, before its destruction by fire in 1921, was the first. It was located on what is declared to be the first Episcopal cathedral site in America.

The late Bishop Charles P. Anderson was elected rector of the Church of the Epiphany, Ashland avenue and Adams street, shortly after the destruction of the Cathedral of SS. Peter and Paul and designated that church as his cathedral under a plan similar to the present arrangement between St. Luke's church and Bishop Stewart. Later, Bishop Anderson elevated the historic St. James' church, Wabash avenue and Huron street, to cathedral status. This was dissolved at the instance of Bishop Stewart about a year and a half ago. Bishop Stewart gave economy as the official reason for the dissolution of St. James' cathedral.

Unofficial announcement of the proposal to give a cathedral status to St. Luke's church was made in THE TRIBUNE a month ago in connection with a statement by Gabriel F. Slaughter of his resignation as junior warden of that parish. Mr. Slaughter said his resignation was due to disapproval of some of Bishop Stewart's ideas presented at a vestry meeting when plans for St. Luke's were being considered. In the Diocese of Chicago, official publication of the diocese, Bishop Stewart stated that THE TRIBUNE announcement was "misleading and unauthorized."

The principal change in the proposed agreement between St. Luke's parish and Bishop Stewart since the earlier account of the plan consummated last night was in reference to Bishop Stewart's request for a stipend from St. Luke's and a fund for the payment of honoraria to visiting preachers. Mr. Slaughter stated that Bishop Stewart had sought from St. Luke's vestry the sum of $500 annually for himself and $1,500 annually for a fund to pay visiting preachers. Bishop Stewart's salary from the diocese of Chicago is $10,000 annually.

The announcement made last night, however, provides a three year agreement between the bishop and the parish in which it is provided that Bishop Stewart will receive a stipend of one dollar a year, and that he will relinquish the usual rector's salary claim to the newly appointed dean. It is stated that Dean Moore's salary has been set at $5,000. No provision for the payment of honorariums to visiting preachers has been made in the present agreement.

The naming of St. Luke's church as procathedral does not alter the status of St. Luke's parish. The cathedral status applies only to the church edifice. While technically, the bishop will be the rector of the parish, the agreement provides that the dean will have charge of all parochial activities and will discharge the customary pastoral and administrative responsibilities of the rector except in matters of parish finance. The agreement gives the bishop veto power on all parish financial matters and declares that the diocese of Chicago will assume none of St. Luke's financial obligations, past or future.

Dean Moore will assume his new duties within a month. He has been the rector of the Church of the Advent for 15 years. His connection with St. Luke's cathedral will perpetuate a long association in his family with the Chicago cathedral. Dean Moore's father, the late Canon H. G. Moore, was connected with the old Cathedral of SS. Peter and Paul. He is a graduate of Northwestern university and Western Theological seminary.

Bishop Stewart's acceptance of the rectorship of St. Luke's follows several proffers from the vestry of that parish since his elevation to the episcopacy. Until now, Bishop Stewart has declined. Last May, however, after the sudden resignation of the Rev. Dr. Charles E. McAllister, the vestry again tendered the parish to him, but again he declined.

Urges Women Preachers to Do a Good Job

BY KATHERINE KELLEY.

A motherly woman with gray hair cut in a boyish bob and clothed in a wine-red velvet gown leaned upon the pulpit in the Chicago Evangelistic institute, 1754 Washington boulevard, last night, and confided to a group of sister ministers that the doors of the church are opening to women preachers.

The woman was the Rev. Mary Alice Lyons of Cleveland, president of the Association of Women Preachers of the United States, a minister for the last thirty-four years. Her address officially opened the fourteenth annual assembly of the association composed of many denominations.

"The doors of the church are swinging open to the sisterhood," the Rev. Mrs. Lyons declared. "Womanhood has been suppressed in public. I can even remember when women were not allowed to pray in public, but now prayer is offered almost entirely by women. There is a new era and we are just breaking through. When we do our job thoroughly no one will say, 'Women should keep silent in church.'

"Thousands have been converted by the teachings of women who have brought interpretation of the scriptures."

The old "straight-back chair" religion is passing, the Rev. Mrs. Lyons told her listeners. The young people have outgrown the old gospel of a hundred years ago, she added, just as they have outgrown old fashioned customs in their homes.

"It is the youth who are going to control and govern the church," she declared. "Many fences have been broken down like old rail fences of farms that have gone into decadence and are forgotten. They are realizing that there is one Master for us all.

"It used to be that parents in some denominations kept their children on straight-back chairs all of Sunday and never allowed them to go out in the sunshine. There were no hot meals on a Sunday. But religion is changing. What youth wants now is liberty. There is so much dogma today that we can't see Jesus. We need a working Christ. In preaching we must keep up with the thought and the language of the times."

Today reports of committees and officers will take up the morning session. This afternoon there will be a round table on the problems and prospects of the woman preacher and tonight a speaker from the national headquarters of the W. C. T. U. will discuss "The Pulpit and Prohibition."

Chap Prefers a Southern Girl to Northern One

BY DORIS BLAKE.

Here's something to start a new civil war, maybe?

"Why," asks Newt, "are the southern girls more attractive than northern girls?"

Newt has met 'em up and down the continent. He's a northerner himself—and a bachelor. Willing as Barkis. He's met 'em in many different walks of life. But O, that southern drawl for him!

"What's the matter?" he asks. "Are the northern girls too smart, too artificial? The southern girls have more sympathy, more understanding. They're more womanly. Not so darned aggressive," Newt finds.

"What makes the difference?" Newt wants to know. In fact, he'd like you readers to tell him why southern girls "get" a man as the northern ones can't do. He's spent more time in the north. Only visited the south, to be truthful. And that might be the difference.

Female attractiveness is not a matter of geography, is it? Irish girls, English girls, French girls, Italian, southern and northern American maids all have their special native charms. The girl next door may, to some other fellow, have all the lures of the English, the Irish, and the southern girl thrown in. To you, she remains the girl next door, not because she lives next door, but because you are grown familiar with her style.

A southern boy might find in one of our northern sophisticates all he'd ever hoped to meet in a woman.

All northern girls are no more "too smart or artificial" than all southern girls are blessed with the womanly graces for which so many of them are noted.

A New Gerber Product

Baby's Cereal

Long-cooked in whole milk
Ready-to-Serve

THIS newest Gerber Product in addition to an abundance of natural grain nutrients, provides an extra advantage found in no other ready-to-serve cereal. It is long-cooked in whole fresh milk which increases its food value as a starting cereal for baby, and gives it a delightful flavor appealing to older children and adults as well.

In Gerber's Strained Cereal finely ground whole wheat and hulled oats, plus extra wheat germ for added vitamin B are cooked in the whole fresh milk—then strained thru monel metal screens. This removes harsh irritative bran particles, after their valuable nutrients have been absorbed—and gives the cereal the smooth, uniform texture most acceptable to baby. Long-cooking, by the Gerber process, in hermetically sealed cans pasteurizes the whole milk and assures perfect purity and keeping quality. The cereal is unseasoned. No further cooking is required. Simply season as directed and warm to feeding temperature.

ASK YOUR DOCTOR about Gerber's Strained Cereal. For bottle feedings it may readily be diluted with milk or water. The large size 10¾ oz. can is 15¢ at grocers and druggists.

JAPS ACCUSE U. S. OF INCREASING MANILA AIR FORCE

Charge Provocation and Talk of War.

TOKIO, Sept. 13.—(AP)—It has been three days since United States Ambassador Grew asked Foreign Minister Uchida to exonerate the National City bank of New York from charges of espionage growing out of photographs made for an advertising campaign, but so far there has been no official action.

It is increasingly evident that Baron Uchida is in a difficult position because of the seeming impossibility of giving the bank public vindication without seeming to criticize the military quarters, whence the accusations emanated.

"Spy" Campaign Continues.

Meantime, some of the newspapers continue to make much of "American spy" stories. One of them gave some prominence today to a Hongkong dispatch alleging that the American air force in the Philippines has been greatly enlarged.

The Nichi-Nichi, one of the papers which published the charges about the National City bank, carried a headline today reading, "On Sea, Land, and Air America Provokes Japan."

The article cited increase in American aviation force in the Philippines, concentration of the American fleet in the Pacific, and American accusations of Japanese aggression in Manchuria.

"The question whether Japan and America must fight remains undecided," the newspaper said.

At Osaka today a member of a minor patriotic society was arrested on the premises of the National City bank branch after he had assaulted the bank's senior Japanese accountant.

China Fears Disorders.

NANKING, China, Sept. 13.—(AP)—Word from Tokio that the Japanese government will extend recognition to Manchukuo Thursday has given rise to fears of sharp repercussions throughout China if that plan is carried out. Government officials said that although precautions had been taken they feared the populace might get beyond their control.

They said they feared that after recognizing Manchukuo Japan might invade Jehol and the Shanhaikwan area, thereby threatening Tientsin and Peiping.

The foreign office announced that notes invoking the nine power treaty are ready for delivery to the powers concerned when Japanese recognition of Manchukuo is announced.

Another Train Is Wrecked.

HARBIN, Manchuria, Sept. 13.—(AP)—Another outrage by bandits operating along the Chinese Eastern railway occurred last night near here. Nine Japanese soldiers were killed, twelve were seriously injured, a number of passengers were kidnaped, and the countryside reduced to a state of panic. The fate of a number of Europeans on the train could not be determined immediately.

SUCCESSOR NAMED FOR GIRL TEACHER WHO DISAPPEARED

Ottawa, Ill., Sept. 13.—[Special.]—Members of the board of directors of Seipp school, where Miss Colette Haley was teaching when she vanished from her home in Streator last week, have declared the post of teacher at the school vacant and hired a successor.

Members of Miss Haley's family have obtained warrants for the arrest of Father William Courtney, Alexis priest, charging he kidnaped the missing teacher.

Sheriff E. J. Welter, who is directing a search for both Miss Haley and Father Courtney, has been unable to locate the pair.

Brazilian Army Captures Key to Rebellious State

RIO DE JANEIRO, Sept. 13.—(AP)—The government announced today that federal troops had taken Cruzeiro and the railway tunnel nearby, which command communication lines into the rebel state of Sao Paulo from the north and east. The federal army claims now to be in a position to unite all its Parahyba valley forces and proceed toward Sao Paulo, 125 miles away. The government hailed the Cruzeiro victory as the most important of the civil war, which has been going on for nearly ten weeks.

MUNICIPAL COURT WILL OPEN NEW WOMEN'S BRANCH

Judge Graber to Preside at Opening Oct. 3.

Plans to open a new branch of the Municipal court to be devoted exclusively to women offenders were announced yesterday by Chief Justice John J. Sonsteby. The new branch will enlarge the scope of the present Morals court, but it will be known as the Woman's court to avoid any stigma that might be attached to the other name.

The new Woman's court, Chief Justice Sonsteby said, will receive all women's cases except traffic offenses. The court with its widened jurisdiction will be placed in operation on Oct. 3 on the tenth floor of the police building at 1121 South State street, in the room now occupied by the Morals court.

Judge Graber to Preside.

"The Woman's court in Chicago is to be, I believe, one of the greatest steps forward ever taken in the treatment of law violations by women," Chief Justice Sonsteby said. "Women's courts have been set up throughout the country, but are confined mainly to the hearing of minor sex offenses."

Judge Joseph A. Graber will be assigned to preside over the new court, the justice said. He was in charge of the Domestic Relations court for more than a year.

Charities to Coöperate.

The new branch, in addition to completing records of every woman defendant such as are now kept by social workers in the Morals court, will be aided by the coöperation of charitable and social service organizations which seek to reform first offenders, Justice Sonsteby said. He expects to arrange details for such help at a conference on Saturday. Representatives of the Catholic Big Sisters, Chicago Church federation, Women's Church Protectorate, and the Chicago Urban league have been invited to attend. Advice also will be sought, he said, from university officials.

Hold Up Woman in Home and Escape with $1,000

Two armed men entered the home of Mrs. Mary Sullivan at 6243 South Justine street yesterday and, after locking her and a telephone repair man in a closet, ransacked the house, escaping with $1,000 which had been hidden in a dresser drawer.

RUSSIA BUILDING FORTIFICATIONS ON POLISH BORDER

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

WARSAW, Sept. 13.—Refugees arriving at Rowno after escaping from Russia today told of a huge soviet fortification plan in the Zwiahel-Zastaw area along the river Sluch adjacent to the Polish frontier east of Rowno.

The soviets are said to be secretly constructing long lines of concrete shelters, protected by a trench system and supplemented by barbed wire entanglements and artillery positions. The population in that area is forcibly enlisted without pay for the construction of the foundations, while the concrete work is being done by imported communist workmen.

Construction material is stored two miles from the trench lines and is transported by soldiers to the necessary points. At the termination of their work the imported workers are returned to Moscow under strict control of Gay pay ou [secret police] agents. Similar fortifications, it is said, will be constructed along practically the entire Polish and Rumanian frontier.

Blind 45 Years, He Falls and Regains His Sight

TORONTO, Ont., Sept. 13.—(AP)—Forty-five years ago Thomas W. Musson was struck on the head with a lacrosse stick and lost the sight of his right eye. Last Saturday he tripped and fell at Thorncliffe Racing Park, hitting his head on the ground. He awoke Sunday, he said today, to find the sight of his eye restored.

WHAT WILL YOUR NEW FALL FROCK BE?

WE SAY WOOL

WHO would ever have thought that wool, associated with the mildest of domestic animals, the gentle sheep, would become, when converted into our smart new frocks—a social lion?

WELL, it has, and it's wonderful to see the airs and graces it has acquired under the careful guidance of our fashion experts. No wonder it's the center of attraction wherever it goes.

(a) The New Kemp Tweed, $25

Have you seen the new Kemp tweed? This is our first glimpse of it—in a swank sports suit, with a high necked jacket and buttons matching in color. In a gorgeous red, bright green, or brown. (The jacket sleeves are lined.) 14 to 20.

Sports Section, Fourth Floor.

(b) "17" in Ostrich Cloth, $22.50

Any frock of ostrich cloth is bound to be a fashion pet, but this "Seventeen" has gone out of its way to find all the most important new details. It has a high neck, a scarf lined with angelskin. In wine, green, and brown. Sizes 11 to 17.

Seventeen Frocks, Fifth Floor.

(c) Soft, Supple Wool, $35

Imported lightweight wool that adapts itself readily to the caprices of the Victorian silhouette fashions this frock. Note the modified balloon sleeves. The sleeveless jacket is trimmed with lapin. In brown or red. Sizes 14 to 20.

Misses' Section, Fourth Floor.

(d) "Tweed Weave" Knit, $14.85

The smart rough tweed weave of the jacket and skirt contrast most effectively the soft, lacy femininity of the blouse. It is in cream color, trimmed to match the color of the suit. The suit comes in rust, brown, or black and white. Sizes 16 to 44.

Knitted Suits, Fourth Floor.

TOP BROAD WOOL SHOULDERS

$7.50

FISCHER'S 142 TAKES MEDAL IN AMATEUR GOLF

EQUALS RECORD; GOODMAN TWO STROKES BEHIND

Qualifying Limit of 152 Is New Low.

Baltimore, Md., Sept. 13.—[Special.]—John Fischer, University of Michigan junior, walked off with the medal in the qualifying round of the 36th national amateur golf championship tournament at the Five Farms course today.

Although he took four more strokes to negotiate the hilly Maryland course than he did in the opening 18 hole round, when he set a new course record with a 69, the 20 year old star tied the qualifying mark for the championship.

To Fischer went the honor of leading the fastest field ever to compete in the event. Prior to this year an aggregate of 155 always has won a place in the championship division, although on some occasions those making that score have had to play off in order to get in. This year when the eleven hours of qualifying were up 17 year old Willie Turnesa of New York and John F. Brawner, a week-end golfer from Washington, were tied at 152 for the last remaining place in the flight and will settle the issue tomorrow morning.

Britons Are Left Behind.

The avalanche of low scores eliminated the British Walker cup team, with the exception of Eric McRuvie, the young Scot. It carried out of the tournament three former holders of the championship and three members of the victorious American Walker cup team.

The three ex-champions who were unable to equal the pace were Jess W. Sweetser, winner of the title in 1922; Max R. Marston, who won the title from him in 1923, and Harrison R. Johnston, the Minnesota veteran who won after Jones' early elimination at Pebble Beach in 1929.

The three other Walker cup defenders, in addition to Sweetser and Johnston, who were eliminated were Don Moe, the young Oregonian, who two years ago was mentioned as Jones' likely successor; Billy Howell, who lost to Francis Ouimet in the semi-final round at Beverly last year, and George T. Dunlap Jr., former holder of two intercollegiate crowns and hero of the recent cup matches against the British.

Ouimet Rallies to Qualify.

Ouimet, the defending champion, far down in the list with his first round score of 78, made one of the greatest finishes ever witnessed in any championship. Seven holes from the finish it looked as if the hero of Brookline in 1913 was doomed to failure. He was four over par at that point.

Then fortune smiled on him for the first time since the qualifying play began. A 10 foot putt went into the hole for a birdie 3 on the No. 12 hole. Even then, he was far from being safe, particularly when he failed to reach the 16th green with his second shot. He was 8 feet short of the hole on his chip. But again the putter that has won him renown came to his aid. He holed out to save his par 4.

His tee shot to the 17th fell short of the green. This time he chipped dead and holed out for a par 3. On the 18th he got the 4 that gave him 151 and kept him out of the play-off by one shot.

Three other former champions who successfully met the test were H. Chandler Egan, 48 year old Oregonian, who won his first amateur title in 1904; Chick Evans, winner of the

THE SULLIVANS AND AN ALTROCK

Young Billy Sullivan, Sox first baseman, listens to his dad (center) recall the good old days of the Hitless Wonders for Nick Altrock. Nick appears nonplussed at the reminder that twenty-six years ago he pitched to Mr. Sullivan Sr. when the two were a famous battery for the White Sox in the world's series of 1906 against the Cubs. Altrock, pitching, with Sullivan catching, won the first game of the series, 2 to 1, beating Mordecai Brown. Brown beat Nick in the fourth game, 1 to 0. (Story on page 21.)

YANKEES CLINCH PENNANT; BEAT INDIANS, 9 TO 3

Cleveland, O., Sept. 13.—[Special.]—The New York Yankees defeated the Indians today, 9 to 3, and clinched the American league pennant for 1932.

It was the Yankees' 100th victory, against 43 lost so far this season. The second place Philadelphia Athletics, who were idle today, cannot win more than 99 games if they triumph in all their remaining contests. Washington, which had a mathematical chance of winning, was eliminated by losing to Chicago today.

Yankees Take Lead Early.

The Yankees had been conceded the pennant for some time. New York took the lead in the American league early in the season and maintained a steady pace. Its advantage was frequently above twelve games. The Athletics, champions for the last three years, are 12½ games behind the leaders and have only 12 to play.

Today's victory brought New York its seventh championship in the American league. The Yankees won in 1921, '22, '23, '26, '27, and '28. Three times the Yankees have been world's champions. Their series triumphs came in 1923, 1927 and 1928.

Drive Brown from Mound.

The new American league champions clinched the game today in the sixth inning when they drove Brown from the mound with a five hit attack which scored four runs. Brown was relieved by Sarge Connally. George Pipgras pitched well for the Yankees, allowing only eight hits.

The victory added new credit to the record of Joe McCarthy, Yankee manager. He is the first manager ever to win pennants in both leagues. His National league triumph came with the Chicago Cubs in 1929. Score:

In the Wake of the News

WORLD SERIES TICKETS.

THIS is the season when baseball fans of prospective world series cities, although exulting in the prowess of their diamond heroes, begin to voice complaints about world series tickets, often culminating in "I'll never attend another game at that park," which is promptly forgotten next spring.

Here are the three principal complaints:

1. The difficulty in procuring seats with disappointment to many thousands.

2. That seats must be purchased for all three games at a cost of $16.50 or $19.80, and not for a single game.

3. That prices are too high.

The first count in this indictment is beyond the power of the participating clubs to control. The second involves the vast amount of clerical labor within a limited space of time. Perhaps it is debatable. Assertion that prices are too high, we think, is justified. Let's consider these questions more in detail.

Normal seating capacity of Cubs park is around 40,000. Extra seats to be erected will bring the total to about 50,000. Regular scheduled games often attract that many customers. Several times that number wish to see games of a world series. Somebody must be disappointed.

Except for the honor and attendance the following year no club management welcomes a world series. It can make no friends and it can make many enemies, mostly without cause. The Cubs, from our observation, try to be fair and to keep tickets from speculators.

If seats were sold for only one game instead of in blocks of three the clerical work would be tremendously increased with probably resulting confusion. All the sorting of applications and mailing back of tickets has to be done within a brief period. The present plan is more expeditious. Club managements say sale of single game tickets could not be made in the limited time. Perhaps it could. So far as we remember it has not been tried.

Compared to opera, theatrical shows, prize fights, race tracks or even football, world series prices are not high, considering the few games played. They are high considering that fans supporting the teams have paid a top of $1.50 during the season, $1.65 including government exaction to support bureaucracy. The Wake thinks Mr. John Public is entitled to a better break.

The excuse is that players share in the proceeds. As a matter of fact, they share in the first four games. Fifteen per cent of all goes to support the expensive, really extravagant high commissioner's office.

Unless the series goes to six or seven games the participating clubs do not earn a large profit. Even then their profits are not commensurate with the importance of the occasion. Despite these facts the Wake thinks prices are too high. This opinion is based on all season support. Yet prices are raised to all the traffic will bear for the big event with the typically American argument of "We can get it." It imposes a penalty on the fan of moderate means.

TENNIS FANS ARE NICE LITTLE BOYS AND DON'T YOWL

But It's Hard to Restrain Raspberry Chorus.

BY WESTBROOK PEGLER.

[Copyright: 1932: By The Chicago Tribune.]

New York, Sept. 13.—The American tennis customers who enjoyed the distinguished privilege of contributing their money to the Lawn Tennis association and the West Side Tennis club last week are now receiving a nice slice of cake from my colleagues of the whither-are-we-drifting department as a reward for their good manners during the playing of the final match between Vines and Cochet Saturday afternoon.

It seems that on Friday when Cochet was playing Allison the patrons were guilty of several social errors, applauding at the wrong times and also sounding the raspberry when close decisions went against the American. But on Saturday the refinement was so rife that you could cut it with a knife.

Press Boys Still Irksome.

The only offensive conduct noted on Saturday was chargeable to the boors of the press, who persisted in tapping their little typewriters during the struggle to the serious upsetment of M. Cochet. The press always is a great problem at the tennis tournaments. Not only does the tapping of the little typewriters unnerve the sensitive athletes, but the presence of the newspaper boys is distinctly offensive to the socially exclusive commuters.

A move was begun at Forest Hills a couple of years ago to sneak the newspaper boys into their hyena cage through some obscure entrance, so that the members would not be subject to contact with them at the regular entrances. To the surprise of the refined element, this turned out to be O. K. with the newspaper boys, who said that the aversion was entirely mutual, if not more so.

But the plan to feed the press by tossing sandwiches into the hyena cage and having the newspaper boys scramble for them was not as well received and resulted in the formation of the Tennis Writers' association. The association held out for tables in the clubhouse and the regular club menu, stipulating, however, that the tables should be segregated from the members' tables, if possible.

Seabright Members Too Much.

I do not know whether this solution was adopted at Seabright, but I rather think it was not. The newspaper boys are very democratic, but they have to draw the line somewhere, and I believe that in the case of Seabright they preferred to wait for their meals until they could plant themselves in the civil society of the taxi drivers down at the nearest hot dog wagon.

As to the tapping of the little typewriters, no solution has yet been discovered. The refined element has resorted to glaring and shushing, but the newspaper boys merely sent back a suggestion that the sensitive athletes be issued earmuffs, or, if they preferred, hold their tournaments in private. But, of course, the one suggestion was strictly facetious and the other quite impossible. If the tournaments were held in private the newspaper boys would not be able to sound the ballyhoo, there would be no customers to bounce around.

It is an interesting fact that lawn tennis has never produced an amiable hero of the type of Francis Ouimet or Bobby Jones, whom the golfers delight to honor and admire for their civility and good sense, or Babe Ruth.

Stronghold for Hypocrisy.

Then, also, tennis has been afflicted with more hypocrisy than any other popular sport. The tennis amateurs made tennis their vocation, but fought for their amateur standing because their amateur registration cards were as good as trust funds of varying amounts up to half a million. The athletes did not wish to turn pro because they could make a better living in the amateur line.

The customers in this country probably never will learn to control the instinct to applaud errors and boo bad decisions. This is the baseball manner and, baseball being the national game, it is the characteristic American way.

Tireless Energy and Desire to Learn Lift Bush to Top

[This is the first of a series of sketches of the careers of the Cubs players who will oppose the New York Yankees in the world series.]

BY IRVING VAUGHAN.

There are a few things about Guy Bush, member of the Cubs' pitching staff, which distinguish him from his companions. For one thing, he has it on the other pitchers who, like himself, linger on from the 1929 world series. Bush was the only one to register a victory in that affair. For another thing, he's an up and going business man always seeking some new field. He's even looking for new wrinkles in the pitching trade. In fact, his inborn desire to improve himself is what made him a pitcher in the first place.

GUY BUSH.

When Bush, back in the late part of the 1923 season at Pittsburgh, walked up to Bill Killefer, then manager, and said he was a pitcher, the boss replied that it might be true but he didn't believe it. Bush was just a kid with lots of length and not much width. Killefer's attitude made Guy all the more insistent that he was just what he claimed. His teeth were chattering while he was trying to convince the manager. The youngster still was scared to death over the lengthy train ride that had taken him from somewhere in the south to Chicago and thence to Pittsburgh.

First Ride in Sleeper on Way to Pittsburgh.

The Chicago-Pittsburgh portion of the journey was his first night in a sleeper. He had ridden to Chicago in a day coach, deliberately dodging a Pullman by sitting all night in a depot to wait for a day train. What's more, it took him a month to work up enough courage to make the trip. When he learned he had been sold to the Cubs by the Greenville, Miss., Cotton States league club, he hid out in another obscure club under an assumed name. But he was located and urged to come on.

The day Bush reported to Killefer he was told to put on a uniform and pitch in batting practice. He didn't pitch; he threw. He didn't even know how to grip the ball properly. A curve ball was something he knew of only by hearsay. Bush knew he was a green pea of the greenest hue, and his new mates even kidded him his first day because he had broken the wrist of a fellow who was batting with the Cubs in practice. Bush was told he probably would be run out of baseball for the offense. But otherwise his new friends treated him kindly, and he still speaks of how much it was appreciated.

The swarthy Mississippian wasn't long in furnishing proof that he was a promising pupil. The first thing he did was to give the star card players a shock on the ride to the training camp in 1924. The stars raised their eyebrows when the country boy asked "in," but he had the money when California was reached. He won enough for tip money all summer.

Displays Tireless Energy from Start.

The first day in camp Bush displayed the same tireless energy that still makes him a standout among his mates. He worked everywhere because he wanted to learn. Being a smart young fellow he kept his eye on Grover Alexander, who at the time was quite a pitcher. Guy asked for pointers, which were gladly given. He learned how to grip for a fast ball and how to make the ball curve. He learned so quickly and so well that he never went back to the minors, except for a short stretch from which he was hurriedly recalled in 1924.

Bush has been trying to learn ever since, and it is only recently that he conquered a little thing he had been working on for three years. It's a screw ball. It worked fine in practice, but he was timid about employing it in battle. But he did when he got into a tough spot in a midseason game with Brooklyn.

With Sukeforth at bat, Bush decided he'd put the screw ball to a test. He threw three of them in a row. Sukeforth swung three times in a row and nothing was there to hit. Sukeforth afterward asked Bush what the 'I he had thrown.

"That's my new screw ball," replied Bush, all puffed up over the success of the experiment. It wasn't long before word of the discovery had traveled all over the league. The batters don't like it. A pitcher with less determination than Bush never would have made the attempt to improve his wares after seven or eight years.

Bush in turn has been bond salesman, proprietor of an outdoor miniature golf course, proprietor of an indoor course, and now is boss of a gasoline service station.

Pirates Beaten; 5½ Games Behind.

[Charley Root's pitching record since Charley Grimm became manager of the Cubs appears on the next page.]

BY EDWARD BURNS.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Sept. 13.—Charley Root's four hit pitching, combined with his home run and Gabby Hartnett's tenth home run of the year, gave the Cubs a 3 to 1 victory in the first game of today's double header with the New York Giants. This accomplishment enabled the Chicagoans to gain a half game on the second place Pirates, despite the fact the Giants gave Lon Warneke his sixth defeat of the season when they won, 3 to 2, in the eleventh inning of the second game.

The Cubs now lead the Pirates by 5½ games, with the Cubs having 12 and the Pirates 13 more games to play. They can clinch the pennant by winning eight of their remaining dozen contests, even if the Pirates win their remaining two games in Boston, three with the Giants, four with the Cubs, and four with the Cardinals.

Contrast With Two Years Ago.

This happy state of affairs, of course, is in contrast with conditions which existed two years ago this night, when the Cubs finished their day's labors with the knowledge they had been knocked from first place to third, never to recover a place at the top of the heap. The contrast is mentioned at this time because skeptics recently have been doing a heap of warning about what happened to the Cubs in 1930.

The first game was a snappy battle, in which not a Cub got to first base until Gabby Hartnett socked that homer to start the sixth inning. It was his third in four days and tied the score at 1 all. In the seventh the Cubs got an unearned run after two were out. That one was enough to win, but Root didn't want the verdict settled that way. So in the eighth he knocked a homer to match Gabby's.

Moore Ties Up Second Game.

In the second game the Giants got a two run edge on Warneke before the Cubs could get started. In the seventh, however, Stephenson doubled and came home with John Moore when the latter drove a homer into the right field stand.

The Cubs made two big threats before the Giants broke up the game. In the tenth Ott made a diving catch to blot out a score and a rally, and in the eleventh the Cubs had men on third and first when the end came.

The victory, which was the first Giant triumph in eight starts against the Cubs, resulted from a single by G. English and a triple by Vergez, the triple not having been officially set down until the scorer was reminded of the rules covering the situation.

Play Giants Again Today.

The Cubs and Giants will be back at it tomorrow in a single game and Pittsburgh and the Braves will be fighting it out again at the same time.

Root's game today was one of the best he has pitched in several years. Fullis, who bounced a double over Woody English's head and later scored the Giants' only run, was the only runner to pass first. Two of the other three hits off Charley were infield affairs and the other one was a single which Critz made with one out in the ninth.

Warneke didn't pitch one of his typical games, the low score notwithstanding. Although the Cubs made four errors, all the runs were earned and extra base hits were factors in the accomplishment of all three.

FIRST GAME

The Giants didn't get a runner on base until one was out in the fourth, and the Cubs couldn't get a man to first base until Hartnett hit his run tying homer to start the sixth.

The first man to reach first was Critz, who caromed a single off Woody English's glove with one down in the fourth. Hughie immediately was forced by Terry, and Ott fanned.

Fullis opened the Giants' fifth by bouncing a double over Woody English's head, and went to third while Healey was beating out a bunt. Root got two strikes past G. English, but he filed to John Moore on the next one, Fullis scoring. Vergez popped to Koenig, and Herman threw out Bell.

Hartnett Ties Score.

As previously related, it was three up and three down for the Cubs until the sixth. Hartnett then drove the ball against the facade of the upper left field stand, tying the score at one all. Koenig filed to Fullis, Root fanned, and Herman filed to Joe Moore.

The run which actually won the ball game was an unearned affair accomplished after two were out in the seventh. After Woody English had fouled to Healey and Cuyler had filed to Ott, Stephenson beat out a slow roller to G. English for the second hit off Bell. John Moore tapped to G. English, who made a bad toss in an attempt to force Stephenson at second, both runners being safe. Grimm then singled to left, Stephenson scoring and John Moore stopping at second. Hartnett lined to Ott.

Just to make the victory strictly an earned affair, Root sailed his homer against the same facade that Gabby

HOOSIER PRINCE FINALLY REWARDS OWNER TAGGART

$11,000 Investment Wins at Lincoln Fields.

BY FRENCH LANE.

Tom Taggart, who maintains the French Lick Springs racing stable, and his trainer, Bryant Ott, are a couple of very patient patrons of the turf.

They had to be or they wouldn't have watched Hoosier Prince carry the red and green Taggart silks to victory in the best race on the Lincoln Fields program yesterday.

Mr. Taggart had been buying oats for this high priced 3 year old and Ott had been feeding them to him for the better part of two seasons. Hoosier Prince failed to win a single race for them, although he tried some two dozen times. He became a noted "also ran."

Reforms at Last.

Hoosier Prince's conscience must have started bothering him yesterday. When he stepped up to the barrier with six other 3 year olds he was a different horse.

He also was a different horse when the battle started. He ran away from his enemies, led to the home stretch by ten lengths and then was eased up by Jockey Charley Corbett. He was still a half dozen lengths in front when he dashed past the finish line, going like a cup champion and fighting for his head as if he wanted to run for the remainder of the afternoon.

Lord Dean was nearest to him when it ended and got second money. Big Play was staggering after trying to keep pace with the flying Hoosier Prince but managed to be third. The others were strung out far down the track.

Hoosier Prince ran the six furlongs over a very muddy track in 1:16 3-5. He must have nodded his head to some of the boys along the rail, for he was stoutly backed in the late stages of the speculation and wound up by paying $3.60 for a $2 ticket. Hoosier Prince cost Owner Taggart around $11,000 at the yearling auctions back in 1930.

Esseff Disappoints the Boys.

The Manos purse for 2 year olds brought out some of the fleetest juveniles in the west and Esseff was made the odds-on favorite at 7 to 10. But Esseff didn't win, nor come close to it. Silent Shot, at 10 to 1, owned by Attorney John E. Hughes of Chicago, came from behind and won by a head from North Mill, another Chicago colt. Esseff, after meeting up with much interference, was beginning to run in fine stride near the end, but was only third, four lengths behind the two leaders.

Makes Up Lost Ground.

Early in the race Silent Shot was running last in the field of seven. Jockey Corbett brought him to the outside on the turn and then he proceeded to run past every horse in the race, but did not catch North Mill until the final strides.

Favorites did not fare well at any time during the afternoon, except in the Harvey claiming purse, which was won by the heavily backed Thundertone from C. H. Knebelkamp's barn.

Fields Take on Touch of Red; Autumn Nears

BY BOB BECKER.

Mid-September offers a fascinating show for the outdoor fan who has the time to spend a day in the country. This particular period of the calendar is distinctive, bringing as it does the last assembly of humming birds around a certain species of flower.

A few days ago when we drove to Lake Maxinkuckee, near Culver, Ind. for a little fishing we jotted down the following items on the mid-September outdoor display:

Humming birds are now frequenting the beds of the jewel weed or touch-me-not. Look for this exquisite, orange-colored flower with the reddish-brown spots which grows on a tall plant in moist shady places. They are plentiful in the sand dules and abundant in the Culver military academy bird refuge. When these touch-me-nots have gone the hummers will have lost their last hunting ground in this section. The origin of the name touch-me-nots of more than passing interest. The plant is so named because if one touches the seed pod when almost ripe it explodes and scatters the seeds. The fitting Latin name is impatiens.

Hickory Nuts Nearly Ready.

The fall asters inject their vivid colors into the autumn landscape and make gay splashes of purple against the yellows of the goldenrod. The sumac is beginning to flaunt red flags. Its leaves are turning. Dark purple fruit hangs from the stems of the pokeberry and the wild grape.

It's thornapple time, too. The haws are loaded with flaming red fruit. Although the autumn colors are starting in flowers and fruit, you find few birds and hear practically no bird notes in the woods. Most of our song birds have gone. We watched chipmunks carrying seeds to their dens. This is harvest time for them—the season to lay aside food for the coming winter.

A gray tufted titmouse raids a food station for sunflower seeds. We watched this bird fly to the food counter, get a seed, and then sit above our observation station to hammer away at it, meantime showering us with the chips.

Fall Asters Dot Landscape.

Walnut and hickory trees are just about ready for those who want to take their harvest. Vegetation has run its course. On the lake shore in the morning the water is covered with falling leaves. The cornfields have lost their green and now are taking on the typical browns of autumn. Apple trees in country orchards are loaded with ripe, red fruit. The harvest moon rides high these nights, helping migrating birds on their nocturnal marches southward.

New York, Sept. 13.—[Special.]—E. R. Bradley's Barn Swallow, winner of the Matron last week after a claim of foul, made her quality more pronounced at Belmont Park today when she won the Tomboy handicap by a length over the same rival she defeated in the Matron. Today, as in the Matron, the Wheatley stable's Iseult was second.

The result was considered vindication for those who held that Barn Swallow not only was a better racer than Iseult but the best racer of her sex and age. Happy Gal, considered by many the best 2 year old filly of the year, was behind Barn Swallow in the Matron, but did not start today, as she is being reserved for the rich Futurity on Saturday.

Eugene James was in Barn Swallow's saddle and rated his mount back of the early pace to come on with a charge which could not be turned. Iseult landed the place by a length and a half over Speed Boat, which just lasted to save the show by a head from Crazy Jane.

The order of finish after that was Tickory Tock, Sugar Cake, Illusive, Black Sheep, Easy Day, and Gay Time, the last named being an added starter.

Barn Swallow finished the 5½ furlongs in 1:04 4-5 under 119 pounds and earned $3,450. The weight represented a three pound concession to Iseult.

RICKEY SIGNS 5 YEAR CONTRACT WITH CARDINALS

St. Louis, Sept. 13.—(AP)—Branch Rickey today signed a five year contract with the St. Louis Cardinals to remain as business manager, President Sam Breadon announced. Rickey's present five year contract expires this season. He also is vice president of the Cardinals.

"Branch and I have been so happy in our relations, business and otherwise," said Breadon, "that neither of us could think seriously of becoming separated. We expect to work together always in baseball.

"This will put at rest silly rumors about Branch going to New York. When he visits Stoneham it'll be with a view to talking Charley out of some one the Cardinals need or some baseball business."

BY IRVING VAUGHAN.

As a sort of celebration over the arrival of Evar Swanson, their new mate, the White Sox stepped forth yesterday and made amends for some of the abuse the Senators have been heaping on them all season. They whipped the Capital city boys, 4 to 1, in the final game of the series for their fourth victory out of 22 played against Washington. Incidentally they put a stop to the latter's nine game winning streak.

The shears also were applied to a string which was the personal property of Bill McAfee, a former Cub. The ex-Michigan athlete introduced himself to the American league a month ago by trimming the Sox and since then had added four more triumphs without a setback. But whatever hopes he may have entertained for continuing his dizzy pace were blasted in one inning when a shower of base hits mixed with his own loss of control gave the Sox all the runs they needed.

No. 6 for Gaston.

Another notable occurrence was the recording of the sixth victory of the campaign against 17 defeats for Milt Gaston, the hard luck champion. Gaston turned loose a batch of foolers that reduced the hostile hitting to a minimum, but depite this didn't have the honor of finishing. An error and some other things let one score and filled the bases with none out in the ninth so Chad Kimsey had to dash forth and reveal his virtues as a relief worker. Before that the Senators had been tough on only one occasion. That was in the opening inning when the first three men reached base. Gaston didn't permit any of them to score.

As a means of showing his appreciation for the celebration, Swanson took part in it himself. He contributed a single at the height of the uprising against McAfee in the third, thereby driving in the second of the four runs. He also singled to start the fifth and used his speed to steal second. Then he became a bit too ambitious and attempted to appropriate third in the same way. This time he was nipped.

They Pick on Kress.

The Senators started off by experimenting on Kress' skill at third. This caused Gaston a more or less turbulent time in the first inning. Kuhel bunted on the first ball pitched and Kress wasn't prepared for such trickery, so Kuhel beat it out for a hit. Myer scratched a single past Sullivan. Appling fumbled Manush's drive, filling the bases, and Gaston then went to work in a big way. He induced Cronin to boost a short fly to Seeds. Kress reached up and speared a liner by Reynolds and relief appeared when West slapped a gentle roller to Gaston.

Gaston had the honor of inaugurating the third inning attack on McAfee. Milt's low popup fell between McAfee and Bluege for a single. Norman tripled into the right field corner, Gaston scoring. After Hayes had been thrown out, Seeds walked and Myer tore into short right for Sullivan's fly. Swanson came up with his single to left at this point, driving in Norman. Appling's infield hit filled the bases. Then McAfee walked Kress and Grube, forcing home two runs.

Error Starts Trouble.

CLAIM HORNSBY OWES $8,412 FOR UNPAID 1929 TAX

St. Louis, Mo., Sept. 13.—[Special.]—The income tax bureau today filed a tax lien for $8,412 against Rogers Hornsby in United States District court here. The lien covers a tax claim for income on which Hornsby, recently ousted as manager of the Chicago Cubs, is said to have paid no tax in 1929.

Examiners claimed they found in a St. Louis bank money deposited by Hornsby in 1929 which was not included in his tax return and which he did not explain.

DICK TRACY—The Strikeout

Braves' Two Homers Beat Pirates, 3 to 0

Boston, Mass., Sept. 13.—(AP)—Two home runs dimmed the pennant hopes of the Pittsburgh Pirates and gave Ed Brandt, Boston Braves southpaw, his 15th victory of the season today, 3 to 0.

Brandt outpitched Leon Chagnon through five scoreless innings and was given a lead in the sixth, when Hill Urbanski hit a homer with none on. In the eighth Wally Berger clinched the game by hitting a home run after Baxter Jordan singled. Jordan was the game's outstanding hitter, getting three singles in his four trips to the plate. Score:

DODGERS WIN TWO.

Brooklyn, N. Y., Sept. 13.—(AP)—The Dodgers defeated the St. Louis Cardinals in a doubleheader today, 6 to 5 in 10 innings and 3 to 1 in a nine inning game.

A perfect squeeze play in the 10th brought the winning run in the first game. Wright singled and reached third on Clancy's hit, then scored as Al Lopez bunted. Hollis Thurston outpitched Dizzy Dean to win the second game, Ray Blades and Manager Gabby Street of the Cards were chased from the field in the 10th inning of the opener by Umpire Magerkurth for disputing called strikes. PHILS BEAT REDS, 7-1.

Philadelphia, Pa., Sept. 13.—(AP)—The Phillies defeated the Cincinnati Reds, 7 to 1, today, by pounding Lucas for nine hits and seven runs in the first three innings.

Chuck Klein hit his 26th homer of the year after Lucas had walked Bartell in the third inning. Carroll relieved Lucas in the fourth and held the Phils to three hits for the rest of the game. The Reds' only run came in the first inning when they scored on Crabtree's single, Hendrick's double and a long fly by Lombardi. Cincinnati loaded the bases with one out in the ninth, but could not score. The score:

Argentine Police Welcome Olympic Athletes Home

[Copyright: 1932: By the New York Times.]

BUENOS AIRES, Sept. 13.—A special detachment of port police were sent to the docks this morning to prevent Argentine Olympic athletes from renewing ashore the fighting which broke out several times aboard. Friction aboard ship necessitated the captain's placing guards over some while they slept with revolvers at their sides. The boxer Lowell was arrested on landing and was charged with assault. He was released after a hearing.

Talking it Over

BY ARCH WARD.

DEDICATION of the new athletic center of the Catholic Youth organization marked a new era in amateur sport for Chicagoland. Another group whose only objective is the physical and moral development of the youth of the community is now in the promotional field. There are too few organizations conducting sport for this purpose.

The C. Y. O. program includes nearly every branch of competitive athletics. It is the hope of the men directing the work that the thousands of boys and girls who take part in the various contests will be trained in habits of thought and mode of life so that they will live longer, better and more effectively.

From the sun kissed shores of Lake Minnetonka to the moonlight banks of the Wabash [nice goin', boy] hundreds of Big Ten football players will be out on the battlefields tomorrow dying for their alma maters.

Most of the coaches know now the personnel of their opening game lineups. Still they lament that this star or that star is no longer in college and as a dreary consequence they persist in being melancholy. Bernie Bierman, Minnesota's new leader, admits prospects would be brighter if Clarence Munn, the big linesman who last year won THE TRIBUNE'S most valuable player award, had not been graduated in June. He implies he could make use of Munn now and it does seem a shame that the young man did not exercise greater foresight in regulating his academic activities.

There is one preseason break, however, that gives a coach reason to moan. I refer to Northwestern's loss of Hugh Duvall. This boy was a great back field prospect. He prepped at Elgin academy where he was an outstanding player, and he lived up to his reputation as a freshman last fall. But he has fallen victim to that curse of college life, passing marks in the classroom, and will be ineligible for 1932 football.

Duvall is the type needed in a Warner offense, such as Dick Hanley teaches. He is powerful enough to keep the middle of the opposing line tight. His threat as a ball carrier naturally would have made Pug Rentner more dangerous in his off tackles and end runs as well as in his passing.

The St. Louis Cardinals will not occupy their old place at the head of the National league at the finish of this year's race, but they have brought into the game the most colorful player of the season. Jerome Dean, right handed ace of Gabby Street's club, has given a humorous touch to the game in St. Louis, which otherwise would have been pretty drab.

They call him Dizzy, but he has said repeatedly he doesn't mind as long as they pay him regularly. From which you may conclude that he isn't half as dizzy as some folks would have you believe.

Although this has been Dean's first full year in the majors he has been in the headlines more than some players who have been up for a decade. He doesn't mind being in the headlines any more than he does being called Dizzy. He holds to the opinion that it is better to be in the headlines than in the bread lines.

You will recall that a few weeks before Dean stopped the Cubs' record winning streak he jumped the club because he was being used only on Sundays. He had no objection to working before big crowds but pitching only once a week wasn't enough for him. He figured out in his modest way that the more he pitched the more games he would win and the more games he won the more money he could demand in 1933.

Extra Point Is Simple, but Very Important Grid Play

BY WILFRID SMITH.

When a team has made a touchdown it is given the opportunity to add another point (the seventh). The attempt is made from scrimmage with the ball on or behind the opponents' two yard line.

The extra point, until this year, has been a subject of contention by players, fans, and coaches. Each season important games have been lost by the margin of the point after touchdown and, more or less as a result, opposition has developed to the try for the point. For the 1931 season changes were made in the rule, which apparently have satisfied most of the objectors.

Eliminates Ties.

Chief of the arguments for the point is that it is fair for both teams and that frequently it provides a winner, there being no particular satisfaction in tie scores. Sometimes it affords protection for the team which has been scored on "luckily," but it also may work the other way.

After various experiments, rule makers a number of years ago made the try for the point a TEAM play. It may be scored in three ways. Placing the ball on the opponents' two yard line make all three feasible. The methods of scoring the point are:

1. By a field goal (place kick or drop kick).

2. By carrying the ball to or across the opponents' goal line.

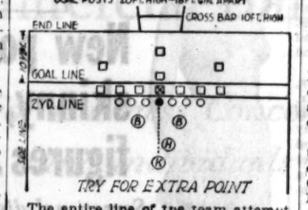
3. By completing a forward pass into the opponents' end zone.

The field goal is most common. If the defending team sends too many players through the line to attempt to block the kick it reduces the number of secondary defenders against wide runs and forward passes. This, of course, increases the chance of success for the run or pass. For the team with a great plunger, the direct smash for two yards through the line may be the correct play.

Place Kick More Certain.

The place kick or drop kick depends on specialists. And if a team is fortunate enough to have a player who possesses the ability to kick under fire, this method may be used almost to the exclusion of passing, running, or plunging. The drop kick is not as certain under all weather conditions as the place kick. However, when the drop kick is attempted, there are three back field men available to block opponents, while during a place kick only two men are in position to block.

When a team is preparing for a place kick in an effort to score the extra point the players probably will line up as follows:



TRY FOR EXTRA POINT

The entire line of the team attempting the place kick blocks. Two back field men [BB] block. The back field man [H] holds the ball when it is passed back from the center. [K] is the kicker.

If it is apparent that a place kick will be attempted one of the backs of the defending team probably will come up into his scrimmage line to increase the chances of breaking through and blocking the ball. But if this is done the other three must cover all territory for possible forward passes or be ready to stop runs.

Second Attempt on Fouls.

If a foul is committed [most common fouls are holding and offside] the customary penalty is inflicted and the try for the point is attempted a second time, unless the offended team declines the penalty.

For example, if a lineman of the defending team is offside and the field goal or other scoring play is successful the offensive team will decline the penalty and take the point. If the point try fails the offensive team will demand the penalty and try again.

If the offensive team is guilty of the foul and the point is made the defending team will demand the penalty and the point must be attempted again. However, if the try has not been made the defending team will decline the penalty and there is no second chance to score the point.

In case of a foul called on both teams the point is attempted a second time.

Any foul which calls for the loss of a "down" nullifies a second attempt for the extra point. This is infrequent.

The time required for the extra point play is not included in the 60 minutes allotted for the game. Time is out while the attempt is made.

The consensus of opinion on the rules governing fouls during the try for the point last year was that teams were more careful in play. Second attempts were infrequent.

BROWNS POUND RED SOX PITCHERS FOR 9-4 VICTORY

St. Louis, Mo., Sept. 13.—(AP)—Irving Hadley held Boston to five hits, while his team mates pounded a quartet of Red Sox pitchers for 16, to give the Browns a 9 to 4 victory today in the final game of the series. Campbell of the Browns and Johnson of the Red Sox knocked home runs. All the Red Sox runs were made in the eighth inning. Score:

Stagg to Pick Chicago Team on First Day

Opening of practice tomorrow will find Coach A. A. Stagg of the University of Chicago violating all precedent and picking a first string Maroon football team as his first move in his forty-first campaign on the Midway. Coach Stagg will have to get eleven men working together at once, because the Maroons will play Monmouth college, undefeated last year, a week from Saturday.

The first game lineup probably will contain only one new man, H. O. Page Jr., full back. Coach Stagg always has preferred to use experienced men in the opener, but the fact that several of the best sophomores will not be available until later in the month will be another reason for relying largely on the veterans.

Another compelling reason for selecting a varsity team at once is that the Chicago eleven will use a new Stagg invention, the whirlwind shift, which will take intensive work to master. He drilled his backs in the fundamentals of the play last spring, but the play is complicated and requires good timing.

Try Play Against Monmouth.

The Maroon coach intends to have the formation working perfectly for the Yale game, and so will try it out against Monmouth. A nonscouting agreement with Yale will enable him to have just as much a surprise element for the Bulldog team as if he kept the formation covered up in the first game.

Coach Stagg has not expressed himself as to the rating of the men, but in most cases his choice is obvious to those who have followed the Maroon team. Keith Parsons, who has held the position two seasons, will be at center, with Ray Zenner and Walter Maneikis at guard. Zenner was used at center and guard last year and Maneikis is an experienced player. The two veteran tackles, Bill Cassels and John Spearing, probably will start, although there is a possibility of John Womer, Oak Park sophomore, breaking into the lineup.

With restricted choice at end, the first pair for the Monmouth game probably will be Pompeo Toigo and Warren Bellstrom, the former a letterman and the latter a reserve. Barton Smith, a sophomore, may be able to break through despite precedent and win a starting place.

Sahlin to Be at Quarter.

Vinson Sahlin was groomed for the quarter back position last spring. Capt. Don Birney will be used at one half, with Pete Zimmer at the other, and Page will be full back. He will do the punting for the team.

After the early opener on Sept. 24 the Maroons will have two weeks to prepare for their game at Yale. By that time all of the sophomores who have not taken their comprehensive examinations will have had an opportunity to do so, and the team strength should be at the peak for the eastern game. Stagg is making no secret of his determination to make his greatest effort at New Haven to avenge the defeat that marked the celebration of his fortieth year last season.

N. U. PRACTICES TOMORROW

A majority of the candidates for Northwestern's football team appeared on the Evanston campus yesterday, all of them apparently fit for the start of practice tomorrow morning.

The early arrivals wore coats of tan, evidence of a summer spent in outdoor jobs. Among those greeting Coach Dick Hanley yesterday were Mil Froberg, tackle, who spent the summer in a boy's camp in Wisconsin; George [Butch] Potter, quarterback, fresh from work in a freight yard at his home in St. Joseph, Mo.; Ed Manske, end, of Neekosa, Wis., and Harold [Ham] Weldin, end, who was a life guard at Peoria, his home.

Chicagoans Ready to Report.

Many of the others reside in Chicago and suburbs and reported that they would be on hand for an early start tomorrow. Among these were a number of veterans including: Capt. Pug Rentner, half back; George Dilley, guard; Ollie Olson, full back; Bob Gonya, tackle; Roy Auguston, full back; Bill Riley, tackle; Jakie Sullivan, half back, and Art Jens, end.

Coach Hanley expects to greet a squad of about 55 candidates at the opening session. Only three days of double practice will be available this year since the university opens a week earlier than usual. Classes begin next Monday.

Purple Meets Missouri Oct. 1.

With Missouri as Northwestern's opponent Oct. 1 and Michigan a week later, Coach Hanley plans to start heavy workouts at once. Present plans call for a scrimmage with the freshmen team Saturday afternoon. This is in contrast to former years when the first scrimmage came about 10 days after the opening practice.

King Levinsky to Box Snyder at Omaha Sept. 22

Omaha, Neb., Sept. 13.—(AP)—The southside American Legion post tonight announced that King Levinsky, Chicago heavyweight, had been signed to meet Angus Snyder, Dodge City, Kas., in a 10 round bout here Sept. 22.

Fight Decisions

Saunders Boxes Delmont Tonight In Northwest Ring

Prince Saunders, south side lightweight, and Danny Delmont of the west side meet tonight in the ten round windup at Northwest stadium, 4848 Irving Park boulevard.

In a previous match two years ago Delmont held Saunders to a draw. Since that match Prince has won from Eddie Shea, Santiago Zorilla, Roger Bernard, and Marty Goldman, knocking out the last two. In his most recent start Saunders boxed a draw with Tracy Cox.

Delmont hits hard with either hand. A knockout tonight would put Delmont among the first ten lightweights. Danny has knocked out 45 opponents in 90 matches since turning professional four years ago. Peewee Jarrell, Young Terry, George Kerwin, Jack Gillespie, and Harry Kahn are among his victims.

Five bouts at four rounds each will comprise the supporting card.

The card:

Prince Saunders vs. Danny Delmont [10].
Paddy Walthier vs. Virgil Beni [4].
Smiling Springer vs. Tony Muscarello [4].
Bobby Vernon vs. Jack Ripp [4].
Jack Robinson vs. Rocky Adams [4].

Karl Ogren, former Golden Gloves welterweight titleholder, will return to Chicago this winter from Sweden, where he has been boxing professionally.

Solly Dukelsky, local welterweight, will box on the Harry Dublinsky-Tracy Cox card at Indianapolis, Ind., next Tuesday. Dukelsky, Dublinsky, and their manager, Jack Elle, will go to Indianapolis Sunday morning.

Harold Murphy, Springfield, Mo., light heavyweight, arrived yesterday to begin training under the management of Ed Stevenson and Jack Sanders.

Ray Tramblie, Rockford middleweight, has gone to his home, where he will rest for two weeks.

Petrolle and Ross to Finish Drills Today

Frankie boxed three rounds with Harry Dublinsky yesterday. After the drill he weighed 140½ pounds, one-half pound under the agreed weight. Petrolle is a natural junior welterweight, but until the last few months, has gone out of his class and fought welterweights and middleweights.

Petrolle is 24 years old and is a younger brother of Billy Petrolle, who clashes with Tony Canzoneri, lightweight champion, at New York, Nov. 4. Like his brother, Frankie is an aggressive fighter. After he won three United States Navy championships in 1928 he started his professional career.

Frankie has had 65 bouts since then and won most of them.

Scialaba, who has won his three professional encounters, will make his first start at six rounds against Pat Flowers. Dazzo and Levine will receive tests in eight round battles against Frankie Wallace of Cleveland and Jackie Sharkey, Minneapolis, respectively.

YANKS' CLINCHING OF FLAG IS BEST TONIC FOR RUTH

New York, Sept. 13.—[Special.]—Enjoying the best day he has had since he hustled home from Detroit last Thursday with the fear of being stricken with an attack of appendicitis, Babe Ruth today was reported to be almost out of danger by Dr. Edward King.

The Babe's fever has just about subsided. He was allowed to sit up for the better part of the day, and, of course, the best tonic of all came when he was informed that the Yanks officially had clinched the pennant.

"It certainly feels great to know the Yanks will be in there getting another crack at that world series," boomed the Babe. "Of course, I expected we would win the pennant long ago, but just the same it gives me an extra kick to know it is definitely settled."

From his steady improvement it can be taken for a certainty Ruth will be at his accustomed post in right field when the Yankees play the National league champions two weeks from tomorrow.

Alberti Women Bowlers Roll Men's Team Saturday

The Mayfair Recreation Palace alleys, 4837 Elston avenue, will start the bowling season with a match game between the Alberti Jewelers' women former world champions, and the champion men's team of the W. F. Hall Printing company Saturday evening. Fritzi Tretten, Capt. Edith King, Marie Warmbier, Agnes Higgins, and Dorothy McQuade are members of the Alberti Jewelers.

BEARS AND CARDS OPEN PRO LEAGUE RACE ON SUNDAY

Cleveland Meets Grange on Loyola Field.

BY WILFRID SMITH.

The Bears and the Cardinals, Chicago's entries in the National Professional football race this fall, begin league competition Sunday. The Bears meet Cleveland at the Loyola university field. The Cardinals will face the champion Green Bay Packers at Green Bay.

The Bears finished third in the league standings last year one place ahead of the Cardinals. Both elevens have signed new players. The Cardinals, in particular, have many new players this fall under Jack Chevigny who is teaching the pros the Report Charges Misuse of Taxpayers' Money.

The board of education spends more than $1,100,000 each school season on cafeterias and school stores in direct competition with small stores in the vicinity of the schools which are being driven out of business, according to a report issued yesterday by the Associated Retailers of Chicago.

The association now has pending a suit before Superior Judge William J. Lindsey, which seeks to enjoin the school board from spending money for school cafeterias on the ground that it is misuse of taxpayers' money and ruinous to private business. Hearings are being conducted before a master in chancery and a decision is expected in about two months.

Profit of Only $639.

The school board spent $520,706 on the cafeterias and on stores selling other merchandise in the period between Sept. 8 and Dec. 31, 1931, according to the association. A profit of only $639 was realized during this period. The board spent a total of $74,453 in buying candy for sale to the students during the 1930-'31 season, the report revealed.

"Cafeterias and stores are now maintained in about 60 junior and senior high schools," said Martin J. Wolf, president of the association. "The result is that the citizens of Chicago are paying taxes to support a business which is putting many of those same taxpayers out of business.

Unable to Pay Taxes.

"The result has been that small store owners, dependent upon the trade of students in the schools, are unable to pay their rent and their taxes in many instances.

"Mr. Bogan, superintendent of schools, has been quoted as declining to take any action on the protest of the association against this practice. The retailers of Chicago, however, will continue to fight for their rights in court and out. The board of education has no right to enter into competition with private business, using taxpayers' money to do so."

TAX WARRANT FORGERY TRIAL IS CONTINUED

Judge Frank M. Padden yesterday continued until Sept. 30 the case against three men charged with conspiracy to forge Cook county tax anticipation warrants. Prosecutor Mal J. Coghlan asked the delay in order to make further investigation. He said that $5,000 worth of the forged warrants are in the possession of the state and that the evidence will be circumstantial.

All three of the defendants were in court. They are John Baldwin and Thomas Nelson, who are at liberty in bond of $10,000 each, and John R. Steele, former Indiana banker, who is held in custody because he could not get bond. The three men were charged with conspiracy to utter forged instruments last Saturday. The charge was placed against them when a writ of habeas corpus was sought in their behalf after they had been in custody at the detective bureau for a week.

HENRY P. CONWAY WILL DISPOSES OF $300,000 ESTATE

The will of the late Henry P. Conway, an official of Ginn & Co., publishers, was admitted to probate yesterday. The will disposes of Mr. Conway's $300,000 estate, giving two-thirds to Mrs. Frances Cole Conway, 867 Bluff road, Glencoe, the widow.

To Dartmouth college, of which Mr. Conway was a graduate, he left $1,000, and gave distant relatives bequests which totaled $8,000 more. The remainder of the estate was left in trust for his son, Henry P. Conway Jr., 9 years old. When the boy becomes 21 he will receive one-third of the principal, at 25 half the balance, and at 30 the residual principal.

ANOTHER INDIAN LEADER CONSIGNS SELF TO DEATH

Selects London for "Hunger Strike."

BY EUGENE SPECK.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Sept. 13.—While the British and Indian governments are in constant communication over the new turn of affairs since Mahatma Gandhi, India's Nationalist leader, announced his intention of starving himself to death, another Indian leader consigned himself to slow death by starvation in England today.

Pundit Vishnu Karandikar announced that he will begin a hunger strike next Tuesday, the same date selected by Gandhi for his extreme step in protest against the British government's communal settlement in apportioning seats in the provincial legislatures among the various Indian sects.

Gandhi Attacks Award.

The protest is directed especially against the provision allowing the "untouchables" special seats to be filled by means of a double vote in Hindu constituencies.

Gandhi has attacked the award as a step certain to cause a permanent schism between the upper caste Hindu and the "depressed" classes, who have been granted the right to vote for both the regular Hindu candidate and their own representative, whereas the Moslems, Sikhs, and Christians are limited to one vote—for a candidate of their own faith.

Against Prime Minister MacDonald's decision Gandhi and his followers advocate terms for an agreement between representatives of the upper caste Hindus and "untouchables" which has been called "the rajah moonje pact." In this pact the "untouchable" representation would be guaranteed about 20 per cent, according to the population, but the legislators would be chosen at joint electorates at which all Hindus voted.

Cancels Trip to India.

Karandikar, who had reserved passage for a religious research in India, canceled it when Gandhi's decision was announced. It was admitted in informed quarters that there is a strong probability that others will follow Gandhi's example in India, but emulation of the "holy man's" decision to starve to death in London was a surprise.

Politically Karandikar is more moderate than Gandhi. He expects other Indians in Britain to join him and plans to establish a center of "fasting satyagraha."

Gandhi Gets Teeth Fixed.

POONA, India, Sept. 13.—(AP)—At the very time the Mahatma Gandhi's starvation ultimatum was made public in Great Britain the mahatma himself was sitting in an improved dentist's chair in Yeravda prison having finishing touches put to a new set of teeth. The dentist has been a frequent visitor to the prisoner because the mahatma has proved a difficult case for him. He has made several dentures for the mahatma only to have them discarded.

The mahatma's plan to "fast unto death" unless British communal election plans are abandoned was expected to bring about his release from prison. Simla authorities were reported as saying they would send him to his residence near Ahmedabad.

W. A. QUINN, 74, LAWYER, STRUCK BY AUTO, DIES

William A. Quinn, 74 years old, 2018 South 10th avenue, Maywood, an attorney for the Cudahy Packing company, died yesterday in the county hospital. He was found lying in the street at Halsted and Lake streets Monday night by Adolph Mogil, 1113 North Mozart street, and regained consciousness at the hospital to identify himself and tell police that he was struck by an automobile which failed to stop. Mr. Quinn had been living in St. Charles during the summer.

The death of Quinn and two others yesterday raised the 1932 Cook county motor toll to 804. The other victims:

Walter Radzwilowicz, 40 years old, 2013 Iowa street. Fatally injured when he was struck by an automobile at Damen avenue and Iowa street. The driver, Albert Gunian, 3101 North Damen avenue, was held.

Frank Muska, 40 years old, 1807 South Paulina street. Died in the county hospital. He was struck Sunday by an automobile truck at Ashland avenue and 24th street.

Joseph Novack, 45, of Chicago, who escaped from the Lincoln state school and colony Sunday, was killed yesterday when he was struck by a truck on route 4, north of Springfield, Ill.

WIFE TALKS; HE STUFFS COTTON IN HIS EARS; DIVORCED

Waukesha, Wis., Sept. 13.—[Special.]—A husband who dared to stuff cotton in his ears so that he could not hear his wife speaking to him was divorced in County court here.

Mrs. Fannie Hurst Cummings, 56, of Delafield, won a divorce on grounds of cruel and inhuman treatment and was awarded a final property settlement of $1,600. Her husband was William W. Cummings. They were married in Delafield May 12, 1928. According to the complaint Mr. Cummings would walk out of the house when his wife turned on the radio and at night would sit in one part of the house and Mrs. Cummings in another part.

When she talked to him, Mrs. Cummings said, he would put cotton in his ears.

GEORGE EASTMAN ESTATE VALUED AT $25,561,641

Rochester, N. Y., Sept. 13.—(AP)—An estate of $25,561,641, or about $5,000,000 more than the estimates at the time of his death, was left by George Eastman, the kodak magnate, according to the transfer tax affidavit filed here today. Of the total estate, $8,319,553 was in cash. Eastman committed suicide by shooting himself at his home here last March 14. He was 77.

Because a large part of the estate is tax exempt by reason of being bequeathed to educational and philanthropic institutions, the state collects a tax of only $14,212 on the net taxable estate of $585,321.

A gross value of $24,403,748 in personal property and $1,157,892 in real estate is shown.

A surprising disclosure was the fact that Eastman carried only $16,951 in life insurance, all of which was payable to his niece, Mrs. George B. Dryden of Evanston, Ill.

Mrs. Dryden also gets $206,015, including $100,000 in cash, $100,000 in New York City bonds now valued at $91,500, and personal items including silverware, jewelry and household effects.

Mrs. Alice K. Hutchinson, for years secretary to the philanthropist, was left $100,573, represented by $100,000 bonds of Jersey City, N. J., with accrued interest. Eastman also left to Mrs. Hutchinson a trust fund of $100,000 out of which she was instructed to pay $20,000 to the organization promoting the 13 month calendar and finance the care of a second cousin of Eastman's now living in Los Angeles and the education of two sons of another second cousin.

The palatial Eastman home was valued at $656,392. It was bequeathed to the University of Rochester. Paintings in the home were valued at $1,196,307

W. H. KLEPPINGER HELD SUICIDE BY CORONER'S JURY

A verdict of suicide was returned yesterday by a coroner's jury at an inquest into the death of William H. Kleppinger, 49 years old, 7321 South Shore drive, who shot and killed himself on Monday night so that his wife could collect $50,000 and his company $100,000 on his life insurance policies. Mr. Kleppinger was the founder and president of the Calumet Foundry and Machine company of East Chicago.

Yesterday Gale Blocki, his attorney, said there was "no reason why Mr. Kleppinger should have taken his life." The company is financially sound, Blocki said, and does not need the insurance money. Mr. Kleppinger shot himself after he had called a meeting of the directors of the company at his home.

Memorial Service Sunday for Mrs. Victor Elting

A service in memory of Mrs. Victor Elting, who died July 12, will be held Sunday in Christ church, Winnetka. Mrs. Elting, who was 61 years old, was the wife of attorney Victor Elting, 320 Mount Pleasant court, Winnetka. She died of heart disease in the American hospital in Paris, where she was visiting her son, Winston, a student of architecture.

BERN'S 'WILLS' FAIL TO NAME JEAN HARLOW

Papers List Annuity to Miss Millette.

Los Angeles, Cal., Sept. 13.—(AP)—Authorities, after opening a safety deposit box kept by Paul Bern, who committed suicide on Sept. 4, two months after his marriage to Jean Harlow, platinum blonde film beauty, announced tonight they found nothing to further explain the motive for Bern's act.

The box did not contain a will, ending for the moment a search for a document in which it was rumored Miss Harlow was named a beneficiary in the estate of the film executive.

Mention Dorothy Millette.

Authorities said, however, they found two papers which were "wills of a sort," but which they believed would have no standing in court. Each mentioned Dorothy Millette, the mystery woman of Bern's past, who was traced to a San Francisco hotel, from which she disappeared the day following the discovery of Bern's body.

Each paper provided an annuity of $2,500 for Miss Millette and mentioned bequests to members of Bern's family. The family includes Henry Bern, a brother of New Rochelle, N. Y.; Sid Marcus, a nephew, and Mrs. William Marcus, a sister, both of Los Angeles.

The will in which Miss Harlow was reported mentioned was drawn presumably by a Hollywood attorney. It was said to have named the actress as chief beneficiary and to have provided for Miss Millette. Relatives have said Miss Millette had been Bern's sweetheart and later, suffering a mental affliction, had been for a time in a sanitarium.

Secretary Tells of Will.

Reports of the will were attributed to Miss Irene Harrison, Bern's secretary, and shortly after the contents of the box were examined she appeared at a conference with Louis B. Mayer, head of the studio where Bern worked, and an attorney for Miss Harlow.

After the meeting, officials said Miss Harrison had reiterated a statement that such a will was drawn, but that she "may have been mistaken in where the document was placed." An attorney for Miss Harlow, who expressed surprise at the failure to find the document, said he understood the secretary also was mentioned in it.

Not an Original Copy.

The first paper in the box was dated June 12, 1925, and was a six page statement, naming Henry Bern executor. Authorities said the paper was not an original copy and that the names of beneficiaries had been written in, leaving it without legal significance. The second document was dated Aug. 14, 1927, and besides bequests to Miss Millette and relatives, provided for cash gifts to six film actresses whose names were not disclosed.

A ten page letter to Miss Harlow, written several months before their marriage last July, also was found, but the contents were not divulged. A statement was made that it threw no light on the reason for the suicide, which variously has been named possibly as melancholia or brooding over a past.

MORE ARRESTS ARE EXPECTED IN AUTO THEFT RING

Several more arrests are expected as the result of statements made by nine youths and two men seized Sunday as automobile theft ring suspects, police said yesterday.

In the meantime attempts are being made to find the owners of a large assortment of automobile wheels and accessories found in a garage used by the gang at 5400 Schubert avenue, where they are believed to have taken loot stripped from at least 100 stolen machines.

The two men held are Adam Madock, 2167 North Austin avenue, who had two sons in the gang and whose home was used as headquarters, and Glenn Downard, 2845 North 74th avenue, Elmwood Park, accused of being the "fence" to whom the boys sold their loot.

Veteran Newfoundland Politician Dies at 82

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

ST. JOHN'S, Newfoundland, Sept. 13.—George Shea, 82, a member of the legislative council, died today. He represented St. John's East for many years and acted as prime minister on several occasions in the absence of former Premier Sir Richard Squires. I WAS SKINNY AS YOU ARE UNTIL A FEW WEEKS AGO

I WISH I KNEW HOW TO PUT ON SOME WEIGHT. YOU HAVE THE FIGURE EVERYBODY ADMIRES

New pounds for skinny, scrawny figures...quick!

Sensational discovery—richest yeast known, imported beer yeast, now concentrated seven times. Gives thousands of skinny folks 5 to 15 lbs. in a few short weeks!

THIN, weak, rundown men and women by the thousands have been astounded and delighted at how quickly they gained 5, 10, 20 pounds—just what they needed for normal weight and health—with this amazing new beer yeast discovery.

"I gained 15 lbs. and my skin is so much better," writes Miss Ruth Farthering, Lexington, Ky. "Put on 5 lbs.," says Mr. G. W. Wisham, Southport, Conn. "Gained 8 lbs. and new pep," reports Miss Bertina Roberg, Bade, Ia. "I am 12 lbs. heavier," says Miss Margaret Scott, Kansas City, Mo.

2 great body builders in 1

Everybody knows that for years physicians prescribed beer for building weight. Then yeast was found to be a marvelous health builder. Now, by a sensational new process, specially cultured, imported beer yeast—the richest yeast ever known—has been concentrated 7 times—made 7 times more powerful. Then to bring even quicker and more thorough results, this super-rich yeast is treated with 3 special kinds of iron, the great blood, strength and energy builder.

A new person—quick!

The result is a marvelous tonic unsurpassed in transforming thin, weak, nervous, rundown men and women into strong, healthy, well-developed people, with strong nerves, clear skins, tireless pep.

No need to stuff yourself with food you hate. No messy gagging oils. No "pasty" taste—no gas or bloating. Instead a pleasant easy-to-take little tablet.

Skinniness dangerous

Authorities warn that skinny, anemic, nervous people are far more liable to serious infections and fatal wasting disease than the strong, well-built person. So build up quick, before it is too late.

Results guaranteed

No matter how skinny and weak you may be, this marvelous new Ironized Yeast should build you up in a few short weeks as it has thousands of others. If not delighted with the results of the very first package, your money instantly refunded.

Only be sure you get genuine IRONIZED YEAST, and not some imitation which cannot give the same results. Insist on the genuine, with "I. Y." stamped on each tablet.

WHEAT EXPERT TELLS SECRETS OF THAT GRAIN

BY HOWARD WOOD.

During the last three months of generally rising prices wheat has been the black sheep among commodities. Wheat alone among important products has lagged behind.

NAT C. MURRAY.

The improved public sentiment that has stimulated price advances in other lines has had but little influence on wheat.

Nat C. Murray, veteran grain expert, whose opinions have long have commanded the respect of the trade, accounts for the stogginess of wheat prices by explaining that wheat, more than any other American product, is a highly liquid world product. It is, he says, much less responsive to local stimulus than other commodities.

But, more important still, he continues, the course of wheat prices is warped and twisted by a multitude of national and international attempts to substitute for natural economic laws the hopes and desires of consuming and producing nations throughout the world.

Stabilizing Efforts Fail.

"I heartily agree," says Mr. Murray, "with the opinion of Dr. John D. Black, agricultural economist for the farm board, who has compiled data to prove that attempts to stabilize the prices of such commodities as cotton and wheat by buying during years of heavy production and selling in years of lean production inevitably result in leveling prices downward rather than upward."

The farm board, however, in Mr. Murray's opinion, is only part of the reason for the present low price of wheat. It is the American contribution to a decade of ill advised government meddling.

"Until last year," he says, "for nearly five years the world wheat surplus at the end of the year was larger than the surplus at the beginning of the year. It was a five year period of accumulation, starting with the Canadian pool, followed by the United States government's farm board, and then by a series of tariff boosts in other countries."

France, he points out, has an import duty of about 85 cents a bushel on wheat, Germany $1.62, and Italy 87 cents. In addition, heavy milling restrictions on foreign wheat are imposed. Prior to 1925 import duties and milling restrictions were moderate, but since then they have been increasing.

The effect of these developments has been to cut down the wheat imports of these nations. Last season France, Germany, and Italy together imported about 125 million bushels of wheat, representing about 16 per cent of the international wheat trade.

More European Wheat.

"In the past five or six years," Mr. Murray says, "the trend in these countries has been toward increased domestic production, decreased imports, but not to reduction of total consumption.

"There is little doubt that the sentiment in favor of higher tariffs abroad has been fanned into flame by the political promises that stabilization would boost the price of wheat, even though the results have turned out to be the opposite."

The slight improvement in wheat prices a few weeks ago, Mr. Murray believes, was simply the effect of the vigorous advance in the prices of stocks and cotton.

"As the prices of other things go up and people begin to believe that times are improving," he continues, "it is only natural that wheat should tag along after other commodities, although it doesn't keep up with them.

"The average price of wheat in Liverpool during the year ended July 1 was equivalent to 59 cents a bushel, which compares with 77 cents for the preceding year. The closing price was 51 cents. Not since 1593 has the price of wheat been so low."

As an indication of what the farm board's stabilization efforts have done to the American farmer's markets abroad Mr. Murray cites figures showing that during the last five years all of the leading export countries except the United States have increased their exports. The United States has been accumulating its surplus at home.

Studebaker Taking Over White Motors

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

South Bend, Ind., Sept. 13.—The White Motor company of Cleveland, manufacturing trucks and buses, was merged today with the Studebaker corporation of South Bend. The announcement was made here in a statement signed jointly by A. R. Erskine, president of Studebaker and R. W. Woodruff, chairman of the board of White.

A. R. ERSKINE.

The terms of the merger, subject to the approval of White stockholders, and the deposit of stock on or before Oct. 15, are described as follows:

Payment Nov. 1, 1932, by Studebaker corporation of $5 in cash, $25 in Studebaker 6 per cent gold notes, and one share of Studebaker common for each share outstanding of White Motor company stock.

The notes are payable on or before two years from date, but Studebaker may, at its option, during the first year from date thereof, substitute for such notes an eight year note of the same tenor and substance, exchangeable into common capital stock of Studebaker at any time during the eight year period on the basis of one share of stock for each $25 of the principal of the notes.

Each to Maintain Products.

The identities of the respective company, products and operating units will be maintained, and White stockholders will have representation on the board of directors and executive committee of Studebaker, and Studebaker officials will go on White board of directors.

This is the second merger made by Studebaker in four years. It purchased Pierce-Arrow in 1928.

White was organized in 1901 to make steam and gasoline cars, but went into truck production exclusively in 1917.

The combined assets amount to about $85,000,000, excluding good will, with a ratio of current assets to current liabilities of 4 to 1.

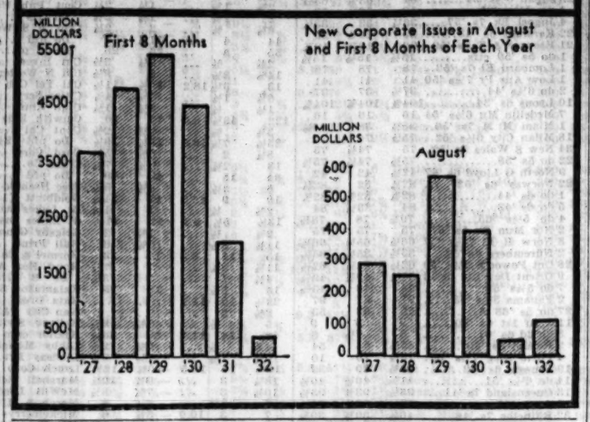
RETAIL SALES LARGER.

Studebaker retail deliveries were 31.4 per cent higher in August than in July, according to a statement issued today by Paul G. Hoffman, president of the Studebaker Sales corporation. Retail deliveries of Studebaker cars in 68 of the 150 largest cities of the United States were greater in August than they were in July, and in 16 of these cities more Studebaker cars were delivered at retail in August of this year than in August, 1931.

This may be regarded as significant in view of the fact that over a 10 year period the general tendency of Studebaker sales has been lower in the month of August than in July, Mr. Hoffman declared. In only four of these years has August surpassed July, and never has the increase been as high as 20 per cent.

Even more encouraging is a comparison of July and August deliveries of the industry as a whole during the last seven years. Only in one year, 1928, did the industry deliver more automobiles in August than in July.

New Security Issues in August Were Larger Than Year Ago



BRAZIL REFUSES TO HASTEN DATE FOR COFFEE SALE

RIO DE JANEIRO, Sept. 13.—(AP)—The Brazilian coffee council today announced it had declined to release coffee involved in the Brazilian-American coffee-grain trade, in advance of the time set in the original agreement.

The council intimated that an advance release of 237,000 sacks would mean a difference in the price equation of $2.00 a sack to Brazil, or nearly $500,000.

The United States Grain Stabilization corporation representatives were reported yesterday as seeking an advance because the market had been depleted.

It had been proposed by the council in response to American trade requests to liberate the last four monthly quotas normally terminating in January, 1934, immediately, selling 237,000 sacks this month in addition to the 62,500 provided under the contract. The council asked $3.00 per sack compensation, or $711,500.

BETTER STEEL NEWS COMES AS STOCK FALLS IN WALL ST.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Sept. 13.—The shares of United States Steel, which have been advancing steadily for some weeks on mere prospects, fell today as the best "steel news" in some months appeared. Reliable estimates put the increase in the national average of ingot production at 3 per cent for the week ended Monday. The steel corporation itself has been operating at better than 14 per cent as compared with 11 per cent in the previous week. In spite of all this budget, United States Steel common showed a net loss of 3¼ points; the preferred was off 3½ points.

BANKERS READY FOR BIG DEAL OF U. S. TREASURY

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Sept. 13.—Wall street banks are making preparations for the largest treasury financing since last December. While the total sum of allotments of new government issues at quarterly tax date on Thursday has not been revealed, it likely will be about $1,200,000,000.

Altogether the turnover on Thursday is expected to reach a total in excess of $2,000,000,000. That sum includes maturities, new issues, taxes and interest on the public debt payable at that time. The maturities consist of two issues, aggregating $712,000,000.

Preliminary figures on allotments for the new loan show that $603,796,000 will consist of exchanges for maturing issues. Note subscriptions which will be paid with tenders of maturing certificates total $408,639,000.

CUT RAIL TAX, BUSINESS PLAN TO HELP CREDIT

Less U. S. Control Is Another Demand.

Reduction and redistribution of the tax burden will be a major item in the program of the Chamber of Commerce of the United States for rehabilitation of the railroads.

The special railroad committee of the chamber, which has been drawing up a plan of legislative action to help restore the credit and the earning power of the carriers, decided to include a recommendation on taxes prior to winding up their conferences yesterday at the Union League club.

The program, which also includes a recommendation for curbing the regulatory powers of the interstate commerce commission, will be submitted to the board of directors of the chamber for approval at their annual meeting, Sept. 23 and 24, in Washington.

Await Board's Approval.

While the program will not be made public until approved by the board, it is understood that the committee will urge legislative relief for the carriers from a situation wherein they are compelled to contribute to the construction and maintenance of federally subsidized highways and waterways for use by competing transportation agencies.

The program, it is understood, also will call for curtailment of the present trend toward appropriations for nonproductive public works such as postoffices. Illustrating the situation in which the carriers find themselves, one of the committee told of the recent building of a highway in an eastern state costing $23,000,000. A certain railroad whose trackage covers the state turned out to be one of the largest contributors to construction of the highway.

Trouble for Railroads.

Instances of the interference of the commerce commission on trivial questions of operation were also cited in abundance. Some of these are to be included in the report to the chamber's board as proof of the absurdity of some phases of federal regulation.

Cases were mentioned, for instance, of high salaried railroad executives being summoned to Washington to spend weeks in discussion of such subjects as the quality of window curtains to be installed in passenger coaches or the type of construction to be followed in engine cabs, or the patent features to be adopted in car couplings.

While the committee conceded that the commerce commission might have spurred the adoption of safety devices in the past, the members maintain that the railroads now are abreast of the safety engineers of the commission in safety matters.

Financial Advertising Called Means of Business Revival

Financial advertising was advocated yesterday as a medium through which the confidence of the public in banking institutions can be strengthened. That was the theme of speakers at the convention of the Financial Advertisers' association in the Congress hotel. It also was suggested that bankers join the move of general business, through their advertising, and seek lower taxes.

G. W. ROSSETTER.

"Bankers are facing the problem of leading the American people out of the economic bog in which they are floundering, and it is not too much to say that the rest of the world is anxiously awaiting the return of this nation to a firm foundation as a condition precedent to their recovery," James L. Walsh, executive vice president of the Guardian Detroit Union group, told the delegates.

Cite Need of Advertising.

"In tackling this job we can use to advantage ways and means developed in commercial advertising. We have got to reduce our economic maxims to parables in words of one syllable. We have got to employ the most convincing illustrations, the most graphic similes; we must drive home, without any possibility of misunderstanding, the fundamentals of economics to which we must return as a condition precedent to complete recovery."

The suggestion was made that bankers in their advertising aid general business by asking lower taxes and less government in business. That was urged by George W. Rossetter, president of the Association of Commerce, who said advertising was the way to do it. Additional suggestions for the use of financial advertising to create good will were made by several other speakers.

L. A. Chambliss, assistant vice president of the Fidelity Union Trust company of Newark, urged the delegates to institute advertising programs advocating thrift as a way to prevent future depressions by the accumulation of individual reserves. "Let those who are altruistic be concerned with telling the individual how to protect himself," he said. "Foremost is the rule of thrift and it is our duty as quasi-public service institutions to advertise it."

Cites Previous Experience.

C. H. McMahon of Detroit, president of the organization, declared that conditions of the last few years have left a bad taste in the public mouth and that, since a bank is no stronger than the faith of its depositors, they should be enlightened through honest and sincere advertising.

Wirt Wright, president of the State Bank and Trust company of Evanston, urged that banks advertise the "spirit, motive and wisdom" of its human staff and not merely their financial conditions in dollars and cents. R. L. Stone, vice president of the First Wisconsin National bank of Milwaukee, suggested that advertising men learn the personality of the banks they serve in order to properly interpret that personality.

Ways to Coöperate.

"It is the banker's business to run the bank so that it can be advertised effectively, and the advertising man's job to sell the bank to the public," he said.

Mr. McMahon presided at the morning session, and A. E. Bryson, vice president of Halsey, Stuart & Co., presided at the afternoon session. At noon there was an exhibit luncheon at which types of advertising were discussed. The trust development division held a session during the afternoon to discuss technical problems.

NEW YORK BANK TO PAY USUAL $25 DIVIDEND FOR QUARTER

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Sept. 13.—More local banks today announced regular quarterly dividends for the third quarter. The First National bank voted the usual $25 a share, maintaining its record for 100 per cent yearly; the Bank of New York and Trust company declared the usual $3.50 quarterly, and Manufacturers' Trust company the usual 50 cents a share.

The Bronx County Trust company declared the usual quarterly 25 cents a share. This makes a total of thirteen important local banks which have voted unchanged dividends this quarter.

BY FRED HARVEY.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Sept. 13.—The news from Maine was considered disquieting on Wall street. Holders sold big blocks of stocks.

Early losses ranged from one to ten points. There was a smart rally during the last couple of hours, with better prices. The closing in most cases was several points above the day's low. Closing prices, however, showed losses of one to seven points. Hardly a stock escaped.

Some Foreign Cash Leaving.

While the Maine election was blamed for the downward trend, it also was evident that the heavy withdrawal of foreign funds had something to do with softening the bottom of the market. There was a revival of talk concerning reports that British, French and Dutch agencies had been very heavy buyers since July and were partly responsible for the current bull movement. With large sales of the last few sessions, it is pointed out, the foreign interests in many cases appear to be taking their profits and getting out. Sales today were heavy throughout the session. The total exceeded five million shares.

All of the leaders as well as the followers got caught in the general decline, which reached the most severe proportions since the July upswing set in.

Railway Shares Suffer.

With no group escaping, rail shares were heavily hit, but managed to close better than the lows for the day. Atchison closed at 52⅜, off 1⅝; D. L. & H. was down at 4⅛ at 78; D. L. & W. lost 3¼, closing at 31¼; New York Central wound up at 25⅛, down 1; New Haven closed at 17⅜, off 3¼.

Auburn suffered one of the worst setbacks, closing at 54½, down 7½ points. Steel sold as low as 41, but on the rally got back to 42⅜, off 3¼ for the day. Among the other losses were American Can, 2½; A. T. & T., 1⅜; American Tobacco, 2½.

HOW SOME LEADING STOCKS HAVE DROPPED FROM RECENT HIGHS

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Sept. 13.—Since Sept. 8, when the peak of the forward movement was attained, the losses in leading stocks have been severe. NEW YORK, Sept. 13.—An average level of about a month ago was reached as speculative bonds went the way of other markets today. Low priced rails, industrials and utilities showed recessions ranging up to five points, while ten point losses were posted in a few isolated cases.

The more speculative their character the more readily various liens gave way to the offering of a few pieces in a market from which all but a few buyers had temporarily withdrawn.

The railroad group was particularly hard hit by selling, which was set in motion yesterday by a precipitate drop in Nickel Plate 6s. The more speculative issues of roads with early maturities entered new low ground for the reaction.

Better Issues Suffer Less.

High grade bonds, however, were not seriously affected by the collapse of the minor inflation in speculative numbers, most of them losing only fractions. On the other hand, there were as many gains as losses in this class. Higher prices were paid for American Telephone 5½s, American Smelting 5s, Brooklyn Edison 5s, Brooklyn Union Gas 5s, and Burlington 3½s.

Before a desultory rally in the afternoon losses of 1 to 10 points in speculative carrier bonds included the issues of Great Northern, Southern Pacific, Southern Railway, Baltimore and Ohio, Erie, Illinois Central, Denver and Rio Grande, New York central, and Missouri Pacific.

Nickel Plate Ruling's Effect.

While the day's news contained little directly affecting the railroad situation, selling dislodged yesterday by the Nickel Plate loan ruling gained momentum on publication of unfavorable earnings reports and on reports of the Maine election.

Treasury bonds generally were off one-eighth to one-quarter point. With few exceptions the foreign list was heavy.

Electric Power & Light Corp. Reports Earnings

Electric Power & Light corporation in 12 months, to July 31, 1932, earned 47 cents on the average common shares outstanding and 40 cents a share on 3,320,445 common shares outstanding at close of period, against $2.66 a share on 1,876,838 common shares outstanding at end of 12 months July 31, 1931.

LOOP MORTGAGE FOR $1,875,000 RENEWED 10 YRS.

Chicago Temple Property Is Security.

BY AL CHASE.

County records yesterday disclosed an agreement between the Chicago Methodist Episcopal Church Aid Society of Chicago and the Northwestern Mutual Life Insurance company, whereby the $2,500,000 mortgage on the Chicago Temple building, at the southeast corner of Clark and Washington, now reduced to $1,875,000, is to be extended ten years, to July 29, 1942. The extension, dated Sept. 7, 1932, is signed by George W. Dixon, president, and William W. Dixon, secretary of the board of trustees of the aid society.

GEORGE W. DIXON. [U. & U. Photo.]

The aid society gave a $2,500,000 ten year note to the Northwestern Mutual Life Insurance company, of Milwaukee, on July 29, 1922, secured by a mortgage on the 80x180 site and the Chicago Temple building, at Clark and Washington. As stated, this has been paid down to $1,875,000.

Interest at 5½%.

The extension agreement, filed for record yesterday, stated that the insurance company agrees to extend the note ten years provided the church agrees to procure and deposit with the mortgagee a fire insurance policy for $2,125,000, and also agrees to pay principal payments as follows: $450,000 in nine annual payments of $50,000 each, and the remaining $1,425,000 on July 29, 1942.

The church also has the privilege of paying $10,000 or more on July 29, 1934, and at interest periods thereafter, provided, however, that at least $237,500 of the principal sum shall run until and be payable on July 29, 1942. The church also agrees to pay 5½% interest on $1,875,000 from July 29, 1932. William A. Bond & Co. represented the Northwestern Mutual Life Insurance company.

North Michigan Leases.

Two new store leases have been negotiated in North Michigan avenue by William O. Trainer. The premises at 225-31 have been leased for a term of years to Henry Hildebrand for the sale of furniture, draperies, art goods, and interior decorations. The lessee was located at Hollywood, Cal., for many years. The lease provides for a fixed minimum rental of $30,000 and a percentage of sales.

The other lease is at 219 North Michigan. J. Wellman has rented the premises for a gift shop. Mr. Trainer announces that Maurice L. Strauss, formerly of Rena Hartman, will formally open the R. H. Little shop in the Bell building on Sept. 19.

The Chicago Real Estate board will hold its annual outing today on the grounds of the Westward Ho Country club, northeast of Elmhurst. Realtors will be provided with various games and contests. There'll be golf, baseball, horseshoes, putting, running races, etc. It'll be an all day affair, with golf starting before lunch. Eighty prizes will be awarded following the evening dinner in the clubhouse.

Can't Pay Mortgage Interest.

I know your service is going to be a great help to countless small home owners. As for myself, I feel like a drowning man grasping at a straw. But perhaps you could advise me in some way that will help me. I have an equity of $2,200 in a 5 room frame cottage; $2,200 mortgage that runs until October, 1934. All improvements are in and paid, excellent transportation, and everything in A-1 condition. I have been working part time for three years and of late hav had little work until I have come to the predicament where I can no longer pay the interest on my mortgage, which amounts to $66 semi-annually. I have listed my place for sale with real estate brokers from the loop to the far south side at a sale price of $1,100 or $3,800 cash. They all tell me that is a giveaway price even at $4,100, but still have produced no actual buyers. As interest on my mortgage is due in October and I cannot meet it, is there some suggestion you could possibly make that could help me any? I hope your kind service will continue.—H. S.

You have a substantial equity and as you do not mention the name of the mortgage holder we can only suggest you try to work out an agreement to waive interest payments for the time being. Should you have difficulty in this matter, forward us the mortgage holder's name and we will get in touch with him. To facilitate the sale of your property we suggest you clean up the place as much as possible and be sure to have an attractive sign on the front. We know of an organization that sold over a hundred homes in 1931 and more than forty per cent of these sales were traced to the sign on the property.

LATER RALLIES AID TO WHEAT AFTER DECLINE

Covering by Shorts Helps the Market.

BY CHARLES MICHAELS.

Grain markets continue to demonstrate a lack of independent action. A break in stocks and cotton found a quick reflection in grains, wheat breaking 1⅛@1⅜c from Monday's finish to a new low since Aug. 22, while September and December corn and September oats sold at a new low for the season.

News which under normal conditions practically is ignored by the grain trade is regarded as the dominating influence, and to many observers accounts for the decidedly erratic action of the market. December wheat dropped to 53¼c early, or 6¾c under the high of a week ago. Scattered liquidation and stop loss selling was in evidence, but the market quickly righted itself.

Buying against bids, on resting orders and by shorts absorbed the surplus in the wheat pit. Toward the last there was buying by houses with eastern connections. The latter disclosed a lack of pressure. The day's close was at the top with prices unchanged to ¼c higher. September closed at 50⅝c; December, 54⅞@54½c, and May, 59⅝@59¾c.

Better Class of Buying.

A feature of the wheat market was the aggressive buying by commission houses which appeared on the break, and was taken as suggesting that strong eastern interests were again inclined to take the buying side. Many of the local element were short and covered on the way up. With the exception of reports of dry weather in parts of Argentina, which is said to have caused considerable damage to flaxseed, there was little change in the general tenor of the crop reports.

Pressure to sell Canadian wheat abroad is extremely heavy with No. 2 Manitoba quoted at a discount abroad under the offerings from other countries. Based on purchases of futures at Winnipeg it was estimated sales of around 1,000,000 bu were made for export yesterday. The Canadian market sold at a new low for the season early, but rallied and closed ¼c lower to ⅛c higher with December at 54¾c in Canadian funds. Deliveries of wheat at interior points in the prairie provinces Monday aggregated 6,351,000 bu, against 2,925,000 bu last year.

Independent weakness was shown in Liverpool early, where wheat closed equal to 1⅜@1⅞ per bu lower, December being 57¼c, or 3¾c over Chicago at the time, the difference being the same as on Monday.

New Low on Corn.

September corn sold at 27c yesterday, equaling the lowest figure touched by any delivery so far during the current depression. Scattered liquidation developed early, and the December also dropped into new low ground for the season. Buying against bids and short covering caused a reaction from the inside figures, but the finish was ⅛@¼c lower. September closed at 27¾c; December, 30⅛@30⅜c, and May, 35⅝c.

Yesterday's low on September corn of 27c compared with a high of $1,15½ per bu for the cash grain in 1928. Routine news was ineffective as far as the market was concerned. The country sold 95,000 bu to arrive while shipping sales were 21,000 bu.

Intimations of export bids from abroad were received from the seaboard, and in some quarters hope of foreign sales was entertained. It was pointed out that Chicago September is around 6@6½c under the Buenos Aires market.

September oats sold down to 15c, a new low for the season, and closed there, showing a net loss of ½c for the day. Deferred futures finished unchanged with December 17⅞c and May 20⅝c. No. 2 white oats in the sample market sold at 16¾c, a new low since 1897, when the inside figure was 15⅝c. Rye was ⅛@¼c higher with September, 31½; December, 33¾c, and May, 38⅝c.

ALIENS SEEK WHEAT

Wheat markets were stirred up late yesterday by a press cable announcing that French, English, and American middlemen were negotiating with the federal farm board for 50,000,000 bu of wheat. Word came when prices were at the lowest of the day and started a buying movement which advanced prices about 1c a bushel in a short time.

Traders in wheat figure that the farm board has 45,000,000 bu of cash wheat that it is holding for the Red Cross, also about 6,000,000 bu of the original 40,000,000 bu given the Red Cross by the federal farm board that had not been delivered to them, the latter taking its wheat as needed to save paying storage. It was said that the farm board might reimburse the Red Cross by taking delivery on its large holdings of futures during the month of December.

George S. Milnor, president of the Grain Stabilization corporation, was not in Chicago yesterday and the other farm board officials said they knew nothing of negotiations with any foreign syndicate. An official of the Red Cross said it might be possible, but he knew nothing about it.

SUGAR.

NEW YORK, Sept. 13.—(AP)—SUGAR—Raw was unchanged today but there appeared to be a better buying interest from refiners at the 3.10c level for spots, with holders asking fractionally higher. The only sale confirmed was 10,000 bags of Porto Rican loading tomorrow at 3.11c to an operator.

Futures were generally higher, influenced by the better inquiry in the spot market. The market opened unchanged to 1 point higher. Offerings were readily absorbed and prices gradually hardened under increased covering and buying by houses with Cuban connections. December contracts rallied from 1.08c to 1.12c, and final prices were the best of the session, 1 to 3 points net higher, with the exception of the spot month, which was net unchanged. Volume was fair. Approximate sales were 22,150 tons. Prices follow:

Estimated receipts at Chicago today: Cattle, 8,000; hogs, 15,000; sheep, 10,000.

The cattle market staged a strong rally on light receipts yesterday. A new top for the season of $10.25 was made with 1,240 lb steers, while yearling stock also moved into new high price channels when reports from the wholesale trade indicated that lighter beef carcasses were coming into their own again for the first time in weeks.

Prospects of light mid-week supplies contributed to the action. Advance estimates placed today's run at five leading markets at 24,800, against actual arrivals of 33,300 last Wednesday. Yesterday's total at twenty markets showed a decrease of 28 per cent, compared with a week ago. Most sales were strong to 25c higher, a big share showing the full gain. All classes of cows and heifers were steady to 25c higher.

Calves advanced fully 50c. Stockers and feeders were in liberal supply, but country demand was good and prices ruled strong to higher.

With range cattle moving into market in slightly larger numbers, buying of feeder steers is gradually increasing. Some of the larger cattle feeders are holding back because of the uncertainty of credit. J. H. Clark, Hancock county, Ill., who annually turns approximately 20,000 bu of corn into beef and pork, commented on the situation confronting the cattle feeder. "The outcome for the cattle feeder next year depends almost entirely on the amount of credit extended to the corn belt during the next two months," he said. "Money is scarce and indications are that not many will be in a position to get enough animals to consume their corn.

"Should money loosen up before the range cattle season ends the corn belt will load up with feeders and we will have too much beef to sell next year. The cattle man is eager to feed his large corn crop and try to get in on some of the current high money in the cattle game."

Hog Market Slower.

The hog market turned reactionary after getting away to a good lively start yesterday. The finish was draggy and barely steady with the average trade on Monday. A substantial decrease in supplies sent buyers scurrying through the pens for early droves, but this action was rather short lived. A sluggish wholesale trade for fresh pork proved a stumbling block, and buyers easily rubbed out the first advances when reports came in from the meat trade. Underweights and pigs were exceptionally scarce and in good demand at 15@25c higher prices, selling mostly during the first rounds.

Light sows also moved up 5@10c, while others sold mostly steady. Extremely heavy butchers sagged 5@10c late. The extreme top and general average prices remained steady at $4.65 and $4.20, respectively. Supplies are running unusually small for this time of year. Combined receipts of hogs at the 11 leading markets for Monday and Tuesday at 139,000 compare with 191,000 a year ago and with 181,000 two years ago.

Producers on the market with swine testify to the fact that hogs are paying their way for the farmer at prevailing prices at the public stock yards. Many of the fall pigs selling at $4.00@4.35 were bought at $3.00@3.75 as feeders earlier in the year. Some this week averaging 327 lbs at $4.10 had cost $3.70 in February when they averaged 87 lbs. The owner fed corn that had cost an average of 25c per bu. Other pigs he bought in May cost $3.30, averaging 80 lbs.

Lambs Reach $6.75.

There was a two-way trend in the lamb market yesterday. A scarcity of high quality native lambs sent these up to 15@25c to a high of $6.75, which equals the highest price paid for lambs in almost two months. The rank and file, however, sold on a draggy all-day trade that closed a flat 25c lower. Most natives sold at $5.50@6.25, with bulk of top range lambs at $5.75@6.25 late in the afternoon. The substantial decrease in receipts had little influence. Seven markets in two days show a shortage of 105,000 compared with a year ago, the Monday and Tuesday run at 126,000 comparing with 230,000 in 1931.

Receipts at Chicago for today are estimated at 8,000 cattle, 15,000 hogs, and 16,000 sheep, against 10,052 cattle, 17,038 hogs, and 28,556 sheep the previous Wednesday and 7,303 cattle, 17,034 hogs, and 17,445 sheep, a year ago.

PRODUCE MARKETS

Fresh eggs were in good demand and generally ½@1c higher. Receipts, 4,826 cases. Butter was generally unchanged with receipts 7,847 tubs. Live fryers and springs were ½c lower with Rock springs off 1c, while old ducks were 1c higher and spring ducks ½@2c higher. Receipts, 1 car and 47 trucks. Northern potatoes were stronger and western easier. Receipts, 31 cars with 160 cars on team track.

COTTON CLOSES LOWER; DECLINES $1.50 A BALE

Cotton markets were weak during a good part of the day, with a decline of 15 to 20 points at the opening and a later sagging price movement ended with trading around the inside figures for the day with net losses on futures in Chicago of 21 to 32 points and in other markets of 26 to 32 points, the latter in New York. Spots in New York were off 35 points to 7.40c, New Orleans dropped 30 points to 7.35c, Galveston 7.25c, and Houston 7.30c. Net losses were about $1.50 a bale. Liverpool closed 32 to 33 points net lower. Weakness in grains and stocks had a depressing influence. The Maine election decided in favor of the Democrats was regarded as a bearish factor in trading. Weather conditions throughout the south were generally favorable. Traders are going slower on the buying side, except on breaks. Logan & Bryan says the technical position of the market has been improved. Prices follow:

COTTONSEED OIL.

NEW YORK, Sept. 13.—(AP)—COTTONSEED OIL—Bleachable was easy at net declines of 13 to 17 points, with sales of 56 contracts, or 3,400 barrels. The early decline in cotton led to renewed liquidation and commission house selling, with demand light and limited to scale down covering. The bullish census report showing consumption in August of 346,753 barrels, against 250,343 consumed in July and 196,859 in August last year, was apparently ignored. Crude oil was quoted at 3¾ to 3¾ in the southeast and the valley, and nominal in Texas. Bleachable spot closed 4.50c: September, 4.50c; December, 4.48c; January, 4.53c; March, 4.72c.

RUMANIA JOINS; WORLD PACT ON OIL IS NEARER

Russia Expected as Next Member.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Sept. 13.—Final ratification by Rumania of the international oil curtailment was hailed here today as a definite step forward.

Higher Prices for Europe.

The significant factor in the situation following Rumania's ratification of the curtailment plans was the forecast of a 20 per cent increase in prices for petroleum products throughout Europe.

That the Russian oil syndicate will be willing to confer again with the Continental American group of producers, refiners and marketers, is indicated by the fact that the soviet union has need for foreign credit.

Because of that it was suggested in oil circles today, there is some probability of the Continental group and soviet representatives meeting on a common trading ground with regard to supplies of oil and its by-products being purchased from Russia and distributed.

Previous Failure Recalled.

When the first of the conferences were held in New York last spring the bone of contention was the amount of petroleum the European-American distributors would take from the soviets. This will again be the point at issue when the two groups meet to effect an agreement as to curtailed output and distribution

Bright Spots of Day's Business News

At Bloomington, Ill.—Workers are busy 23 out of 24 hours in the majority of departments of the Williams Oil-O-Matic Heating corporation. In the last 30 days 110 have been put back to work, making 340 men on the shop pay roll at present. That does not include other branches of the business.

In New York City the Kleinert Rubber company has called back 800, resuming a five day week schedule.

Blanket mills are said to be so well supplied with orders prompt deliveries on some sorts are impossible.

It is reported the International Shoe company and Endicott-Johnson company have notified dealers that prices on some styles have been advanced from 2½ to 5 cents a pair.

American, Canadian, and British representatives at the opening of the seventh annual convention of the Canadian Chamber of Commerce at Halifax, N. S., agreed the upturn in business has been reached.

A survey of the southern Illinois area around Centralia showed a rapid upturn in general business since resumption of coal mining under a new wage scale a month ago.

DAILY AVERAGE CRUDE OUTPUT SHOWS INCREASE

New York, Sept. 13.—(AP)—Daily average gross crude oil production in the United States increased 40,450 barrels in the week ended Sept. 10, totaling 2,167,700 barrels, the American Petroleum Institute's weekly summary indicates. Daily average production east of California increased 35,550 barrels to 1,685,400 barrels.

Refineries representing 95.1 per cent of estimated total capacity operated at 55.5 per cent of their capacity, reported daily average runs of crude oil to stills as 2,031,100 barrels. Daily average the previous week for refineries representing 95.1 per cent of total, operated at 53.6 per cent of capacity, was 1,964,300 barrels.

Some Price Cuts Made.

Pittsburgh, Pa., Sept. 13.—(AP)—A reduction of 15 cents a barrel in Pennsylvania grade crude oil was announced today by leading purchasing agents. The new prices are: Pennsylvania grade in southwest lines, $1.67; Eureka lines, $1.52, and Buckeye lines, $1.37. Other grades are unchanged.

To Lease Oil Lands.

Washington, D. C., Sept. 13.—(AP)—The interior department announced today that leases for 1,913 acres of government owned oil and gas deposits in the Hugoton gas field in Stevens and Morton counties, Kas., and Texas county, Okla., will be sold at public auction to the highest bidder on Oct. 6 at Hugoton, Kas. Sealed bids may be submitted before that date.

British Columbia May Sell Pacific Great Eastern R. R.

VICTORIA, B. C., Sept. 13.—(AP)—The British Columbia government, it was learned today, has under consideration a definite offer from British and United States interests to purchase the government owned and operated Pacific Great Eastern railway. The offer, it is understood, would permit extension of the line to the Peace river district, liquidate the 20 million dollar bond guarantee on the road, and leave a balance to apply to general debt reduction at completion. While official confirmation of the offer was not available, it was admitted in government circles that proposals to purchase have been made and that they are being considered. The offer was understood to total about 45½ million dollars.

Commonwealth Customers—PAY LESS—for LOANS

THE personal property which nearly every family owns and the signature of husband and wife enable one to secure any amount up to $300 quickly and easily.

You get the full amount of the loan, and no 6 per month interest at the REDUCED RATE is charged only while you keep the money.

Also Salary and Auto Loans.
